

Peru's Major Landholdings Nationalized

Revolutionary Government of Velasco Wants to End Inequity

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Juan Velasco has announced the revolutionary government will nationalize all major landholdings in Peru to "end once and for all the unfair social order that has kept peasants in poverty and inequity." The sweeping land reform law, to be published today, is aimed at replacing the country's sprawling private estates with agrarian-industrial cooperatives.

It also will involve expropriation of foreign-held lands, including holdings of the U.S.-owned Cerro de Pasco mining firm and W. R. Grace & Co., which has sugar and paper interests in Peru.

Low Ebb
Relations between Lima and Washington have been at a low ebb since Velasco seized power last October and expropriated the International Petroleum Co. refinery. ICC is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. The United States has halted arms sales to Peru and threatened to cut off all aid.

The new law also will affect Casagrande, one of the world's biggest sugar plantations, which stretches from the Pacific Ocean to the eastern region of the Peruvian Andes.

Velasco said agrarian reform "will mark the start of the true liberation of the national peasantry." The peasant, he added, no longer will be "the outcast and defenseless being who used to live in poverty from birth to death and impotently saw an equally desperate future coming for his children."

Resistance Intolerable
The president warned that resistance will not be tolerated and the reform "will be applied in all the nation. There will be no privileges or cases of exception recognized that would favor certain groups or interests."

"We say to the oligarchy that we are determined to apply all necessary energy to eliminate all sabotage against the new law or any other attempt to subvert public order."

A few hours before Velasco's announcement, the government charged that the National Agrarian Society, an organization of big landlords, planned to "carry out an intense campaign by television to stop the implementation of the reform, to halt sales of agricultural products to create a shortage, to start strikes to stop production and marketing, to block roads with the aim of disturbing transportation of big landlords, planned to make cane sugar workers to cooperate in sabotage."

The government communique claimed the effort would be "coordinated with a political party which offered its collaboration to stop the agrarian reform." It did not name the party.

Landlord's Plague
Farmers were warned not to take part in the campaign and told the law would "free the underdefended farmers from the landlord's plague."

After the law was announced, the society attacked it, charging that society officials had not been consulted. The measure was worked out by the government in strict secrecy.

With Velasco in the government palace when he read the announcement to the nation were Juan Cardinal Landazuri and top military and civil officials.

The president did not explain details of the measure but said it would establish a new society of "farmer communities" resembling those of the ancient Inca empire. He said it would eliminate estates and stimulate expansion of small and medium sized properties.

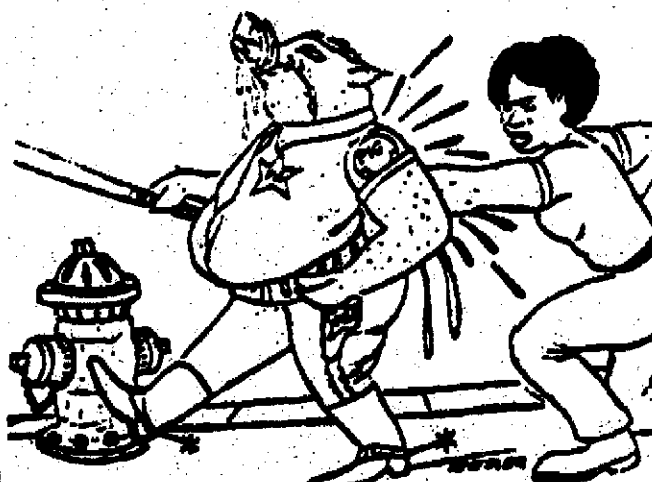

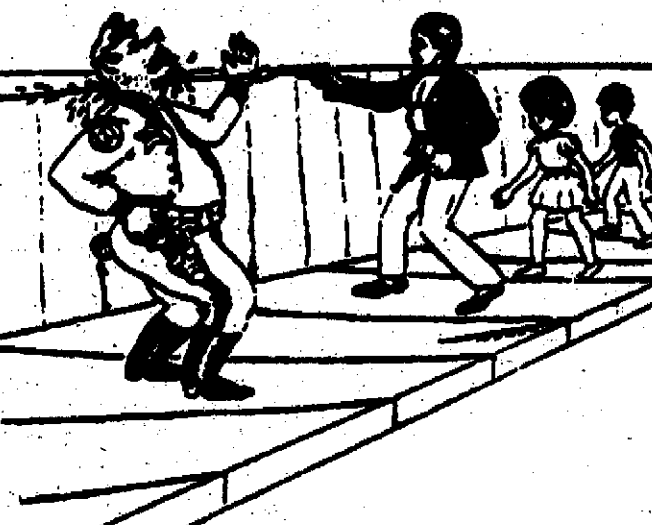

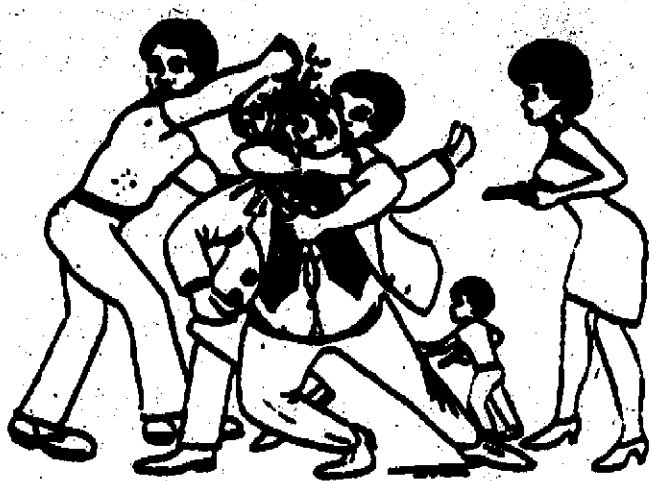

Velasco did not say how expropriated land would be paid for, but it was learned that at least some property would be purchased with cash. He indicated that other land would be paid for with bonds "to which the revolutionary government will provide all the required guarantees."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson was the guest of her successor as first lady, Pat Nixon, at a White House tea Tuesday.

Mrs. Johnson came to Washington from Texas Sunday to help her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, move into a house in nearby Arlington, Va.

Miami Traffic Stopped Train Kept Down Toll in Air Crash

MIAMI (AP) — A slow-moving freight train running late blocked traffic on N.W. 36th Street Monday moments before a fiery crash of a cargo plane — a coincidence that may have prevented a far higher death toll.

The Dominican Air Lines plane spewed a block-long wall of fire down the street, killing 10 persons.

"Traffic on 36th Street usually is terrific at that hour," said John Shelbrick, a mechanic who works on the street. "But suddenly it was dead. I looked west and saw the train at the crossing."

Homeward Rush
Normally, the street would have been clogged with east-bound cars as thousands of workers from two huge Miami International Airport maintenance shops headed homeward.

The Pan American Airlines shift changes at 3:15 p.m., Eastern Airlines at 3:30 p.m.

The plane, with one engine failing and another afire, crashed at 3:40 p.m.

The Seaboard Coast Line's main north-south track crosses 36th Street four blocks from the crash scene.

Normally, the train makes the crossing at about 3:30 p.m., but the conductor, W. H. Weede, said some switching difficulties made it about 10 minutes late.

Final Turn
With engineer M. B. Marcus at the controls, the train passed the crossing at 3:40 p.m., just as the doomed DC4 was making its final turn in a futile effort to get back to the runway from which it had just taken off.

Federal investigators searched today for mechanics who worked on the plane before takeoff. Airport witnesses said it was serviced by two or three moonlighting mechanics from other cargo lines before it took off trailing smoke from one of its four engines.

Brad Dunbar, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said an investigating team was trying to trace the mechanics "and, we hope, learn what the trouble was before takeoff."

Surtax Extension Voted by Senate

Current Rate Is Favored For 31 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the House Wednesday a 31-day extension of the present income tax withholding rates, which are based on the 10 per cent surcharge.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision against a House vote today on President Nixon's surtax extension bill has shattered administration hopes for an early, dramatic anti-inflation move.

House leaders called off the crucial vote after head counts showed the measure to continue the surtax past its June 30 expiration date was likely to be defeated.

No new date was set for bringing the bill to the House. Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma told reporters it will not be called up until after the July 4th congressional recess.

The Nixon bill would extend the surtax at 10 per cent for six months at a 5 per cent for a second six-month period, ending June 30, 1970. Other provisions repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit, provide for a special low income allowance taking two million poor families off the tax rolls, and give some tax relief to about 13 million taxpayers.

Jubilant Bloc
Jubilant members of the Democratic bloc which has been fighting the bill in its present form said the House Ways and Means Committee now will be under pressure to speed up work on elimination of some tax preferences and incorporate them in the surtax extension bill.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, one of the group, predicted the delay will not gain any votes for the measure as it is now written.

House Speaker John McCormack told newsmen the postponement was decided on at the request of Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has been suffering bouts of intestinal illness.

However, other leadership sources said a check of Democratic showed most uncommitted — and a 2-1 sentiment against surtax extension among those who had made up their minds.

Democratic Votes
To get the measure passed, 80 to 90 Democratic votes are needed to go with 120 to 130 GOP votes, two-thirds of the minority's membership.

The Ways and Means Committee is working on broader tax reforms with the goal of bringing in a comprehensive bill early in August.

The insurgents have contended, however, unless substantial reforms were included in the surtax extension bill — or the extension were limited to a few weeks — the chance for what they call loophole closing might be lost.

Committee members disclosed a last-minute effort was made and defeated to include a reduction of the 27½ per cent oil

Skeptical at Reports

Kennedy Displeased With Handling of War Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has told the Nixon administration he is not satisfied with the handling of South Vietnam's million-plus war refugees.

Kennedy laid out his position as his special subcommittee opened hearing Tuesday.

"This subcommittee is still distressed by the continued lack of urgency in the concern of Washington and Saigon for the daily lives of the South Vietnamese people," Kennedy said.

"We in the subcommittee have developed a natural skepticism of endless rosy reports that emanate from the civilian as well as the military side of the war."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic Leader, disputed Defense Department testimony that improved resettlement efforts and changed military tactics had reduced the number of refugees.

Reduce Violence
"The only way to really reduce refugees is by reduction of violence — and that goes for the Viet Cong as well as ourselves," Kennedy said.

John A. Hanna, administrator of the Agency for International Development, and Warren Nutt, assistant secretary of defense, said there were 1.2 million temporary refugees in Vietnam as of last month — 116,000 fewer than at the year's start.

Under questioning by Kennedy, however, they said many civilians still are being displaced by combat and many return to their villages to find their homes destroyed.

Kennedy said he had inspected refugee camps in Vietnam and found "refugees" living on one side of a street while on the other side, living in the same conditions, were displaced civilians who had been compensated for the loss of their homes and were considered "resettled."

Still Refugees
"You can fiddle around with the figures all you want," said Kennedy, "but they are still refugees."

The United States and the government of South Vietnam have failed, Kennedy said, to win the allegiance of the Asian nation's people.

The millions of refugees and civilian casualties would have been a source of political strength if they had been properly cared for and treated, he said.

"Now there is serious question whether there is time or energy left to care for the victims of this war," said Kennedy.

Their Choice
"The day is fast approaching when the people of Vietnam, by ballot or action, will declare their choice for the future. Where the millions of refugees stand could have been decisive. But we have little or no assurance that they will stand for all that we offered 35,000 American lives to gain."

Hanna testified there had been great improvements in programs to care for refugees since 1967, that camps had been improved and hospitals had been built with AID financing.

"What we are trying to emphasize today is the situation is greatly improved since 1967 but it is not good enough," he said.

He cited statistics to show immunizations against cholera, plague and smallpox in Vietnam had risen to 27.8 million last year as compared to 4.1 million in 1966.

Those Who Defied Soviet Invasion 'Enemies' of Czech Government

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak students who defied Soviet tanks in the streets of Prague last August have become the "enemy" of their government.

How does the leadership treat its enemy? It censors their publicity, cuts off their funds, bans demonstrations and eliminates their student organization to set up a more obedient, if unrepresentative, body. Enter the "Preparatory Committee of a New Union of University Students in the Czech Republic."

The student resistance in August helped save, temporarily, the liberal leadership of Premier Oldrich Cernik and Communist Party boss Alexander Dubcek. Both had been arrested and taken to Moscow, but were returned to Prague.

Things Different
Things have changed in 10 months of Russian occupation. Cernik is still premier but Dubcek was downgraded in April to chairman of the Parliament, a largely ceremonial post. The new Communist Party chief, Gustav Husak, pursues a policy of ignoring the invasion and striving to keep the Kremlin happy.

In January and February, two Czech students, Jan Palach and Jan Zajic, burned themselves to death in downtown Prague to protest repression of Dubcek's liberal reforms.

The first showdown came just after Husak became party chief.

The Czech student congress voted 71 to 70 with 27 abstentions to join the party-run National Front, the only official channel for political activity. This was short of the required two-thirds majority and the proposal failed.

Union Chairman
Josef Trencansky, a pro-government backer of the National Front proposal, became the new chairman of the union. But he resigned a month later after failing to bring the influential Prague students into the front.

Karel Kovanda, a staunch opponent of party control, became acting chairman.

On May 6 the Czech government canceled publication rights for the union's magazine, Studentske Listy.

Then last week, with many college students on vacation, the government announced the union would be disbanded because it was still outside the National Front while carrying on political activity "injurious to Czechoslovak foreign policy interests."

The union issued a statement calling the order "an abuse of the law in the interests of the bureaucratic political center that for the time being has taken power in Czechoslovakia."

New Group
This week, a pro-government student group surfaced with a 600-word statement printed in many newspapers. The "Preparatory Committee," as it called itself, said the old union had isolated itself from the country's politics and had ceased to be representative of students.

It was the first Czech student statement allowed published in the daily press in months.

Trencansky was reported to have played a master role in formation of the Preparatory Committee, which said it would cooperate with the party, state organs, trade unions and the Slovak students and become politically active in the National Front.

It admitted the new union does not expect a majority of Czech students to join at first, but predicted the membership eventually will increase.

Guerrilla Base Strated by Israeli Planes

TIBERIAS, Israel (AP) — Two Israeli jet fighters bombed and strafed an Arab guerrilla stronghold inside Jordan today after guerrillas attacked an army patrol in the Beisan valley, the Israelis reported.

The planes launched a 25-minute assault on Adasiya, an uninhabited cluster of huts facing the Israeli settlement of Ashdot Yaakov near the southern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses said the planes encountered antiaircraft fire but returned to base undamaged. The patrol also was unharmed, they said.

Witnesses said several shells from Jordan crashed into a children's nursery at Ma'oz Haim, a few miles south of Ashdot several hours before the air strike.

The children were sleeping in underground shelters and were not injured.

The Israeli army announced its troops killed one of a group of guerrillas trying to infiltrate into Israel east of Geshor. Witnesses said several sacks filled with explosives were left by the guerrillas.

Other informed sources reported saboteurs tried to attack an Israeli army outpost east of the Sea of Galilee where the Syrian, Jordanian and Israeli borders meet. They said the guerrillas attacked with grenades and light arms after firing mortar salvos at the outpost, but were repulsed with no Israeli casualties.

Foreign Policy Part Of Security Program

State Department Role Appears to be Diminishing Under Nixon Administration

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A middle-level state department officer, asked when Secretary of State William Rogers would see a confidential report he was drafting on Southeast Asia, said he did not have the faintest idea. "It's not Rogers I'm worried about," he said, "it's Henry Kissinger."

This otherwise small incident tells much about the silent revolution now taking place in the vasty important formulation and carrying out of foreign policy inside the Nixon administration.

The fact is that for the first time in at least 25 years, since the latter part of the Roosevelt administration, the secretary of state now takes a secondary role behind the President's national security chief. Although intimates of both Rogers and Kissinger fall all over themselves to deny this, it nevertheless has been an obvious fact since Jan. 20. It became even more so by Mr. Nixon's choice of Kissinger, not Rogers, to be at his side in his crucial summit chat with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at Midway Island ten days ago.

Expansion of Power
One little-noticed jurisdictional change ordered by President Nixon soon after he took office tells much about the expansion of power within Kissinger's White House office.

Cutting through the turgid language of the bureaucracy, this change in effect ordered all action or policy proposals developed within the state department to go to Kissinger's office in the White House with or without specific clearance by Rogers or Undersecretary Elliot Richardson. Previously, only recommendations carrying the secretary or undersecretary's okay found their way to the White House. This directive was part of Mr. Nixon's move to rebuild the policymaking power of the national security council, in disuse the past eight years.

Likewise, Kissinger's influence, as a direct result of Mr. Nixon's wishes and Kissinger's own unique expertise in the mysterious ways of the bureaucracy, has also been extended over Secretary Melvin Laird's defense department. But his way is far more apparent over state's traditional role as maker of foreign policy than over the Pentagon's defense role.

The decline of the state department today results from more mundane causes than presidential directives. Kissinger is one of this country's few recognized experts in virtually every aspect of foreign policy, from the significance of nuclear weapons to the war in Vietnam. But Rogers took over as secretary of state with no experience whatsoever.

Thus Kissinger, operating at Mr. Nixon's very elbow, has been dispensing advice from the first day Mr. Nixon entered the White House while Rogers has been going through a grueling learning process. Furthermore, the President's inauguration day order to Rogers for a top-to-bottom review of all U.S. policies abroad, from arms control to Swaziland, has all but immobilized the state department.

Beyond that, Rogers has not yet filled the all-important post of head of the state department secretariat, a post that in the past has acted as the secretary of state's indispensable eyes and ears within the department. Rogers is expected to fill this job soon, with strong indications it will go to Theodore Eliot, a foreign service officer now in charge of Iranian affairs.

Other Jobs Unfilled
That is not the only high, unfilled job in the department. Another is the chief of the department's policy-planning staff, vacant since January.

Rogers is now considering a radical change in the operation of the policy-planning staff. In effect, this change would abolish its traditional function of providing long-range policy advice to the secretary and make it a back-up staff for the department's seventh floor, where top officials have their offices.

This projected change tells much about the growth of power in the office of Henry Kissinger. What is now being worked out by Rogers and Richardson is to use the planning staff as a major new source of day-to-day working papers for study by the national security council, whose boss (under the President) is Kissinger himself.

The effect of this will be further enhancement of Kissinger and his staff of some 30 top-grade experts — twice the size of the staff under his two predecessors, McGeorge Bundy and Walt Rostow — and a deepening of the silent revolutionary ways of the bureau-

Children Want to Know Truth About Drugs, Sex

NEW YORK (AP) — School children are eager for health education on a variety of subjects, including sex and drugs—and they want frank, factual knowledge.

Thus concludes a survey of 8,000 Connecticut youngsters from kindergarten through high school seniors.

Entitled "Teach Us What We Want To Know," and sponsored jointly by the Connecticut State Department of Education and the Mental Health Materials Center in New York City, the study found that "our children and youth are more mature in thought and judgment than adults in general believe . . . They are more ready and eager to assume more responsibility than we are usually willing to grant them."

"Alcohol is recognized as a social problem in grades four and five," wrote the study's authors Dr. Ruth V. Byler, Dr. Gertrude M. Lewis and Ruth J. Totman.

Teach About Drinking

"The idea of teaching about drinking in order that teenagers might drink more intelligently begins at the sixth grade level and continues in every grade level thereafter."

As for drugs, children in grades four and five "know the names of many of today's drugs and are curious about their use and effects."

By the sixth grade, many children express resentment against those who make, sell or "push" drugs, and believe the government should stop such manufacture.

"The lure and fear of drugs is evident in grade seven, and increases in grades eight and nine. Sophisticated acceptance and partial approval are evident in grades 10 to 12. The quest for truth about drugs persists in every grade."

By the seventh grade, the survey finds, students want clearer knowledge about which drugs are useful or harmful, and about the effects of drugs both on the users and on unborn children.

Education about drugs the study said, should begin in the sixth grade.

"Students in the 12th grade are certain that marijuana is not habit forming, and that it should be legalized as tobacco is," the survey reports.

Turning to cigarette smoking and publicity linking it with lung cancer, the study said: "As early as grade four, children begin to express fear for their parents, horror that anyone would dare to smoke, and fury at the manufacturers and salesmen of cigarettes, especially those who sell to children."

"Recognition of the fact that adults advocate one way and act another appears first in grade six."

Troubles Bring Little-Known Foundations Into Limelight

Congress Preparing Regulation, Tax Department Eying Income

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foundations, known for years to the average American only vaguely as impressive piles of money available for good works, are in the limelight and in trouble this year as they have not been for a generation.

A Supreme Court justice has resigned, another is under fire—both because of foundation payments—tax reform advocates have found a prime target, Congress is preparing to regulate the foundations more stringently and, quite likely, tax their income for the first time.

What's the fuss all about? Just what are foundations, and how big are they, and what they are now doing that may soon be forbidden.

Vague Answers

The answers are not all clear cut. In the first place, nobody has ever said officially what a foundation is. The Internal Revenue Code sections on tax exemption include them with other institutions operating "exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals."

The Foundation Center, an information and reference service maintained by several major tax-exempt bodies, defines a foundation as "a nongovernmental, nonprofit organization having a principal fund of its own, managed by its own trustees or directors, and established to maintain or aid social, educational, charitable, religious, or other activities serving the common welfare."

22,000 Foundations

Using this definition, the center estimates that there were 22,000 foundations in the country at the end of 1968—up 2,000 in a year—with total assets of $20.5 billion and disbursements of $1.5 billion during the year.

The Internal Revenue Service, using a more elastic definition, put the number at 30,000, ranging from the giant Ford Foundation with assets of more than $3.5 billion, down to individuals "incorporated pocketbooks" with a few donated securities.

In terms of total resources, the giants clearly dominate the field. The center estimates that 7 per cent of the foundations hold more than 90 per cent of the total assets; 27 foundations have assets exceeding $100 million each.

Detail Study

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., Congress' most persistent critic of foundations, said 596 of them, studied in detail in the course of his eight-year investigation, had receipts of $2.7 billion in 1965-66, including $990 million in capital gains, $39.8 million in profits on business operations and $506.6 million in contributions.

In absolute amounts, foundations account for a significant proportion of private philanthropy.

py. The American Association of Fund-Raising Council estimated that total voluntary giving approximate $15.6 billion in 1968 and that of this amount foundations gave $1.5 billion.

When investigating congressmen showed signs of unease at such tax-free sums being accumulated and disbursed by relatively few private citizens, foundation spokesmen were quick to point out to the House Ways and Means Committee that total foundation assets amount to much less than 1 per cent of the total private financial assets of the nation and foundation spending amounted to only six-tenths of 1 per cent of all government spending at all levels.

Continue Growing

Congress, however, remains worried about the extent of foundation wealth, perpetuated by exemption from income and inheritance taxes and growing by natural increase as well as donations. It shows concern also about abuse of the tax exemption privilege, even though there is no evidence that more than a small minority of foundations—typically minor personal ones—have been guilty of making money for founders or donors under the tax exemption umbrella.

This has not been a happy year for the foundations. Just when Patman's long investigation began to show signs of producing regulatory legislation, just when the insistent demand for tax reform brought all exemptions under scrutiny, three instances of foundation payments made headlines and set off a roar of criticism—although all apparently were perfectly legal. These were:

Kennedy Aides

—The Ford Foundation's grant of $131,000 in travel and study funds to eight former aides of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy who had been left adrift by his assassination.

—The payment of $20,000, later returned, to Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas by the family foundation of Louis E. Wolfson, financier subsequently sentenced to prison for securities law violation.

—The disclosure that Justice William O. Douglas had been receiving $12,000 a year as president of the Albert Parvin Foundation, which had been set up with proceeds of the sale of a hotel and gambling casino in Las Vegas.

Within the broad guidelines of the Internal Revenue Code, foundations may and do engage in an immense variety of activities. They must stick to broadly stated philanthropic purposes, they may not devote assets or income to personal gain, they must keep their educational activities clear of propaganda, lobbying or political campaigns.

More Regulations

Additional specific restrictions were put into the code in 1950, aimed at preventing self-dealing with donors, founders or substantial contributors. Tax-exempt organizations may not, where such persons or close relatives are concerned, make loans without reasonable return, pay unreasonable compensation, make services available on a preferential basis, buy or sell property at unrealistic prices. The 1950 act also forbids unreasonable accumulation of income, without setting precise guidelines.

McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, said its grants to the Kennedy aides were entirely justified on educational grounds and that the recipients worked hard on their study projects. Later, however, he said that in retrospect the grants were unwise.

Fortas said he accepted a proposal to help the Wolfson foundation develop a program for improvement of community relations and promotion of racial and religious cooperation. He was to be paid $20,000 a year for life, with payments continued to his wife if she survived him. He said he decided he could not carry out the assignment and returned the initial $20,000 payment, the only one he had received.

Fortas Resigned

Insisting he had not intervened to help Wolfson in his legal difficulties or done anything wrong, Fortas nevertheless resigned from the court.

The foundation Douglas headed carried on educational work, including providing study opportunities at Princeton and the University of California at Los Angeles for foreigners. Douglas resigned from the foundation, but not from the court.

No matter how well the legal requirements are observed in foundation payments to persons in public life or politics, congressional sentiment is clearly running against such payments.

A related issue is what some critics call the shuttling back and forth of some people from foundation to government posts. Dean Rusk, for example, was president of the Rockefeller Fund before he became secretary of state and returned to the fund after leaving office.

Bundy Was President Lyndon B. Johnson's

national security adviser before becoming president of the Ford Foundation. John W. Gardner left the Carnegie Foundation to become secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and after his Cabinet service joined the National Urban Coalition, a foundation-aided nonprofit organization.

"It's a little hard to tell whether some of these people are working for the government or working for foundations and on loan to the government," one critic observed.

Foundation spokesmen defending their institutions before congressional committees have argued that American life would be impoverished without the free-wheeling, innovative projects foundations can support.

The private bodies, they said, can risk making mistakes from which government would recoil and can back unpopular causes that later are acclaimed.

Abate Hunger

They cited such individual triumphs of foundation enterprise as the control of malaria and yellow fever, the development of new cereal strains and agricultural methods that promise to abate hunger in Latin America, India and the Far East—and even the initial experiments that proved the practicability of rockets.

Historians of the philanthropic foundation like to trace its origins to ancient Greece, but the modern American foundation seems to stem from the period after the Civil War when fortunes piled up fast and some of the more self-conscious rich listened to preaching that wealth created obligations to society.

The income tax, instituted at the time of World War I, gave a powerful additional incentive. Parting with money is less painful if the government is going to get a chunk of it anyway.

Kaukauna Police Find Phone Booth Damaged

KAUKAUNA — Police discovered three holes in a glass telephone booth at Second Street and Crooks Avenue while on patrol Monday night.

The vandalism appeared to have been caused by someone shooting or throwing rocks at the booth, police said.

Baltimore banker George Peabody started the Peabody Educational Fund in 1867 with a $3 million donation to help develop schools in the South. Carnegie, Rockefeller and Sage foundations came along at the turn of the century.

The mushrooming of small foundations got under way in the middle 1940s when income taxes boosted by World War II began biting deep.

It is not particularly hard to start a foundation. It can be set up as a nonprofit organization under the laws of any state or less formally by a deed of trust. The next step is to apply to the Internal Revenue Service for recognition, which not only confers tax exemption on the foundation's income, but also assures the right of contributors to deduct their donations for income tax purposes.

Even a moderately well-to-do individual or family may well find advantage in philanthropy through the foundation method.

Tax Savings

Suppose a man has been making donations amounting to $1,000 a year, and that he also owns stocks for which he paid $1,000 but which are now worth $10,000. If he sold the stocks, he would be liable for capital gains tax on $9,000. But he could donate them to his own foundation, take a $10,000 charitable deduction against current income, then let the foundation sell the stocks and make his donations from its funds for the next few years. Even if his income is well below the maximum tax bracket he could, by this procedure, direct $10,000 to charities of his choice at a net cost to him of perhaps $3,000.

A foundation can also be used, entirely within the law, to perpetuate family control of a business. When the head of a closely-held corporation dies, his executors may have to sell so much stock to pay inheritance taxes that the heirs no longer maintain control. But a large block of stock could be given or bequeathed to a foundation headed by family members or friends whose votes could be counted on.

Private Business

Going beyond such legitimate and above-board arrangements, some organizers of private foundations have attempted to convert private businesses or professional practices into tax-free entities. The IRS has ruled, for example, that a doctor may not turn an ordinary medical practice into a medical foundation, and it has withdrawn tax exemption from educational organizations which it found actually to be propaganda enterprises.

When the Ways and Means Committee began hearings on tax reform early this year, foundations were the first item on the agenda and Patman was the leadoff witness.

Preliminary Agreement

The committee subsequently announced preliminary agreement on restrictions stiff enough to bring gasps from foundation supporters: A 5 per cent tax on foundations' investment income, a requirement that in general income must be distributed not later than the year after receipt, a ban on direct grants to individuals and on direct financing of such activities as voter registration drives, and a limitation on the proportion of stock a foundation may own in any one business.

There already have been some protests in Congress that these proposals go too far, and there is no telling yet what regulations finally will come out of the legislative mill. But foundations are clearly on the defensive.

Guidelines for Appleton Councilmen Favor Sewerage Charge

Appleton drew a step closer Tuesday night to putting a citywide sewer service charge into effect. The city council's welfare-ordinance committee recommended the appointment of a three-man task force to establish guidelines for the program. Last week the council received a preliminary report from the department of public works which indicated the city was ripe for imposing the charge.

It would mean all water users, including tax exempt properties, would have to pay the special charge.

Not in Budget

However, on the other side of the ledger, the operation of the city sewerage disposal plant would no longer be included in the annual city budget or property tax rate.

The charge would be figured on a percentage of water used by every household or business. The committee, headed by

Everyone Else Does Got Some Problems? Blame the Weather

If your spirits are low and you feel down in the dumps and you don't give a plugged nickel about anything, blame it on the weather.

Everybody else does. Gloomy skies, intermittent rainfall and unseasonable temperatures have taken the joy out of June for most residents of the Fox Valley.

No picnics, refrigerated cook-outs, frigid fishing and wet weather that keeps the youngsters in the house and in mother's hair have combined to depress spirits and give a lot of people a good case of doldrums.

And there's not much to look forward to.

The Fox Cities forecast predicts more cloudy skies and showers likely tonight. The low temperature will be near 58 and Thursday will still be cloudy, possibly a bit warmer and more showers and thundershowers.

The high may be 78 degrees, but that may mean more humidity to contend with.

And precipitation probabilities are 70 per cent tonight and 50 per cent Thursday.

The weather bureau issued

Four Hardy Swimmers Joined the ranks of the Fox Cities Polar Bear Club and braved the frigid waters of Mead Park Pool Tuesday as three shivering life guards maintained their watch. With the water at 60 degrees and June's 'summer' temperatures soaring to 66 under gloomy skies, the popular pool was anything but crowded and the sunbathers conspicuous by their absence. ### Suds-Suppers Substituting

Local Brews Can Wet the Whistle, Too

BY BOB LAUX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Now in its third week, Milwaukee's brewing strike has taken its toll on tap beer supplies in the Fox Cities area, but other brands are making up the slack.

The local Pabst distributor reports he has enough bottle beer to last about three weeks if the strike continues, but no kegs were left.

Bottled Miller's already is gone, according to one dealer, with tap beer expected to run out by the end of the week.

A Schlitz distributor said his stock is still "adequate," but there haven't been any Blatz kegs for a couple weeks and the few cases left won't hold out more than two weeks more.

When the strike started, according to one distributor, beer depots doubled their orders, wanting to stock up for a long drought, but now deliveries have had to be cut in half with non-Milwaukee beers handled by the distributors substituted for them.

With many Milwaukee beer faucets dry, Heileman's Old Style, another major Wisconsin brand, Hamm's beer of Minneapolis and Meister Brau from Chicago have been reaping the benefits of the strike.

Locally-made products such as People's and Chief Oshkosh, both of Oshkosh, and Adler Brau, of Appleton have also been helped, not only by the Milwaukee strike, but by the long-standing strike against Anheuser-Busch, which virtually wiped out the supply of Budweiser in the area.

Foreign Brands

Some beer drinkers in the area also are expected to get their first taste of foreign-made brands, including German, Canadian and Mexican beers and ales.

Production of Adler Brau kegs in Appleton has been going up to meet the demand, said general manager Roland Marx, since tap beer which cannot be refrigerated for any length of time, is dwindling.

Shipments of Chief Oshkosh to the Milwaukee beer market have been noted in the past week.

The amount of Milwaukee beer available in taverns and liquor stores depends on how thirsty area residents get in the next few weeks. Several bartenders report they already are out of draft beer, while others' supplies are holding out for the present.

Teenage bars selling mainly bottled beer don't expect to feel the bite until the distributors run out.

One Appleton bartender said he was going to be "bullheaded." "I think if anybody wants to switch brands, he should start drinking Appleton beer," and support the local product, he said.

Buckley Asks City Welfare Finance Report

Committee Action Delays Payment to County Department

Mayor George Buckley has directed the city finance director to compile a report on Appleton Welfare Department finances and policies, it was disclosed Tuesday night.

As a result, a check payment of $122 to the Outagamie County Welfare Department was held up by the welfare-ordinance committee.

The check voucher, submitted by city welfare director Merton Ehrlicke, was referred back to committee at the last meeting of the city council.

Ehrlicke appeared before the committee Tuesday night and said while he requested the check be made out to Arthur Hoolihan, county clerk and a member of the city council, it should have been merely to the Outagamie County Clerk.

Non-County Resident

Ehrlicke said sometime ago his department granted relief to a non-county resident. Under the law, Outagamie County reimbursed his department. So when the other county made payment, it was sent to the city welfare department, which in turn forwarded the funds back to the county welfare department, which acts as transfer agent.

Ehrlicke said the payment and collection method was standard.

Appleton Wants Its Name Off Oshkosh Air Listing

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A petition has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) in Washington by the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce seeking to have Appleton removed from the Oshkosh air market designation.

Presently, the Oshkosh air market, and North Central Airlines route certificate, is listed by the CAB as "Oshkosh - Appleton." If the chamber petition would be approved, the designation would simply be "Oshkosh."

John Rosebush, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber, said the purpose of the petition was to make it "more convenient for the public using air travel to distinguish between the services available between the Oshkosh and Outagamie County airports."

Both the City of Appleton and Outagamie County have joined the chamber as petitioners.

The hyphenated listing is the result of a CAB ruling in 1964 which designated Winnebago County as the regional airport for the area and permitted North Central to serve Appleton from Oshkosh.

Causes Confusion

One of the major problems cited by the chamber is that many air travelers, trying to reach Appleton are misdirected to Oshkosh because of the joint designation.

The chamber contends, in the petition, that "facts and circumstances existing at the time the board designated the hyphenated points no longer exist."

At that time, the chamber reported, "there was a struggle between the two communities (Oshkosh and Appleton) to gain scheduled air carrier service then provided by only North Central. This resulted in a controversy involving community pride and there developed jealousies and animosities that one may expect in such a situation."

However, the chamber said, with the development of the New Outagamie County Airport and Air Wisconsin, the need for controversy involving community pride and there developed jealousies and animosities that one may expect in such a situation.

The three-man group consists of Ralph Gertsch, the Rev. Ralph Sandgren and Thomas Heiss.

Subclassifications

City Personnel Director Jerome Rusch will serve as an advisor and work with the group.

It was agreed at Tuesday's meeting that the first order of business would be to compile a list of job classifications and requirements, along with listing present salaries.

The study group said it would not get into the area of elected officials, Gertsch making the comment, "Under the present setup their main requirement is

Damages Sought From Judge, District Attorney

Ohio Man Granted Another Delay of Trial

Outagamie County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren this morning granted another delay in the trial of a Cincinnati, Ohio, man who has initiated legal action against the judge and District Attorney James R. Long.

Harold B. Lutchin, 36, was to have gone to trial before a 12-member County Court jury this morning for the Dec. 27, 1967, burglary and theft of the Martin J. Hupka Jewelry Store, 336 W. College Ave.

However, Van Susteren, after denying a motion for postponement, reversed his decision and granted a two-week continuance, to July 9.

Lutchin, in a complaint served on Long and Van Susteren today, indicated he is seeking $7,000 for compensatory and punitive damages suffered because his constitutional rights have been denied.

Not Indigent

Van Susteren, on June 6, terminated the court-appointed status of Lutchin's former attorney, Robert Henke, after finding the Cincinnati man no longer was indigent. Van Susteren then ordered trial for today.

Lutchin, who has been free on a $10,000 bond, appeared in court this morning with Appleton attorney Frank Templeton, who said he was retained at 9 a.m. today and needed more time to adequately prepare Lutchin's defense.

Van Susteren denied the initial motion, saying that it has been 18 months since the alleged offense and "... any further delay would make a farce of the law ..."

Van Susteren explained that Lutchin knew 20 days ago he would have to make arrangements to obtain his own attorney.

Templeton then asked for a short recess after which he came back and told the court, "I'm required to do something I know I can't do." He then asked for a minimum of two weeks postponement of the trial so he could file briefs on Lutchin's constitutional right to adequate counsel.

Granted Motion

Van Susteren then granted the motion, but not for the filing of briefs. He said trial will begin in two weeks.

The judge said he was granting the request "reluctantly," but he added "it would be a farce" to require Templeton to defend Lutchin on such short notice.

Just prior to granting the motion, Van Susteren and Long were served with a civil summons by U.S. Marshal James Dillon. These papers were from the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin.

The complaint and petition for injunction were prepared by the Milwaukee law firm of Hersh, Stepke, and Schulz.

The complaint and petition stated, among other things, that Lutchin has no assets that he could readily convert to cash.

—Persons who have aided him financially in the past now refuse to assist him.

—Lutchin has "searched diligently" for funds with which to obtain counsel, but has been unable to get funds.

Rights Denied

The complaint states that the action taken by Long and Van Susteren that concluded with the termination of Lutchin's court-appointed attorney "... have denied (Lutchin) the right to counsel in a felony proceeding ... which is in violation of the 6th and 14th amendments.

Lutchin is seeking a judgment against Long and Van Susteren for $3,000 compensatory damages and $4,000 punitive damages.

Lutchin also asked for a temporary restraining order preventing trial from proceeding without a court-appointed attorney and a permanent injunction against Long and Van Susteren.

Susteren from proceeding with trial until Lutchin's constitutional rights have been protected — to wit, to reappoint his court-appointed attorney."

Long and Van Susteren were given 20 days to respond to the complaint filed in Federal Court.

Civil Action

Long termed the civil action "a scare tactic" to delay trial, and Van Susteren said the complaint and petition for an injunction in no way influenced his decision to postpone trial.

Van Susteren said the Federal Court has no jurisdiction or authority to supervise or control a state court.

The State Supreme Court Tuesday denied Henke's motion to delay Lutchin's trial pending a high court decision on the indigency question.

The court, following a hearing in Madison attended by Long, ruled that Henke's appeal "... is attorney and a permanent injunction against Long and Van Susteren."

Ripon President Elected to Head Private Schools

Dr. Bernard S. Adams, Ripon College president, has been elected president of the Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, a group of 18 private state schools including Lawrence University.

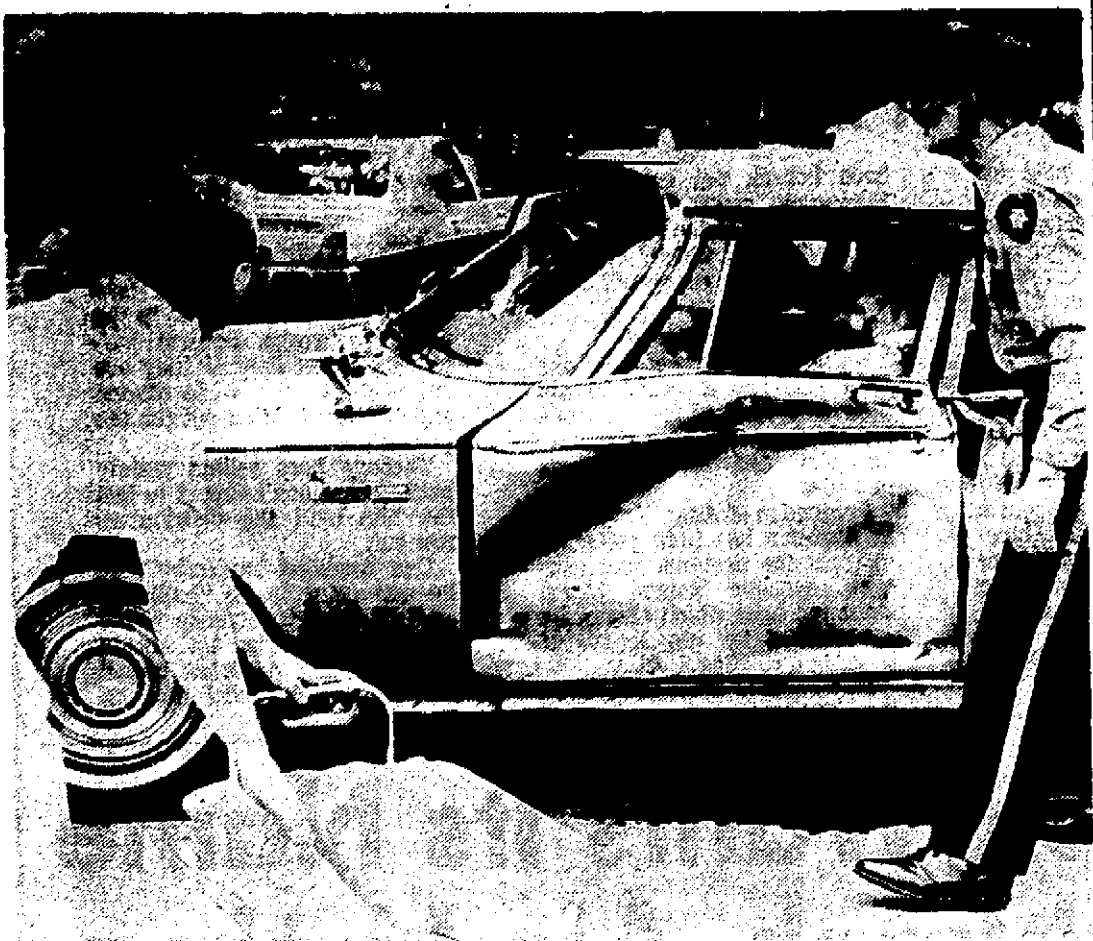

Adams, who succeeds Dr. Miller Upton, Beloit College president, suggests that the association schools could help ease the state's spiraling educational costs by enrolling more Wisconsin students from middle and lower income families.

The group is supporting pending legislation which would increase the state's existing tuition grant aid to Wisconsin youth attending private four-year schools.

Scaffolding is being erected by the contractor and other equipment has been moved to the top deck of the city's East Ramp, wrapping up the preliminaries for starting work on a $450,000 addition to the municipal parking facility. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Airport Officials Look to State for Runway Monies

OSHKOSH — Because of the unavailability of federal aids for the construction of the $360,500 north-south runway extension at the Winnebago County Airport, the state bureau of airport development, Madison, suggested a plan whereby the county could share a portion of the project.

Joseph Abernathy, director, bureau of airport development, today at a meeting of the county board's aviation committee indicated that $80,000 in state monies could be available for the 1,300 foot extension project in which the county and state could split the cost on a 50-50 basis.

Fritz Wolf of the division of aeronautics, Madison, who also attended this morning's session, urged the county to purchase remaining land needed for the runway extension, update the airport master plan and proceed with its time table for construction.

Wolf indicated to the committee that the land and engineering fees still would be eligible for federal aid.

He emphasized that after the money is granted for the project the FAA (Federal Aviation Agency), would approve the extension and reimburse both the state and the county on a portion of the $80,000.

Michael T. Brock, airport manager, said that he was informed "a little over a month ago that there would be no federal funds at present for the extension of the runway from 6,700 feet to 8,000." He also indicated that it would cost approximately $15,800 to update and do future planning on the port in the master plan.

Brock noted that the county already has purchased two of the five parcels needed for the development of the runway extension. All parties here today theorized that the county could go ahead with plans on the extension could be under construction late in 1970.

Supv. James Coughlin, Winnebago, a member of the aviation committee, noted that $150,000 has been earmarked by the county for the north-south extension. Board Chairman Joseph Drexler, also a member of the committee, said the money does not appear as a budget item but the board has indicated that the money would be made available when needed for the project.

Also included as part of the project is the moving of the ILS (instrument landing system) from the east-west runway to the north-south runway, the cost of which would be borne by the federal government.

Green Bay Firm Seeks Court Order

Injunction Against Steelworker Picket Activity Requested

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Northwest Engineering Co., struck for three months by the United Steelworkers Union, has asked for a court injunction to limit activities of pickets who have harassed non-union workers at the company's gates the past three days.

The eight-man union bargaining committee was subpoenaed Monday to appear in Brown County Circuit Court at 9 a.m. today, but the hearing was rescheduled until Friday.

Nearly 550 men walked off their jobs April 7 in a dispute that involves wages, benefits and union security.

Hurl Eggs
This morning 40 policemen in crowd control formation marched 10 non-strikers through the plant's Walnut Street entrance, as steelworkers hurled a sporadic barrage of eggs.

Police have escorted non-union workers into and out of the Cramer Manufacturing Plant behind a screen of hard-helmets and riot sticks since Monday, when the union changed its strike tactics from surveillance to mass demonstrations.

Non-strikers were splattered Monday with paint, soil and spoiled eggs the union gets from local hatcheries, and this brought about a show of police force.

No Injuries
None of the picket crossers has been injured and police have made no arrests.

In information filed with the court, Kenneth L. Houston, Northwest Engineering vice president, said the steelworkers were interfering with the rights of non-strikers by intimidation, force, coercion and abusive and threatening language.

He said the police department was unable to prevent or put a stop to such acts by the members of the United Steelworkers of America, Local 7389, will not be required to get one.

Man Bound Over For Trial in Death At Reformatory

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Gary W. Kollura, 18, Rockford, Ill., an inmate at the Wisconsin State Reformatory, was ordered bound over to Brown County Circuit Court for trial following a preliminary hearing in criminal court Tuesday afternoon on a first-degree murder charge.

Kollura is charged in the stabbing death of 20-year-old Dennis Androsky, another inmate, during an argument in a washroom at the institution on April 24, 1968.

He will appear for the entering of a plea when the case is assigned to one of the circuit court branches.

Judge James W. Byers ordered Kollura bound over after hearing testimony which included a written statement by the defendant describing the stabbing.

Wheelchair Driver Needs No License

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Lewis has been given the clearance by Florida's top trooper to speed away in his motorized wheelchair at full tilt—six miles an hour—without licenses.

Several weeks ago a state trooper pulled Lewis, 24, to the side of the road and suggested he get a license plate and a driver's license to operate his battery-driven wheelchair.

But Tuesday, Col. H.N. Kirkman, Florida Highway Patrol director, said that whether the law on licenses applies to wheelchair drivers "depends on who interprets the law," and Lewis

AAL Story, Publications Win Honors

MILWAUKEE — Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) reaped top honors for excellence in journalism at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Industrial Manufacturers' Association here.

Capturing first place honors was an article entitled, "Total Ministry for the Total Man," written by David Brooker and James C. Hoyer. It was published in the AAL magazine, the "Correspondent," and dealt with the work of a Lutheran minister in a Detroit inner core area.

"Life Lines," the AAL company publication as well as the "Correspondent" itself, also won first place for excellence. Both were among six company magazines from throughout the state to receive first place plaques.

The competition is conducted by the state manufacturers' group in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism and the Wisconsin Industrial Editors' Association.

Cash, Checks Taken In Home Burglary

Christine Kruse, 531 E. Maple St., told police about 6:45 a.m. today that a purse containing about $23 in addition to a check book, licenses, and identification, was taken from her house during the night.

The purse was on a dining room shelf. Entry into the house apparently was gained through an unlocked door.

Steiger Explains Campus Reversal

'Harmful Extension of Federal Power'

WASHINGTON — Rep. William A. Steiger said today he withdrew his support from a compromise bill against campus disorders last week because he believed it "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

Revolutions Tactics
"I believe that the revolutionary students would use any tactic to prevent a university from complying with the bill."

A member of the House Education and Labor Committee, Steiger was one of four congressmen on the committee. Steiger was one of four congressmen on the committee who announced last week they had left a 19-16 majority in favor of the bill, turning the balance to a 20-15 opposition.

The provision Steiger previously had favored but now opposes would have withdrawn federal aid from colleges and universities if they failed to file with the U. S. Commissioner of Education a set of rules and procedures saying how campus authorities would deal with disorders.

In today's explanation of his reversal, Steiger said he "did not change my position on this bill lightly."

He said requiring institutions to file even "some sort" of code in order to receive funds "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

Steiger said, "The bill would not penalize those who would deny rights to others; it would deny the rights of large numbers of students who are not guilty of disrupting the campus or inhibiting the college's response to the code of conduct requirements of this legislation."

measure, he said, would have played into the hands of disrupters whose goal is to shut down the schools.

"There is no more effective way to shut down an institution than by withdrawing 30 to 40 per cent of its funds," Steiger said.

Instead, he then said he favored the compromise proposal, which he explained then would "simply require universities to file a set of regulations governing demonstrations with the Commissioner of Education," with withdrawal of funds the penalty or failing to file.

"It is expected that no institution will find it difficult to comply with this provision, and it will encourage them to take a careful look at their own procedures," Steiger said.

In today's statement, however, Steiger said, "fundamental responsibility for maintaining order on the campus lies with the academic community, not with the federal government."

He said he was unable to support the measure "as a Republican and one who adheres to a basic faith in the ability of individuals and organizations to work out solutions to their own problems free from governmental interference."

While he said the compromise bill was "an alternative far less severe" than proposals to withdraw all aid from a campus experiencing an disorder, Steiger said he believes, "here is a case where two wrongs do not make a right."

Neenah Junior High Bids Under $1.8 Million

MENASHA — Construction by Boldt Construction Co., of bids on Menasha's new $1.8 million junior high school have come in at about $23,000 lower than estimates.

Robert Paynter, Sauter Sea-borne, Appleton, the firm designing the facility, said estimates had originally set the construction cost at $1,331,400, but during bid opening Tuesday night, the low bids tabulated at about $1,308,000.

While school officials were openly pleased with the results, school Business Manager Clayton Jackson said the $23,000 figure does not include any alternates.

The second junior high school in the Menasha Joint School District will be located on Midway Road in the Town of Menasha and should be completed by the fall of 1970.

Lauer Bros. of Neenah submitted the low general construction bid of $740,000. The highest figure — $825,000 — was sent in by the firm of J. H. G. Miron Construction Co., Menasha.

Other bids submitted on general construction were $793,949 by Theo Utschig & Sons Inc., Appleton; $781,484 by St. Aubin, Little Chute; $798,900 by Hoffmann, Appleton; $796,890 by Ganther Co., Oshkosh, and $782,000 by P. G. Miron Construction Co., Menasha.

The earliest completion date, July 31, 1970, was set by Lauer Bros., Utschig, St. Aubin and Hoffman firms named a Sept. 1, 1970, completion. Miron earmarked for Aug. 15, and Ganther for Oct. 1.

Several alternates were also given prices by the firms. Major alternates include a wood gym floor instead of tile, a different grade of wood gym floor, omission of a wood floor in the cafeteria commons area, different grade of acoustical tile, and movable doors dropping from the ceiling.

Go-Cart Ban Adopted for School Areas

Kimberly Board Prohibits Vehicles On Parking Lots

KIMBERLY — The board of education voted Monday night to prohibit use of go-carts on all parking lots in the school district and will ask cooperation of police in enforcing the ban.

The action was taken after numerous requests were received for use of the blacktopped areas and after Myron Huth, business manager, checked with the insurance carrier. Board members learned the school's liability insurance could be increased if youngsters were permitted to operate the motorized vehicles on school property.

Members voted to increase pay for substitute teachers for the coming year from $18 to $22 per day, bringing the district more in line with wages being paid in neighboring communities. School principals reported difficulty finding substitute teachers, who preferred to travel outside Kimberly during the past year because of higher wages.

Action on censoring books

'True Grit' More Pioneer Than Western

BY ORIN BOSTEN

Remarkably faithful even in whole sections of dialogue to Charles Fortis' picaresque novel of last year, Hal B. Wallis' screen version for Paramount of "True Grit" emerges as a highly original and significant motion picture — clearly the used in schools was tabled pending the return of Superintendent Ray Hamann. The board has been studying a censorship policy, using those of neighboring communities as guides, but still has been unable to agree on the extent of the program.

A change order to have a gas line run to an emergency generator was approved for the West Side Elementary School at an added cost of $119. Low bids totaling $1,500 were accepted from five different firms for assorted equipment needed for the hot lunch program for the coming year. More equipment is needed because of the new school opening in the fall.

finest of its genre in many years.

"True Grit" opens today at the Appleton Theater.

The trouble is that since it also offers a virtuoso performance by John Wayne, a star not hitherto acclaimed for his acting proficiency; a memorable feature picture debut by newcomer Kim Darby, and a plethora of entertainment values, the components of the picture are likely to outdazzle the total achievements of the filmmakers.

There is, additionally, the danger that "True Grit" will be hailed as a western, to be lumped with "High Noon" and "Shane," when it is clearly not so much an "oater" as a generous cut from the seldom-touched haunch of Americana.

Beside the Point

It is entirely incidental that Wayne, crusty, sour and Falstaffian in his portrayal, is a U.S. marshal; that he, Miss Darby and Glen Campbell are pitted against rogues who appear to resemble stockwestern characters, and that most of the action takes place in Indian territory.

For all of its surface kinship to the traditional Hollywood western, the film gains its strength and rollicking humor from its headlong gallop into the fresh, almost-untouched territory of pioneer American literature. Other moviemakers should take note of the riches found there.

No small asset to "True Grit"

Quest Starts For Insurance Commissioner

Governor's Office Has Applications to Succeed Haase

MADISON — The executive office is already receiving applications from candidates for appointment to the office of state insurance commissioner which will be vacated in the fall when Commissioner Robert D. Haase of Marinette takes up full time teaching duties in the University of Wisconsin School of Business.

A spokesman for Gov. Warren Knowles, now abroad, said the governor will consider carefully the qualifications for aspirants to the job which is regarded as one of the important regulatory offices in the state government.

The law provides that the insurance commissioner's term is for four years. But Haase will leave with two years remaining on his term. The new commissioner will be chosen for a period ending in October, 1971, when there will be a new governor in office with authority to decide who will occupy the place for the succeeding four years.

In some similar situations in the past, governors have made temporary appointments of ranking civil service employees in the department.

Stanley DeRose is the deputy commissioner of the department.

Haase was named to head the agency by Gov. Warren Knowles after he had served several terms in the legislature as one of the leaders of the majority party in the assembly, and had been elected speaker of the house.

During his service as insurance commissioner, Haase was a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and chairman of various committees of the association. He will teach law and insurance at UW. He had been a part-time lecturer on the faculty during the last several years.

Nursery Also Slated Grace Lutheran Plans Kindergarten Classes

Nursery and kindergarten classes will be offered this fall at Grace Lutheran Church. There are no plans, however, at the present time, to expand this into a parochial elementary school.

According to the Rev. Wilbur A. Troge, pastor of the Appleton church, nursery school will be in two sessions, 9 to 11 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, and again Tuesdays and Thursdays. Kindergarten will be from 1 to 3:35 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The schedule will coincide with the public school opening.

Mrs. Lois Kussow has been engaged as a teacher. Children from the congregation are now being enrolled. Enrollment from families who are not members of Grace will be open July 1.

Board Members
A school board, elected by the congregation, includes Arthur E. Mueller, chairman; Mrs. Earl Linden, Cy Anderson, Richard Langdick, Randall Thomas, Mrs. Norman Belling and Donald Wunderlich, educational chairman from the congregation.

Asked if this is the beginnings of a new parochial elementary school, Pastor Troge replied that "the nursery and kindergarten classes are the only ones the congregation has given permission for at the present time."

The purpose of the classes, Pastor Troge explained, is that "the congregation feels more Christian instruction is needed and we think this age group is a good place to start."

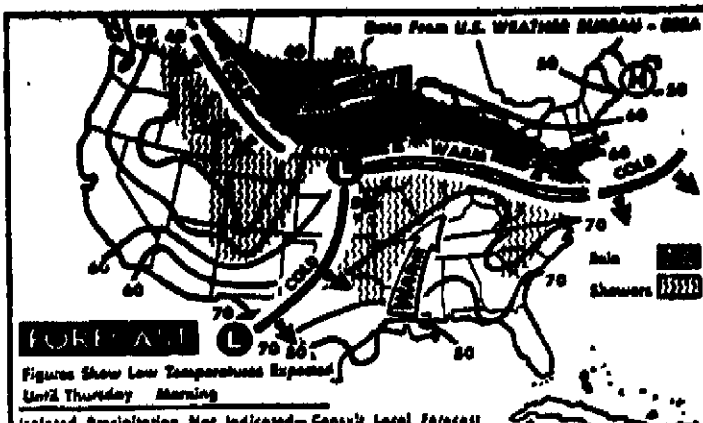

At present, there are no building plans. Some minor changes are being made in the section of the church which will be used for classes.

The school is licensed by the Division of Family Services of Wisconsin.

Planners Want Study of State Taxation Policy

The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission is requesting the state legislature to conduct a study of the department of taxation's policy to assess landowners for improvements to lake and stream banks.

The commission termed present policies to assess for erosion protection with riprapping, sheathing or bulkheads an "injustice and a deterrent to protecting our valuable water resources."

When shorelands are eroded, the commission said, "not only the individual landowners' interest but the public's interest is adversely affected."

South Vietnam Units Reinforce Ben Het Camp

U. S. Trained Soldiers Flown In; Gunboats Transferred by Navy

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of American-led south Vietnamese commandos were flown in to reinforce the embattled Ben Het Special Forces camp today. Spokesmen said they made brief contact with North Vietnamese troops threatening the border post.

The commandos, elite mercenaries specially trained by U.S. Special Forces troops, were landed by U.S. helicopters. They thrust into the jungles two miles south of Ben Het and spoke to troops threatening the border post.

Another brief fight flared at about the same time northeast of the camp, where about 2,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen are trying to keep open a 10-mile stretch of Highway 512 that leads from Dak To to Ben Het. One South Vietnamese was killed and four wounded, while enemy losses were not known.

Two-Month Bombardment
North Vietnamese artillerymen kept up their two-month bombardment of the camp, slamming in 110 artillery, mortar and recoilless rifle shells Tuesday.

"The report we have is that there were no casualties or damage," said a U.S. Command spokesman. "This is not too unrealistic if everyone stayed in their holes."

Field reports said a second allied supply convoy pushed through to the camp Tuesday from Dak To. The first arrived Monday with badly needed ammunition.

On its return trip to Dak To Tuesday, that convoy came under small arms and bazooka-type rocket attack. One American was reported killed and two wounded.

Spokesmen have said two North Vietnamese infantry regiments and an artillery regiment moved across the border from Laos and Cambodia and began putting pressure on Ben Het and Dak To around the beginning of May. The camp 280 miles north-east of Saigon has been under steady artillery bombardment since then and is reported surrounded by an estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese.

Death Figures
Spokesmen said more than 1,500 North Vietnamese and 300 South Vietnamese troops have been killed around Dak To and Ben Het since May 1.

U.S. B-52 bombers launched two more raids Tuesday night and today against enemy troops and gun positions north and south of Ben Het.

In other developments, 64 U.S. Navy river gunboats were turned over to the South Vietnamese navy today. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said it was "the largest turnover of naval vessels to the Republic of Vietnam yet completed."

Since June, 1968, the Navy has turned over 167 boats to South Vietnam in the accelerated program to shift more of the war effort to government forces. Most of the boats turned over today were from the U.S. Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force operating in the Mekong Delta.

The Riverine force is being disbanded and its 1,200 U.S. Navy men and 4,000 Army troops will be among the 25,000 Americans withdrawn from Vietnam by August.

Somber State Legislators and Milwaukee officials walk across a South Side intersection Tuesday during a tour intended to make lawmakers more familiar with urban problems. The city invited 131 legislators and 83 accepted.

Legislators Go for a Walk In Milwaukee's Poor Areas

MILWAUKEE (AP) — State legislators whose Capitol was clogged earlier this year by hundreds of residents from Milwaukee's underprivileged neighborhoods returned the visit Tuesday, getting a first-hand look at the problems of concrete, joblessness and urban riot.

More than 500 Milwaukee Negroes swarmed into the Capitol in Madison in support of welfare spending during one of the budget debates.

Decline Comment
Legislators generally declined comment on what influence Tuesday's tour would have on their legislative thinking.

The Assembly speaker, Republican Harold Froehlich of Appleton, said he feels the visit should improve the visitors' understanding of city problems. But, he said he doubts his position on bills concerning Milwaukee will be altered.

The city's sales pitch was demonstrated by one municipal official who left his suit at home and showed up for the tour in a wrinkled, faded sports jacket.

"Today is the day to look poor-mouthed," he said.

A small fleet of chartered buses carried the 83 lawmakers past boarded-up stores that marked the site of 1967 rioting on the North Side.

They were shown suburban expressways which Vincent Schmit, city tax commissioner, said "have produced a mass minus from the tax rolls."

Visit Training Center
They visited a Negro neighborhood job-training center whose director, W. George Patten, said the unemployment problem is "not so much one of black and white, but of people who can't produce" because they lack skills.

The cost of chartering four buses and buying lunch and dinner for the legislators was estimated at $1,500. Pabst Brewing Co., the Greater Milwaukee Committee and the city treasury are splitting the cost.

Often mentioned was the big-city problem of dwindling sources of revenue in proportion to the increase of population burdens.

Expressway construction was not the only sample of elimination of taxable property. The tour concluded on the northeast

Up to a Nickel for Each Dollar

Consumer Pays for Thefts

By LISA CRONIN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Every time a housewife shops, up to a nickel of each dollar she spends pays the shopkeeper for his losses due to crime.

"It has to be brought home to the consumer that she pays for theft," said James Gordon Gilkey, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., a Chicago-based department store chain. "We have to pass along this shrinkage to customers as part of our costs."

Losses from thefts of all types average 1.5 per cent of all sales in department stores, according to Carson Pirie Scott Chairman C. Virgil Martin. Among Chicago stores the average is 1.89 per cent and losses are upwards of 5 per cent for several chains of discount stores, he said. This does not include the cost of insurance and crime protection.

"The customer pays in a number of ways other than money," says J. Gary Taylor, general manager of Bergdorf Goodman, a New York store. "She is forced to pay for crime and cut services she used to get free. She also loses in availability of selection."

No Longer Exception
"We used to deal with theft as an exception to the rule," Taylor said. "But now it's an on-going problem."

The problem has reached such proportions that the National Industrial Conference Board has scheduled a one-day meeting in New York Thursday to discuss the effect of crime on the corporation.

The Senate's Select Committee on Small Business is holding hearings to determine the extent and causes of crime against business. It plans to offer legislation attacking the problem on a nationwide level. The committee also is looking for ways businessmen can prevent losses due to thefts.

A study on crime against small business sponsored by the Senate committee put the total cost of crime against business at $3 billion in 1968. This figure does not include losses in the Reiss rejects such statements as ridiculous. "In a cost accounting system losses due to crime are a cost of doing business," he said.

Students Pay Own Way

National Tour to Show Positive Side of College

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A group of 25 Michigan State University students and a faculty adviser plan a 10,000-mile cross-country tour to emphasize the constructive aspects of college life.

Hoping to pay their own way by working on farms and cleaning up projects, they plan to tell people in small towns and cities across America that agitation and demonstrations represent only a small fraction of campus activity.

"This project symbolizes what the university community at large can do to solve campus problems nationally," said Dr. Walter Adams, acting Michigan State president.

The students will talk about the 9,600 volunteers for many causes on the university campus, about classroom and dormitory life and the normal run of student activity.

Volunteers Serve
Michigan State's enrollment is nearly 40,000. Of those engaged in volunteer programs, some 3,000 work through the campus office of volunteer programs, mainly tutoring children in crowded and deprived schools, helping teachers, helping organize sports programs and working with juvenile delinquents.

Others work through fraternities and sororities, the YMCA and the YWCA, campus clubs, community service clubs, 4-H Club or church-related programs.

The 10-week trip, which starts July 1, has been dubbed "Dialogue '69." The students and Dr. Clyde Morris, an instructor in communications, will tour the country in five station wagons.

Morris said he will go armed with facts from a nationwide survey on the attitudes of college students completed by Roper Research Associates in May.

"The study showed two-thirds of the seniors and freshmen see eye-to-eye with their parents on most things," Morris said. "There's your generation gap, shot to pieces."

Alumni More Critical
"Most seniors and freshmen found business, higher education, the political system and the courts of justice basically sound," he added. "In fact, alumni were more critical of these institutions than college students."

The traveling MSU students plan to stay with local families. Among the jobs lined up are wheat harvesting in Elkhart, Kan., work in a canning factory at Junction City, Ore., and produce-picking in California.

The first stop will be Hannibal, Mo., on July 2. The students and their advisers will speak at clubs and churches and before any group interested in college life as the group sees it.

How do some of the students who will make the tour feel about the project?

"I'm excited," said one student. "I want to show people that college isn't just a bunch of kids sitting in a classroom."

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can make a difference," said another student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can learn about the world," said a third student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can grow as a person," said a fourth student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can find your purpose in life," said a fifth student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can make a difference in the world," said a sixth student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can learn about the world," said a seventh student.

"I want to show people that college is a place where you can grow as a person," said an eighth student.

Councilmen Favor Sewer Service Charge

should not move too fast in imposing the sewer service charge, declaring, "This thing needs to be given thorough study, along with compiling cost figures and projections."

The committee was wholeheartedly in agreement that no properties in the city would be exempt.

There are several properties in Appleton that are exempted from paying real estate taxes. They are not required to pay for city services they receive either.

Welcome Service

It was recalled that more than 22 anti-pollution orders had been issued in Appleton by the state last year, and the committee felt some industries involved would welcome the sewer service rather than having to construct their own facilities.

When the question was posed whether some industries might not want to pay the charge and would move to nearby towns, Thompson suggested it might work in reverse.

"Each industry cannot afford a treatment plant of its own," Thompson declared.

Special Rate

Finance Director David Champion gave assurance it was not the city's intent to tax any industry out of Appleton. He indicated they would probably have a special rate based on volume.

The committee doubted any surrounding semi-urban town would have facilities to handle an industry with a high waste volume.

When the department of public works conducted its survey over the past 24 months, meetings were held with representatives of local industries who appeared receptive to the proposed sewer service charge, city officials claim.

Shifting Method

"The charge is shifting a method of paying for a service and dropping it from the property tax," Champion explained.

"It (sewer charge) is bound to reduce the overall charge to the residential property owner because he is presently paying for the tax exempt properties in the city via the property tax rate," Champion added.

City officials were agreed the sewer charge would be imposed in an equitable manner so as not to impose any hardship whether they be residential, commercial or industrial customers.

Overpass at Meade Street To be Closed

Meade Street, at U.S. 41, will be closed for an undetermined period of time starting Monday for repair to the overpass over U.S. 41.

The overpass was damaged last week when it was struck by a northbound truck on U.S. 41. Damage has been estimated at up to $20,000.

Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson said efforts would be made to keep the northbound lanes of U.S. 41 open during the repair work, but they may have to be closed during the week of July 7.

If they are closed, Brownson said, northbound traffic will be detoured on County Trunk OO (old 41) between State 47 and County Trunk E (Ballard Avenue).

Wisconsin Warning

The Wisconsin warning extended for an area west of a line from Alma to Chetek and south of a line from Chetek to St. Croix falls until noon today.

Wisconsin was mostly cloudy and cool with thick fog in Milwaukee and Superior.

High temperatures Tuesday ranged from 69 at La Crosse to Milwaukee and Racine. Low temperatures early this morning varied from 50 at Superior to 62 at La Crosse.

Appleton's high Tuesday was 65 and the low was 57.

'College Avenue Story' Appeals to Florida City

Word of Appleton's success in transforming downtown College Avenue into a shopping showcase has spread to Florida.

A representative of the Fort Myers, Fla., special task force assigned to revitalize that city's downtown area wrote Mayor George Buckley this week.

Lawrence W. Smith, executive secretary of Fort Myers' "Turns On Program" (TOP), wrote that, like Appleton, the business and civic leaders were cooperating to get a renewal project underway.

"Since we are now getting this project underway,

Businessmen Given Preview Tour

WMPCO to Open Center to Public

Fox Cities business and industrial leaders were conducted on a special tour Tuesday of the new $1.8 million Lynndale Operations Center of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. as a preview to the official public opening on Sunday.

The 2 1/2-acre structure houses the control center for electric and natural gas services of the firm. It will be open to the public for the first time during an open house from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Located on a 31-acre site at 800 S. Lynndale Drive in the Southwest Industrial Park, the center was occupied last fall after about a year of construction. About 170 employees are headquartered in the building.

The structure includes offices, load dispatch and operations centers, maintenance and repair shops, storerooms, garages and employee facilities. An outdoor equipment storage yard and a simulated transmission construction for training linemen are nearby.

Expansion Possible

Although there is some space in the present facilities for adding some personnel, the building has been designed for possible expansion.

A floor could be added on the office section, while other areas could be expanded with ground-level additions, officials said.

The two nerve centers, manned around the clock, serve as the heart of the operations. The load dispatch center uses meters, charts and indicator lights on a schematic wall panel to record the flow of electricity and natural gas.

Supervisors in the operations center control the gas and electric systems, manage telephone and radio communications and conduct company business during non-office hours.

Under Ground

Both centers were designed and built 14 feet below ground in a concrete structure to withstand radioactive fallout in the event of a nuclear attack.

While serving as headquarters for many of its personnel who go on the road to perform service operations, the new structure also provides a display place for some company products.

Included in these are an electrical heat pump which is operated from an environmental control panel, infra-red gas heaters for use in areas with high ceilings and various types of lighting, including one of the first indoor uses of high-pressure sodium lamps, like those used to light College Avenue.

to get enough votes to be elected."

Gertsch said the pay emphasis should be placed on the employee's college degree and overall education.

Experience Stressed

While the Rev. Mr. Sandgren said he agreed to a point, he reminded that the city must be willing to put a premium on experience, also.

"A man with considerable experience in the field is much more valuable in the long run," the Rev. Mr. Sandgren said.

"The city should strive to attract and keep him, and having a range for him to work up to is a way of doing this."

The $12,900 presently paid the city finance director, and $14,850 the public works director was receiving before he resigned recently, were listed low compared to communities of comparable size. Reports also showed the personnel director was on the low end of the salary schedule.

The study group will have its recommendations ready for the full citizens advisory committee this fall prior to 1970 budget deliberations.

COG Study Proposed Redistricting Wards May be Considered

The Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) may be asked to make another study — this time on the makeup of Appleton's 20 wards with an eye toward redistricting.

Having the planning agency, of which Appleton is a member, conduct the study was recommended Tuesday night by the city council's welfare-ordinance committee.

Appleton now has 20 wards and 21 county supervisory districts.

The committee indicated some wards would have to be changed as a result of population increases and concentrations.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), committee chairman, specified in his motion, which requested the study, that at least the present number of wards should be retained. He envisioned the creation of at least one more ward.

COG would make preliminary recommendations for review by the city council under terms of the committee's plan.

City Clerk Elden Broehm suggested aldermanic and supervisory boundaries be the same to avoid confusion.

Although members of the committee were satisfied with Ehrlicke's report, Finance Director David Champion suggested payment of the $122 still be held up.

"The mayor has some things he wants compiled," Champion declared. "I want to get it down in writing first for presentation to the committee at its next meeting."

On another note, the committee suggested that files be available when it gets the monthly bill list from the welfare department. Committee members felt information would then be readily available in case any questions arose.

Pending before the committee is a recommendation of the Citizens Governmental Operations Study Committee that the city department be merged with the Outagamie County Welfare Department.

Boy Injured in Fall From Bike

Kevin Hooyman, 7, 1423 Silvercrest Drive, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by the fire department rescue squad about 12:10 p.m. Tuesday after he fell from his bicycle which he was riding down a steep hill in Bel Air park.

Appleton police said the boy suffered arm and head injuries.

At 4 a.m. today, the rescue squad took Herman Rehlander, 75, from his home at 816 W. Oklahoma St. to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Survivors are his widow, daughter, son, five grandchildren, four sisters and a brother.

What Judgment Will History Pass on General Eisenhower?

Here is what Reiman Morin, two-time Pulitzer prize winner, says in the first full length, complete biography of the man:

"Eisenhower goes into history as one of the most popular of Presidents, in whom Americans recognized an earnest, kindly, sincere man of unquestionable integrity.

"As a politician he was almost unique in that he was wholly without the 'jugal instinct,' the urge to destroy an enemy; he was more prone to turn the other cheek.

"He also was one of the most selfless Presidents, less concerned with his popularity and the expedient actions that might enhance it than what he considered the well being of the United States and her allies.

"When Eisenhower came to office, bitterness and rancor divided the nation; when he left, an era of good feeling had replaced the sense of divisiveness. The credits far outweighed the debits in his presidency."

Morin's judgment is based on long professional and personal acquaintance with the general, and on a year's study and research; which included long conversations with him and with many of his associates and, best of all, access to his private letter files.

The result is a big book (8 1/2 by 11 inches, 264 pages, more than 85 pictures in black and white and color, and a 140,000 word text.)

Sid Caesar Joins Kraft Music Hall

BY TV SCOUT
8-8 Channel 5 — Sandler and Young again prove personable hosts on The Kraft Music Hall. From London welcoming Sid Caesar who does a skit about a fellow on his first date, and then joins Tony and Ralph for blackouts about insurance. Judy Carne and Norman Wisdom also brighten up the proceedings.

8:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — A Jewish wedding is the highlight on Here Come the Brides, along with a bathtub scene during which the bride-to-be is "purified." Linda Marsh, as Rachel, decides to leave the colony because there is no prospective Jewish groom among the loggers. Then a hard-drinking logger named Sullivan (Dan Travanty) reveals that he is Jewish, and a marriage is arranged. (R)

8:30-8 Channel 5 — Anne Baxter appears on The Virginian as the ambitious wife of an Army officer scheming to get her husband a long overdue promotion. Hugh Beaumont plays the poor husband who would rather his wife keep her hands out of Army affairs. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — "Give an inch and he'll demand a mile" is the idea behind The Good Guys. The inch is given to Niko, a handyman who is expecting a visit from his mother. He wants to pose as the diner's owner, and good guys Bert and Rufus agree. The mile he demands later is the diner itself. (R)

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — There's a lot of heavy breathing on The Beverly Hillbillies, but it's not from passion so much as it is the jogging craze that infects the cast. (R)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Green Acres gets far out when a lad turns up at the Douglas farm and claims he is not only Oliver's son, but also that his brother is — get this — Arnold the pig! (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — The title of The Outsider is "Tell It Like It Was ... and You're Dead." Marilyn Maxwell plays an ex-burlesque queen who does the first part of the title in her memoirs. She winds up as the second part of the title, which makes her David Ross' greatest failure. Seems our hero was hired to keep her alive. (R)

2 Young MGM Singers Started out Together

Judy Garland, Deanna Durbin Best Friends; Both Hated Movie Life; Only One Escaped

BY BOB THOMAS
 Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A study in contrast:

Frances Gumm and Edna Mae Durbin were best friends in the MGM studio school.

Both were small girls, with extraordinarily big singing voices, and they were under contract to the biggest studio in Hollywood.

The two young singers were scheduled to be fired, and Edna Mae was dropped first. She went over to Universal and became an immediate star in "Three Smart Girls."

Saved Company
 As Deanna Durbin, she saved the foundering Universal from bankruptcy with a series of funny musicals.

Realizing its mistake in releasing the screen's most popular teen-ager, MGM held onto Frances. A pudgy girl, she was slow in developing as a film performer.

But as Judy Garland, she finally made it in "The Wizard of Oz."

Then, she recalled in later years, "People stopped referring to me as the kid they were stuck with when they let Deanna Durbin go."

Hated Acting Lives
 Besides their strong voices, Judy Garland and Deanna Durbin had one thing in common: They hated their lives as movie stars.

Pushed onto the stage by ambitious mothers, both girls were naturally shy. Both were disquieted by the attention they received as youthful stars.

"I would like to have people like me because I was just Edna, not Deanna," Miss Durbin once remarked.

"I would like to walk down a street and have people admire me because of the dress I was wearing, or the look in my eye, or the bounce of my hair—not because I was a movie star."

Judy once commented on her MGM bosses, "They were just dreadful. They had a theory that they were all powerful, and they ruled by fear. What better way to make young persons behave than to scare the hell out of them everyday?"

Careers Decline
 After a decade of stardom, both their careers began their inevitable decline.

Audiences failed to accept Deanna in grown-up roles. Judy, who started later, was able to mature on the screen but her erratic behavior caused studios to be wary of her.

Deanna made a clean break after "Up in Central Park" in 1947. She sat out her Universal contract—at $350,000 for the year.

She had known two unhappy Hollywood marriages, then married French writer Charles David. She moved to a village outside Paris where she still lives with her husband and two children.

When I last saw her in Paris, she remarked: "It was not that I did not like acting. I did, although the kind of picture I made did not place much demand on acting. What I didn't like was the publicity, invasion of my private life. A person needs to have an identity of his own. When you're a star, it's virtually impossible."

Judy never quit. She continued living her life in the spotlight, through marriages and divorces, on-stage collapses and suicide tries.

She continued pushing her remarkable voice until it became a quavering mockery of its one-time brilliance.

One of her confessionals in the women's magazines was titled: "There Will Always Be An Encore." But the encore was over last Sunday when she was found dead in her London home.

Lodge Says U. S. Trying to Set Up POW Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, says the government is trying to persuade the Communists to agree to a mutual prisoner of war release.

In a meeting Tuesday with about 100 relatives of U.S. prisoners in the Vietnam fighting, Lodge said the United States will "continue to press for the earliest possible release of prisoners of war on both sides."

Ten-Ager Says He Fired Shot In Death at Sharon

ELKHORN (AP)—A 16-year-old Sharon boy has admitted firing the shot that killed a young motorist, Walworth County Sheriff William Cummings said Sunday.

The boy, who claimed the death was accidental Cummings said, was in the custody of his parents and would be referred to juveniles authorities.

John Mains, 22, of Sharon, died Friday after being shot in the head Thursday night while driving along a Sharon street.

Gary Diderich, 19, also of Sharon, a passenger in the car, said he heard a shot and saw Mains slump over.

The car crashed into a tree, injuring Diderich.

Cummings quoted the boy as saying he was near his home Thursday night, firing a .22 rifle at a church sign and a stop sign across the street. He said he fired about seven shots.

The sheriff also quoted the boy as saying he became scared after the car crashed, and ran home where he was questioned later by officers.

Those Delicious Frozen Assets ...

Lillian Mackesy

California Chicken

Minutes count these days, whether you are a busy working wife or just as busy a homemaker with a bent for community activity. Believe it or not, today's supermarket and grocery store offer anywhere from 300 to 900 different frozen foods when only yesterday (well, in our mother's and grandmother's day) there were none at all.

Truly, it's hard to believe that there weren't these convenience foods that make family meals more varied, even tastier than usual and certainly time-saving in preparation. It used to be that homemakers were ashamed to admit to using shortcut foods, the packaged mixes, until one day it seemed that their advantages and quality made the guilt ridiculous! Statistics bear this out. Consumption of frozen foods stood at one pound per person in 1937 ... then went up to 10 pounds per person in 1961 (partly because more were available, of course), but the figures stand at almost 70 pounds per person for 1968.

Frozen foods are here to stay ... and why ever not? Frozen food packers have welcomed the major role they play in bringing a change-about in food habits. The homemaker got so she liked the idea, particularly in the foreign, regional, special nationality dishes and even the restaurant specialties she could bring to her table.

For instance, Creole Jambalaya straight from New Orleans in origin (by way of the Spaniards in the late 1700s) long has been famous in the South. Today, it can become one of the excellent dishes in a Fox Valley homemaker's

Freezer is Cook's Best Friend When Drop-In Guests Arrive

BY ROSEMARY STARE

What to serve or what foods to prepare for unexpected company or spontaneous entertaining needn't make you nervous. Use your freezer and have tidbits on hand for quick entertaining.

If you're going to do some cooking in advance, shopping

also must be planned. Before stocking up on ready-to-eat or convenience foods review these hints for freezer use.

Freezing doesn't improve any food. It won't destroy organisms that bring about food spoilage, but it will inhibit their growth.

Temperature The Key
Most frozen foods are best if used within a short period of time. Low temperature is the key to high quality food.

Frozen food must be stored at zero degrees or lower to prevent loss of nutritive value, flavor, color and texture.

Yeast breads and rolls freeze well, so you can have your favorites on hand for those unexpected guests.

Cool homemade bread or rolls to room temperature, then package in air-tight, moisture-proof wrapping and freeze to zero degrees. When ready to use, thaw in original wrapping or wrap in foil and heat 10 to 15 minutes. Maximum desired storage is six months.

Cake Baking Hints
Cakes freeze best if baked before freezing. Frostings may be applied before freezing if they are the uncooked confectioner's sugar-butter type. Boiled frostings are best applied after the cake has thawed.

Cookies freeze well in any form, although cookie dough is easier to package and takes up less freezer space than baked cookies. Dough may be stored in cartons or in rolls. Storing cookie dough in rolls permits easy preparation. Merely slice and bake.

A supply of frozen cream puff shells make handy quick desserts. At serving time, fill with ice cream or pudding.

Fruit Pies Best

Pies also can be frozen. Mincemeat and fruit pies freeze best in the unbaked state. Cut holes in the upper crust just before baking. Then put in a 425-degree oven for 15 minutes and reduce temperature to 325 degrees until the juice boils up through the cuts in the top crust.

Chiffon pies in a baked crust freeze well. Freeze, then wrap and return to the freezer. Use within two or three weeks.

However, remember that cream pies, custard type pies or meringues don't freeze satisfactorily.

Marketing Memo

Prices Keep Edging Up; Watch for Food Specials

Despite increased meat supplies, retail prices have been edging upwards since the first of the year, according to Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

This is a reversal of the usual trend for declining prices with increasing supplies.

Economists feel the situation is probably due to an exceptionally high consumer demand for meat resulting from high levels of employment and consumer income.

Although total meat supplies for 1969 are expected to be greater than that of 1968, expanding consumer purchasing power makes it difficult to predict whether the supply can keep pace with demand. Last year 183 pounds of meat was consumed per person. Meat consumption figures for 1969 are expected to equal, if not exceed, this record.

Due to higher meat prices, the more economical cuts of meat may be better buys for many shoppers. Watch for local features in your area which point to more attractive buys.

Fresh produce continues to increase in variety each week. Lettuce, radishes and green onions are expected to be reasonable as well as corn, cucumbers and cabbage. Carrots, cauliflower and celery may be a bit high.

Summer Fruits
Look for fresh summer fruits at more reasonable prices this week. Cantaloup and cherries are both attractively priced and of good quality, but watermelons are still high.

Strawberries from Michigan and southern Wisconsin now are available and at moderate prices. Watch for more plentiful and reasonably priced supplies of grapes and nectarines. Plum supplies are somewhat smaller than last year, therefore, their prices will remain firm this summer.

Children Not Born Selfish, Demanding

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of four children who drain their parents for all they can get? Both the mother and father work. The children are 20, 17, 15 and 13. A lazier, more selfish and demanding collection of parasites would be hard to find.

Mother hasn't had a new outfit in three years. Her winter coat dates back to 1962. The 17-year-old dresses like Miss America. She had an Easter suit with real fur on the collar and cuffs. The 20-year-old boy conned his father into buying him a car (second hand but it still cost $800.) Father rides house by 6:30 p.m. They were public transportation but Junior told not to come back until 1 a.m. The reason I know is because they sat in our house and kept us up until then.

What do you think of these brats? We'd like to see your answer in print — Inky Ink-writer

Dear Inky: Who raised this crop of vegetables anyway? People who plant onions shouldn't expect violets to bloom. Children are not born selfish, demanding and lazy. They are brought up to be that way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please warn your readers that if they have a telephone which originates from a mobile unit their conversations are broadcast over the radio. Anyone who tunes in around 152 megacycles can get an earful.

I just listened to a woman from Saugatuck make a darned fool of herself. Every word she said (and she said plenty) could have been heard by about one-third of Michigan. The first thing she said was, "Is this line private?" The guy she was talking to said, "Of course it is." (What a rat!)

So please warn these dumb bunnies, Ann. They need to know. — Grand Rapids Fan

Dear Grand: Thank you, I shall. Dear Dumb Bunnies. If you have a phone that originates from a mobile unit, write it, don't say it — unless of course you want to clue in the whole world.

And I've got a hot flash for you, Grand. It's a federal offense to intercept a telephone conversation and divulge the information to someone else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married six years ago my in-laws asked me to call them Mom and Pop but I just couldn't bring myself to do it. My father-in-law took sick three weeks ago. He died last week. I called him Pop during his last moments of consciousness. He smiled at me and squeezed my hand. I hated myself for not doing it years sooner.

I called my mother-in-law "Mom" the very next day. It was easier than I thought. I am ashamed of myself. — Missouri Mule

Dear Missouri: Humility is a rare virtue. It took a lot of it to write that letter. Thank you.

What to Do About Child Abuse When You Encounter It

What should you do when you come across a child who is being physically or sexually abused? The American Humane society suggests that, rather than reporting such incidents to the police, you inform local social or welfare agencies, such as the Children's Aid society. The abused child deserves first consideration. The abusing adult — parent or any other — needs psychiatric care or treatment rather than punishment. And the other members of a family may also need help that only a social agency can furnish.

An American Humane society survey disclosed 622 reported cases of child abuse in 1962. But a Brandeis University study showed 6,000 such reported incidents in 1967. More frequent reporting, rather than an actual increase in harmful treatment of children, seems to account for the difference in these findings.

Such harm is done children by otherwise seemingly "normal" adults. About half of the abused children are below 6 years of age. More than 50 per cent live with both parents. And mothers seem more severely punitive than fathers. Battered children are found in every economic class and neighborhood. Well-heeled families are merely better able to hide the evidence.

Abusing adults are usually either mentally disturbed or products of harsh discipline in their own early years. Such parents tend to look on their children's normal misdeeds as signs of innate evil. Families in which child abuse occurs tend to isolate themselves from the rest of the community and harbor a conspiratorial view of life. Their attitudes are extreme manifestations of paranoia and authoritarianism that are typical of other phases of contemporary life.

Many states now provide legal immunity to doctors, hospitals and others who report suspected child abuse. Social agencies are familiar with these problems. They find immediate shelter for the abused child. And they are prepared to inform all legal, medical and other authorities on behalf of both abusing parents and abused children, as warranted by circumstances. Community outrage and indignation are no cure. And police can only arrest the guilty adult. They can't cure him or help the injured child.

Arnold Arnold's "Safety Rules For Parents and Children" booklet, written and prepared by him for readers of this column, covers the whole field of home, play and child safety measures. Included also is a useful caution on how to use the color TV sets so as to safeguard children from possible radiation emission. Mr. Palmer's rules are brief, easy to follow, accurate and all-inclusive. A must for every parent, for child care workers, teachers and babysitters. Ask for "Safety Rules" and include 20 cents and a stamped, return envelope. Send all requests to Arnold Arnold, Dept. B, c/o this newspaper.

HURRY IN! DON'T MISS OUT ON THESE TRULY FANTASTIC FABRIC BUYS!

Fallcast: Bright Plummage For Male of Species

BY LOUISE COOK
NEW YORK (AP) — Men's fashions for fall will be more colorful and creative than ever before.
If you don't believe it, just try the idea of bright red velvet pants and shirt topped by yellow suspenders. Or how about a nine-foot scarf around the neck? Or a shiny leather suit?

All of these and more were offered Monday by John Weitz, Bill Blass and Oleg Cassini at one of a series of showings sponsored by the American Designer Group.
Not for Business
Weitz admitted that his clothes weren't exactly meant for business. He called his stovepipe trousers—with suspenders to keep them up and straps under the instep of the shoe to hold them down—"idea stuff." He showed them in plaid wool for day, velvet for evening.

Weitz also showed a sashed, bathrobe-style jacket and matching trousers. He called the outfit "possible tomorrow's business suit." The coat was similar to many seen in women's collections.

Blass also borrowed from the ladies. Or maybe it was the other way around and he borrowed from the men in designing his women's clothes. At any rate, he featured those long, long striped scarves tossed around the neck that keep popping up on almost all the feminine fashions.

Children's
Blass also showed the mid-coat—another ladies' look—in navy blue with a nutria collar and cuffs.

Oleg Cassini persisted with the Western look, including leather suits and outfits with fringe. He was particularly proud of a black leather suit, belted and deeply vented in back.

The same trends that the

Joseph Love, who presented his collection in connection with the New York Couture Group's showings last week, dressed the tiny tots in pants suits, jump suits and lots of velvet—just like mommy. There was even a little gypsy in two-piece flowered print pants suit with matching bandana.

The Helen Lee-Alyssa collections presented Monday also featured many of the same looks running through the adult designs.

Panther Complains Of Imprisonment, Isolation in Cuba

Black Militants, Possibly Including Eldred Cleaver, Want to Leave

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

HAVANA (AP) — An American Black Panther said today he and other members of his party have been "isolated and imprisoned" in Cuba and they want to leave. He implied that

Johnson

Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver is among the discontented.

Raymond Johnson, 22, of Alexandria, La., told a newsman he was instructed by a high-ranking Panther in Cuba to report this feeling.

Johnson, who described himself as a lieutenant in the Black Panther movement and an air-liner hijacker, said: "The Panthers have not been received in a revolutionary fashion. We have been condemned to live in Cuba."

Banned From Havana
He added that members of the black militant organization had been imprisoned, isolated, banned from Havana and told they could not organize their party in Cuba.

"These imprisonments amount to more than just being confined for a period of investigation," Johnson said.

"Some have been imprisoned a second time. They have been sent to completely isolated sections of the island and forced to work in labor camps."

Johnson said he expected to be arrested at any time, adding: "It is possible some of the Panthers will be arrested today."

Protest Conditions
The Panther said arrests "always come when they (the Panthers) become disenchanted and after they protest conditions and express a desire to leave the country."

"We would like this information to reach the Black Panther party in the United States so the party will know the unrevolutionary way we are being treated," he said. "We want them to protest at Cuban missions everywhere."

The only Cuban mission in the United States is at the United Nations.

Johnson said he was jailed for 21 days after he hijacked a National Airlines jet from New Orleans to Havana on Nov. 4, 1968.

"We think there's racial discrimination in Cuba," he said. "It's a peculiar kind of racial discrimination. In some ways it's comparable to attitudes in the United States. White Cubans have a subconscious conspiracy to maintain control of the island."

Cultural Aspects
"We feel the Cubans have a misunderstanding of the political, cultural and revolutionary thinking of black Americans, but primarily of the cultural aspect of the black revolution."

"We are talking about a social and cultural revolution. And in our experience, we have seen people here lagging in the revolution of the mind."

A former student at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., Johnson said the Black Panthers had been discouraged from talking to black Cubans about black awareness and the wearing of Afro hair styles.

"We found this is completely repressed by Cuba. We have talked to a number of Cuban women and they have started wearing natural hair styles. But to relate to one's African heritage in Cuba is looked down on."

More than 30 per cent of Cuba's 8 million people are black.

Serious Crime
Johnson claimed that some Panthers who have talked black culture to Cubans have been branded counterrevolutionaries, one of communism's most serious crimes.

He said most of the Panthers would like to go to Africa, but they have been told not to contact African embassies in Havana.

Johnson also said Omar Talif, a party member from New York, and his American wife and child "disappeared" after being told by Cuban officials they were "black racists."

Johnson said he did not know how many Black Panthers currently are in Cuba but he identified four:

Four Identified
Byron Muese Booth of Los Angeles, Calif., deputy minister of defense; Earl Farrow of Denver, Colo., deputy minister of information; Charles Rhaim Smith of Los Angeles, and Lt. James Akili and his wife of New York.

Johnson said all the Panthers he knows have requested permission to leave Cuba. He turned aside questions about Cleaver on security grounds, but added: "An exceedingly high-ranking Black Panther officer doesn't like the treatment of black revolutionaries and the Black Panthers here at all."

Swim Pool Is Neighborhood Magnet

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Yesterday we got our swimming pool. It was like being listed in the yellow pages under fun city. Kids we had never seen before (some of them spoke a foreign language) lined up with snorkels, rubber ducks, rafts and old inner tubes from semi trucks.

"This is ridiculous," I said to my husband. "I don't even have the thing inflated yet. Besides, it's only 48 inches in diameter and 14 inches deep."

"Does that kid know that?" he asked.

"Which one?" I asked peeking through the curtain.

"The one with grease all over his body and an oxygen tank and spear gun strapped to his back."

"You wouldn't want to help me blow it up would you?"

"No."

As I put my lips to the valve, a hush fell over the crowd. I blew into it and everything went black. I exhaled into it again and something in my head snapped. After eight expanses of air my tongue began to swell. Later, as I hovered near unconsciousness, I drew my last breath and secured the valve.

Blow Up Whale?

"Can you blow up my whale, lady?" asked a small child. I wanted to slap a vulcanized patch over his mouth. "You won't need it," I panted. "Just keep out of the 14-inch and and you'll be safe."

It was all I could do to keep the children out while I filled the pool with the garden hose and added a few slugs of laundry bleach.

Finally, the order was given. "The pool is open."

You wouldn't believe the steady stream of little people

been for Derwood Williams. Little Derwood publicly announced he had done you-know-what in the pool. The bathers scattered like field mice on a cold day. As I walked around the pool picking up wet towels, only one swimmer remained. Derwood.

"How could you?" I asked. "I didn't," he said, floating on his back. "I just hate to swim when it's crowded. It works everytime."

Heaven knows how long this would have gone on had it not

Ceremony Performed

CLINTONVILLE — Miss Beverly Lillie Wegener exchanged nuptial vows with Ronald Wayne Fietzer in a 1:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday at St. Martin Lutheran Church. The Rev. William Christian officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Wegener, 104 Waupaca St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ervin C. Fietzer, route 1, Manawa.

Mrs. August Fischer Jr., Tigerton, attended her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Darryl Fietzer, Mrs. John Lange and Miss Chris Fietzer were bridesmaids.

Daryl Fietzer, Manawa, performed the duties of best man for his brother. Jerry Wegener, John Lange and Doug Behnke were groomsmen. Larry Wegener and Dwayne Gielow shared ushering duties.

WINE On the Table

For more than 100 years Zinfandel has been one of California's most popular red dinner wines. Yet nobody knows exactly what this mysterious grape is or where it comes from.

Possibly Zinfandel's origin isn't known because Hungarian Count Agoston Haraszthy, who brought many grapes from Europe, had such poor handwriting that it was wrongly deciphered. Most likely it's an accidental hybrid of other European grapes.

One thing we do know about Zinfandel wine is that it varies greatly depending on whether the grapes are grown in cool or hot country, on mountain slopes or plains. A new Zinfandel of superior quality is currently being made by the Christian Brothers, whose grapes grow in the cool Napa Valley.

By William Clifford

Zinfandel wine is usually dry but fruity, not austere and mouth-puckering like many European red wines. It has a strong spicy zest all its own, a big aromatic bouquet that reminds some people of raspberries or brambles, and a deep ruby color that adds a sparkle of beauty to any dinner table.

Open this all-American wine an hour ahead of time to let it breathe, serve it at room temperature, and enjoy it with any main course — at a dinner party, a patio cookout, or a picnic.

Zinfandel is especially suited to drinking young — a happy circumstance in today's world of instant living. When a fine Zinfandel reaches the

Promises Exchanged

STOCKBRIDGE — Miss Mary Ellen Gerhartz became the bride of Stanford Byron Bettner Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Rev. William Willinger officiated at the rite.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gerhartz, route 3, Chilton. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Adela Bettner, Potter.

Miss Phyllis Gerhartz attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Jean Schwalenberg.

Performing the duties of best man for his brother was Dennis Bettner. Groomsmen were Richard Schaff. Guests were seated by Kenton Brehmer and Joseph Gerhartz.

Knit it yourself

A Knitter's Paradise

BY LOIS HOLMES

It doesn't matter what color you choose, this dress will be a year-around favorite. Knitted on size 5 needles of gorgeous synthetic yarn and finished with a double strand quick crochet. Little fake pleats make it easy to wear. This is the basic dress of your dreams and always ready to go. You'll wear it to death.

In a hurry? If you have a knitting machine, convert the pattern, knit it on your machine and you'll be wearing it before you know it. If you don't have a double-bed machine, or a ribber, you can make the "pleat" with your latch tool. Sizes 8-16 (34-42 inches) are all included in each pattern.

To order Hand Knit-459 Ribbed Skirt Dress, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Lois Holmes of California, Post-Crescent, Box 6002, Inglewood, Calif. 90302.

Please print your name, address, zip code and pattern numbers plainly. Send 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mail and special handling, or 25 cents each for air mail.

Dear Lois: I have been a fan of yours for a long time. I too, use a lot of 4-ply knitting worsted for knitting but need new crochet ideas for the edges. How can I get a book or pamphlet of crochet edges for yarn that big? — Darina J.

DEAR DARINA: As far as I know, there has never been anything printed quite like that. In the meantime, perhaps this will help you. Since crochet has become popular again, there are new books as well as reprints of old favorite crocheted edgings for use in edging pillowcases, guests towels, and so forth. Many of the simple ones will be beautiful for edges of dresses and suits of heavier yarns, appropriate stitch gauge or tension.

Family Gathers At 14th Reunion

FREMONT — Forty-five persons were present Sunday for the 14th annual reunion of the Wolf family held at the Wolf homestead. Persons attending were from Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Des Plaines, Ill., Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Greenville, Appleton, and Fremont.

The next reunion has been scheduled June 21 1970.

Unscramble Names of Fruit To Win a Printing Press

BY CAPPY DICK

A Superior Flash Printing Plant, including an all-metal printing press, 200 pieces of movable type and supplies, will be awarded for each of the five neatest and most original correct solutions for today's contest puzzle. These will be national grand prizes. The winning entries will be among the preliminary prize winners from all the cities where this column is published.

Five preliminary prizes will be awarded to boys and girls of the Fox Valley area. These prizes will be sets of three wire puzzles which are great fun to take apart and put back together. Entries winning these local awards will be considered, along with such winners from the other cities, when the contest judges select the five national grand prize winners.

The puzzle to be solved is in the picture above. The boy is visiting his uncle's orchard. The kind of fruits growing there are shown on the signs, but the letters are mixed up. You can learn the names of the fruits by rearranging each group of letters.

Clip out the picture. Paste it on a piece of paper. Beneath it print the unscrambled names, numbering each correctly. Print your name, age, address, and Zip number on the entry. Decorate it in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts.

Finally address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek Printing Press Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow. Prize winners' names will be announced here. Their awards will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Lesson in English

WORDS OFTEN MISUSED: Do not say, "Contrasted to this." Say, "Contrasted WITH this."

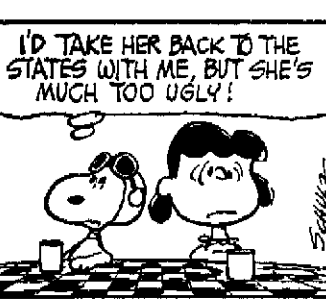

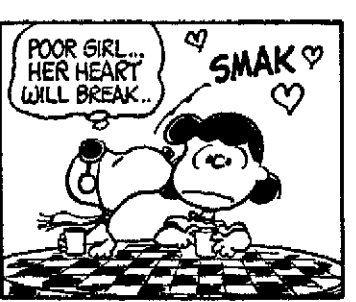

OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED: Grimace. Pronounce gri-mase, with accent on second syllable, not the first.

SYNONYMS: Dre-g-s, sediment, refuse, offal, leas, dross, trash, rubbish.

WORD STUDY: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: INGENUOUS; open; frank; candid; sincere (Pronounce in-jen-yu-uss, accent second syllable). "His ingenuous manner impressed me."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it:

is
LONGFELLOW

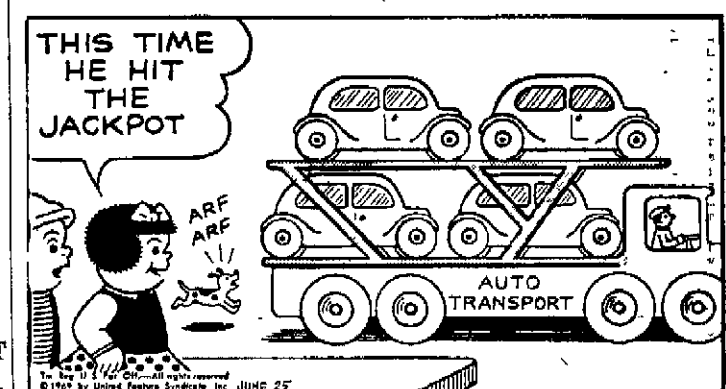

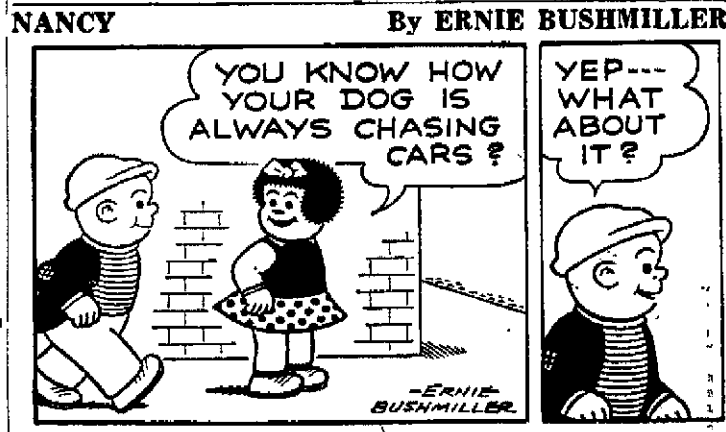

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

repertoire. Frozen ingredients — chicken, shrimp, onion, green pepper, okra and peas — all make for quick preparation and easy assembling for a creditable version of this classic dish.

When minutes are sparse, a wonderful dinner entree can be whipped up with frozen food products such as creamed chipped beef spooned over stuffed baked potatoes. Chopped spinach flavored with vinegar and bacon adds a deft flavor touch to the menu. This makes a wonderful busy day dinner.

California Chicken is another excellent dish that uses a superb marinade dominated by orange juice concentrate and chopped onions. Served with rice and a crisp salad, a festive meal is prepared in minutes. Another menu is for a twosome and the dinner-in-a-loaf is a hearty surprise that features the golden cream-style corn packed and frozen in a flavor-tight cooking pouch that eliminates the need for double boiler cooking.

The Dinner-in-a-Loaf is a recipe you'll want to use often, and probably so will all the others. They're all among the frozen assets of today's streamlined and creative homemaker.

BUSY-DAY DINNER

The menu for a busy day need not harass the cook. Not when the dinner starts with chilled grapefruit section (from a can and chilled way ahead of time); Sherried Chipped Beef on Stuffed baked potatoes (all from frozen food case); Spinach with bacon; corn muffins, and a dessert on hand or frozen, such as Southern Pecan Pie. Add tea, coffee, milk or variation thereof, and the meal will please anyone, family or company.

SHERRIED CHIPPED BEEF ON BAKED POTATOES

- 2 pkgs. (12 ounces each) frozen creamed chipped beef
- 2 pkgs. (10 ounces each) frozen stuffed baked potatoes

SPINACH WITH BACON

Heat chipped beef and baked potatoes according to package directions. Stir sherry into beef mixture just before serving. Serve spooned over baked potatoes. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

DINNER FOR TWO

This menu includes Vi-chyssoise (simply frozen potato soup served chilled with sprinkling of chives); Creamed Chicken and Ham on Noodles; Green Beans in Butter Sauce (right from package in frozen form and heated according to package directions); canned grapefruit sections, chilled, on lettuce; dinner rolls; chocolate layer cake or other dessert of choice, with coffee. The recipe is for the entree.

CREAMED CHICKEN AND HAM

1 pkg. (11½ ounces) frozen creamed chicken
1 cup diced cooked ham
4 tablespoons shredded Parmesan cheese
Cooked medium noodles
Heat chicken according to package directions. Add ham and continue to cook, stirring occasionally, until ham is heated. Stir in cheese. Serve spooned over freshly cooked, drained noodles.

California Chicken

1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 cup water
1 cup frozen chopped onions
2 pkgs. (1 pound each) frozen chicken breasts, thighs or legs, thawed
1 cup cornflake crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
Uncooked rice
Mix together orange juice concentrate, water and chopped onions in a shallow bowl. Add chicken pieces and marinate at least 30 minutes.

Mix together cornflake crumbs, salt, oregano and pepper. Roll chicken pieces in crumb mixture until well coated. Place skin side up in single layer in shallow baking dish. Pour orange juice mixture around chicken pieces. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes, or until chicken is lightly browned and tender. Do not cover or turn chicken while cooking.

Meanwhile, cook rice according to package directions. To serve, place chicken on a bed of hot cooked rice and spoon pan drippings over chicken. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

CUMBERLAND SAUCE

6 ounces canned frozen

orange juice concentrate, thawed
¼ cup currant jelly
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

SQUASH WITH ORANGE

1 pkg. (12 ounces) frozen cooked squash
1 tablespoon frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Salt
Pepper
Place squash in top of double boiler and heat over simmering water. Add orange juice concentrate, butter, salt and pepper; mix well. Recipe makes two to three servings.

CREOLE JAMBALAYA

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 pkg. (1 pound) frozen chicken breasts, thighs or legs, thawed
½ cup frozen chopped onion
½ cup frozen chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups uncooked rice
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (10½-ounces) condensed chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 package (12 ounces) frozen whole okra
1 package (1 pound) frozen shelled deviled shrimp
½ pound cooked smoked ham, cubed (about 1 cup)
1 pkg. (10 ounces) frozen peas
Melt butter in a large skillet, brown chicken on all sides. Remove chicken.

stir gently, cover and bake another 15 minutes, or until shrimp are cooked. Taste and adjust seasonings, if necessary.

Bargains Possible at Some Antique Auctions

BY SYLVIA PORTER

No responsible adviser will guarantee to double or triple your money for you in a couple of years. But in yesterday's column, I gave you enough examples of soaring values to prove that many categories of antiques are surging upward at this pace and more.

Are there any bargains still around for the amateur with only a few hundred dollars to invest? If so, where are they?

I put these questions to experts at New York's Parke-Bernet galleries and, to my astonishment, heard them insist that bargains in antiques do exist.

Many small investors, in fact, are already getting into this field, says Parke-Bernet. Today, a full 60 per cent of the items sold by Parke-Bernet go for under $250 and a very significant 15 per cent go for under $50.

Here are the basic rules: If you are a beginner, concentrate on a specific category which interests you — such as American silver or African carvings or English glass or French tapestries. Subscribe to and collect literature and catalogs in your field. Study and watch prices in your field by surveying the dealers and by attending auctions.

Buy at Auction

If you buy at auction — and you generally can save 25 per cent or more by buying at auction against retail — be sure to attend previews or showings of items before the auction. Examine each item which interests you — including inside drawers of furniture, its hardware, etc. — and ask a lot of questions. Remember, anything you buy is returnable only if it has been misrepresented.

If you are completely uninformed, hire a dependable dealer or connoisseur for a fee to represent you at an auction.

No matter whether you buy at auction or at retail, keep in mind that value depends on these key aspects of an antique: Quality (how good an example is it?); authenticity (can the item's origin be properly verified?); condition; uniqueness (is it rare?); age (is the piece dated and can the date be verified?); era and area (is it from a period and a country considered valuable by connoisseurs?).

Buy the best examples you can afford.

Here are five categories in which experts at Parke-Bernet believe bargains still exist:

(1) Late American Federal (or "Empire") furniture — from the 1830-50 period. Says one Parke-Bernet spokesman, "In this category, $100 is expensive and values are very likely to rise if you're patient."

In pre-1830 early fine American Federal furniture too, lower-priced pieces still are available.

Low Blood Sugar Can Make Life Miserable

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

(Concluding a series of three articles)
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My niece is 4 years old, and my sister says she has low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) and has to have something to eat every two hours. She gets very fussy and throws herself on the floor crying if she isn't fed this often.

booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia (Low Blood Sugar)."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You hear people say you will not mind the heat so much when your blood

It's an old notion that doesn't really mean anything. You can, of course, become acclimated to warm weather, but your blood maintains its normal consistency.

Note to J.R.: Yes, breast cancer is possible in men, and it has occurred, but it is very rare.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dr. Thosteson

Is this condition very serious? Will she ever outgrow it? — A.M.B.

It's not a deadly disease, but it can make a person's life very uncomfortable. Just expecting the youngster to "outgrow it" is expecting too much.

Proper treatment — based on a searching study as to which type of hypoglycemia she has — is another matter. My new booklet on this topic lists 10 varieties of low blood sugar. Hence I can't very well make any guesses in this case, but I do most certainly urge careful study of this child.

Hypoglycemia may not be noticeable until adulthood, or it can create unexplained havoc in children's behavior. Note the following letter.

Dear Doctor: We've recently learned that our son, 9½, has hypoglycemia. In the past year we had taken him to the doctor at least five times for changes in personality which the doctor thought were "mother-made." Do I have reason to be disappointed in our doctor for not having found this earlier? — Mrs. M.K.

You can certainly regret that it wasn't found sooner, but it isn't always easy to spot. Why? Because the symptoms appear only at times when the blood sugar is low.

I think all doctors, including myself, are learning to suspect low blood sugar much oftener than we used to, but I think it is just as important to put the public on guard, too. Once the pattern of attacks is noted, an adequate sugar tolerance test will quickly guide the way to proper treatment. But until that first suspicion emerges, hypoglycemia can be a deceptively on-again-off-again puzzler.

Dear Doctor: You have touched on hypoglycemia. I hope you keep mentioning it. I have been to doctors with the symptoms all my life. It started in Holland, then 23 years in Canada (three provinces). I even had suicidal ideas, so great was the misery. What can one do to make the medical profession more aware of this condition? — H.F.

I think awareness has at last come like a cloudburst. But because of the nature of the ailment, we must make people generally aware. Symptoms don't always appear conveniently just at the time the doctor is examining a patient.

Dear Doctor: Is it okay to do without sugar entirely and to use artificial sweeteners when you have hypoglycemia? — Mrs. R.S.

Yes, and many people now do. But adequate protein in the diet is also a necessity. All I can do in this column is hit some of the high spots, but I hope that my new booklet will be as helpful as I think it will. For a copy, write to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask for the

Insecticide Called Source of Pollution of Rhine River

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Dutch scientists say an insecticide is the substance that has killed millions of fish in the Rhine River and threatens to pollute the water supplies in Dutch and German cities.

But West German officials said they could not confirm the Dutch report Tuesday night.

"We're still very much up in the air because we don't know the origin of the poison," an official of the North Rhine-Westphalia Agriculture Ministry said.

Dead fish began appearing last week along a 12-mile section of the Rhine between Bingen and St. Goarshausen in the West German state of Rhineland Palatinate.

By Tuesday, millions of dead fish had been found along the 185-mile stretch of the river that runs north from Bingen to Amsterdam.

Amsterdam officials cut off water from the Rhine, which normally supplies half of the city's needs, and began using emergency reservoirs.

West German authorities ordered waterworks along the river "to make continuous checks for possible poison" and to be prepared to shut off Rhine water that goes to 3.5 million Germans.

West German purification plants placed baskets of live trout between the river and their plants to serve as poison detectors. Officials were prepared to switch to auxiliary water supplies if the trout died.

A laboratory in North Rhine-Westphalia placed healthy fish in the Rhine and they died within seven minutes.

Dutch and German police warned swimmers, fishermen, campers and residents to stay away from the polluted waters and not to touch dead fish. Farmers were warned to keep their cattle from the river.

Wild ducks in the Coblenz area reportedly died after drinking river water, but ducks at Dusseldorf, 60 miles to the north, apparently suffered no ill effects.

Water traffic was disrupted in the Netherlands' vast network of canals and lakes when authorities closed locks fearing contamination.

The poison apparently entered the Rhine somewhere between Bingen and St. Goarshausen, a picturesque grape-growing region which includes the legendary Lorelei Rock. Legend says a blonde siren sat on a high bluff and lured fishermen to their deaths on the rocks below.

Coroner's Report Accidental Overdose Of Drugs Killed Judy

LONDON (AP) — A coroner's inquest ruled today that entertainer Judy Garland's death in her Chelsea home Sunday was accidental following an "incubated self-overdose" of barbiturates.

The inquest in a courthouse near the Houses of Parliament was called to determine what happened to Miss Garland, 47, who had won worldwide acclaim but was dogged by divorces and suicide attempts.

Her fifth husband, former New York discoteque owner Mickey Deans, said she occasionally took tablets for sleeping.

"Judy always locked the bathroom door," he told the court. "She told me this habit went back to her MGM (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) days when she was a little girl of 11 standing in a slip with men walking all round her and she felt self-conscious."

"Drank Little"

Deans said Miss Garland "drank very little, as opposed to what people think."

"She left a lot of drinks around the house but she sipped more than she drank," he said. "She was not a drinker in the true sense."

Deans found his wife's body in their bathroom.

The verdict ruled out any suspicion of suicide. Friends had said before the hearing that Miss Garland had been extremely happy in London since her marriage to Deans.

Coroner Gavin Thurston said there was no question of alcoholism and he also ruled out any question that Miss Garland had meant to take her own life. He said there was no sign of cirrhosis of the liver.

Quinal Barbitone

Thurston said 4.9 milligrams of quinal barbitone was found in Miss Garland's blood, an extremely high level. He said medical evidence showed a clear pattern of a person who had been habituated to barbiturates over a very long period of time.

"She had taken more barbiturate than the body could tolerate," he said.

Deans, wearing a dark blue suit and tinted glasses, testified in his real name of Michael De Vinko.

He told Thurston: "Judy and I met about three years ago. We married on March 15—about three months ago."

"Judy was weak, run down a bit, but otherwise happy. She disliked eating . . . It was more of a necessity."

He said she had taken sleeping tablets since he was a child.

Deans said his wife often woke up in the middle of the night feeling hungry and staggered and fell when she got out of bed to get some food.

He said he had known her to take a fairly large dose of barbiturate when she went to bed and then take some more during the night.

The oak-paneled courtroom was packed with newsmen. Besides Deans, the only witnesses were a pathologist who had carried out an autopsy, her personal physician and a police officer.

10 Tablets

Dr. Derek Pocock, the pathologist, estimated that Miss Garland had taken about ten 15-grain tablets before she died.

"The high level of barbiturates in her body was enough to cause death," he said.

Pocock said in his opinion the cause of death was barbiturate poisoning. He said there was no alcohol in Miss Garland's blood and that he found no sign of chronic alcoholism.

Dr. John Trehearne, Miss Garland's doctor, said she found it very difficult to eat. He said her moods fluctuated widely—sometimes gay, other times depressed.

"I found no reason for the depressions," he said. "I thought she was generally a happy person."

Very Happy

Trehearne said Miss Garland had told him recently, "I didn't know I could be this happy."

Trehearne said he had known Miss Garland to take six to eight 15-grain tablets in a single dose.

"She was an habitual drugtaker and had been like this for many years," he said. "She would find sleeping almost impossible without them."

Dr. Trehearne said he gave Miss Garland anti-depressant pills but said these did not contribute to her death.

"She did not drink a great deal," he said. "She would occasionally drink vodka mixed with fruit juices and would quite often take one and a half hours to finish each glass."

"This was not the way an alcoholic drinks," he said.

Deans said he watched television with his wife the evening before her death and they went to bed together just after midnight.

"I woke up at 10:40 a.m. to answer a telephone call but Judy wasn't in bed," he said. "I went to find her and found the bathroom door was locked. I called to her but she didn't reply. I went outside the house and climbed in through the bathroom window."

"She was lying on the floor and when I tried to pick her up I thought she made a slight noise, like a groan."

Sgt. David Prout testified that he went to Miss Garland's home after Deans had telephoned police. He said he saw Miss Garland's body slumped on the toilet, with her head resting in her hands.

"I found some capsules on a bedside table but there were none in the bathroom," he said.

Miss Garland died between 3 a.m. and 5 a.m., Sunday Dr. Trehearne estimated.

In New York, throngs of sorrowing fans are expected to pay their last tribute to Miss Garland when her body goes on public view Thursday.

depletion allowance in the surtax extension bill.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, told the Rules Committee, which reports the bill to the floor, the Nixon administration had given a firm commitment to support broad tax reforms later.

But another Ways and Means member, Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., said "if this bill passes without reforms, in my judgment there will be no reform."

The Rules Committee agreed on a "closed rule"—meaning no amendments—for the handling of the bill on the floor.

But the Ways and Means Committee could modify it by committee amendments—shortening the extension, adding reforms or both—if leaders find that simple persuasion does not bring in enough votes in the next two weeks.

Bomb Found
At Prince's
Landing Site

HOLYHEAD, Wales (AP) — Police discovered a bomb today on the pier where Prince Charles is due to arrive next week for his investiture as Prince of Wales.

The area was cleared and army bomb disposal experts were called.

The prince is to arrive at Holyhead Tuesday aboard the royal yacht Britannia. He will drive 30 miles to Caernarvon, the ancient capital of Wales, for the investiture ceremony.

Police gave no immediate details on when the bomb was timed to explode or its explosive power.

Officials have admitted that fears of demonstrations or a possible assassination attempt by Welsh nationalist extremists are keeping people away from the ceremonies. Empty hotel rooms and spare tickets are going begging in Caernarvon.

Otepka Gets Okay For Security Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Otto F. Otepka, ousted in 1963 as chief security evaluator for the State Department, has won the Senate's approval for a higher-ranking job.

After relatively brief discussion, the Senate voted 61-20 Tuesday to confirm President Nixon's nomination of Otepka as a $36,000-a-year member of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Supporters hailed the outcome as a vindication of Otepka, who was ordered dismissed from the State Department on grounds he provided the Senate internal security subcommittee with confidential documents without authorization. In 1967, the dismissal order was changed to demotion, transfer and reprimand.

Thirty-five Republican senators voted for confirmation of the appointment of Otepka to the board, while six others were against it. The Democratic lineup was 26 for and 22 against.

During debate on the nomination, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, moved to send it back to the Senate Judiciary Committee but this bid to kill the appointment was defeated 56-35.

Young, who also introduced a bill to abolish the board, said "the President's appointment of Otepka might be simply dismissed as his tossing a bone to restive right-wing elements."

But he said that "more important, it may be an indication that he intends to keep alive part of his past as a Communist chaser by resurrecting the discredited Subversive Activities Control Board."

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said that Otepka "has been a tremendous public servant" and deserved unanimous support by the Senate.

He spoke just before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the assistant Democratic leader, said that Otepka has not demonstrated the qualifications called for by the SACB post. He also said the SACB doesn't have enough to do to keep one member busy, let alone a fifth member.

Dollars Keep on Shrinking As Inflation Erodes Wages

Pay Increases Eaten Away Before They Can Be Put to Effective Use

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans, earning more money today than ever, are dismayed at the inroads inflation has made on their buying power and the disruption it has caused in their plans for the future.

Housewives are perturbed by climbing food costs and husbands are holding off on decisions to buy new homes and cars.

The reason for their distress is plain—The value of the dollar you earned in 1958 has eroded to 79 cents.

"I probably spend twice as much on groceries now as I did four years ago,"

Grocery Bill That's what inflation means to Patricia Misuradze, wife of a Kirkland, Wash., school teacher and mother of three.

"Four and a half years ago I was paying 51 cents to get my husband's trousers cleaned. Now it's 79 cents."

Through the comments of people in a dozen major cities runs the complaint that their rising incomes haven't kept up with jumping prices. Even so, many say they are holding to their accustomed standard of living if it means dipping into savings and borrowing.

the equivalent of only $77.63 on the basis of 1957-58 prices.

Staying Even The cost of living rose in April for the 27th consecutive month to 126.4 per cent of the 1957-58 average. This meant it cost $12.84 to buy goods and services that cost $10 ten years ago.

"Every time my husband gets a raise, prices go up," said Joan Daraich, whose husband Harvey teaches school in Atlanta, Ga. "So in effect we haven't had a raise. We're just staying even."

"We've been looking at houses. We were in better shape to buy a house two years ago than we are today despite pay raises. I guess we should have gone ahead. A house now will cost us several thousand dollars more than it would have then."

Mrs. Daraich is right. The Commerce Department reports that the median price of a new one-family house has climbed this way: 1965—$20,100; 1966—$21,500; 1967—$22,800; 1968—$24,800.

Interest Rates And, in addition to the higher initial cost of the house, rising interest rates and taxes have swelled the cost of owning a home. In the last year mortgage interest rates have risen from 7 per cent to 8 1/2 per cent in most parts of the country, meaning that payments on a $15,000 30-year mortgage would rise to $135 from $120 a month.

"Rising building costs and rising interest rates have put home ownership beyond the reach of more and more American families," says Tom B. Scott Jr., president of the United States Savings and Loan league.

"We're just not doing a lot of things we'd like to be doing," said Florence Mikkelsen, a Palo Alto, Calif., bank clerk with a daughter going to high school and another teaching school. "We make all our own clothes. We're getting along with a car we've had for 11 years."

Auto Sales But a lot of people are going ahead and buying cars. Auto industry sources estimate sales this year at 8.8 million, a good year and equal to 1960.

Mrs. Thomas Chapa, a Corpus Christi, Tex., housewife, mourns that "everything has gone up but groceries are sky high. I'm doing something I once said I'd never do—that is shop in three or four different stores to get the best buys."

David Blakely, a type compositor in Denton, Tex., lamented that food has gone up but finds some solace in the fact that "the price of beer is steady."

People living on pensions and Social Security payments have been particularly hard hit.

Fixed Incomes "We find the squeeze is on the older people who are on a fixed Social Security income," says Sidney J. Berkowitz, executive director of Jewish Family and Community Services in Chicago.

"All solid service agencies face a shortage of funds. We don't have the wherewithal to meet the increased cost of doing business. Just meeting the bills is a problem."

While the Social Security payment to a retired worker and his wife has risen from $191.94 a month in 1958 to $198.07, the gain in purchasing power has been slim.

Rising taxes are another major drain. It's estimated that from 1955 to 1968 taxes grew three times as fast as the increases in gross weekly earnings.

Property Taxes John Raddy, a New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. executive in Schuette, Mass., said taxes on his home have soared from $1,100 to $1,800 a year in the last two years. He said prices and taxes have shot up so fast that he'd "rather see a freeze on inflation and forego salary increases."

Hawaii is the most expensive state in which to live because of soaring retail prices and taxes. A head of lettuce that sells for 20 cents in Los Angeles costs 88 cents there. A can of Hawaii-grown pineapple costs 11 cents more than on the mainland.

"We are fast becoming peasants in paradise," said Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi.

Mrs. Grant McGee of Denver, Colo., said professional men like her attorney husband "now have to figure on working more years in order to prepare for their retirement. Proceeds from insurance policies taken out years ago don't go anywhere near as far as you'd hoped."

Insurance Total With inflation whittling at the value of the dollar, the average insured family increased its life policy total from $11,000 in 1958 to $23,000 at the beginning of 1969.

Parents have found that the money put aside for their children's education is not going as far as expected. Here are some examples of increases in yearly college costs between the 1962-63 and 1968-69 school years: Harvard University, tuition and fees $1,500 to $2,000; room and board $1,145 to $1,240. University of Wisconsin (state-resident students), tuition and fees $236 to $300; room and board $630 to $940. Mills College, Oakland, Calif., tuition and fees 1,400 to $1,915; room and board $1,070 to $1,205.

Inflation has hit single persons as badly as families. Communal Living Pat Danks, a publicist of Aspen, Colo., commented: "Thank God I'm making what I am now or I couldn't stay here. You don't go to the movies that much. Or being single, you hope you get a date. If there's any better advertisement for communal living, this is it. Sometimes it's the only way you can afford to live."

And architect Gerald Shapiro, a 28-year-old bachelor of Beverly Hills, Calif., said, "Inflation is pushing men like me to go broke on $20,000 a year. I'm doing fine if I have a couple of hundred dollars left. I get about 15 per cent salary hikes every year but they are almost completely eaten up by higher prices. I guess I should marry a working girl."

The rate at which Americans put their money into savings accounts slipped by $4.8 billion in 1968, the Securities and Exchange Commission reported. There was a strong move this year in an effort to get a better return.

Bond Purchases Purchases of corporate and foreign bonds rose last year to a record $4.3 billion from $3.6 billion in 1967. Net purchases of mutual funds climbed to $5.7 billion from $3.8 billion.

Cities felt the pinch of inflation when they tried to sell bond issues to finance schools, hospitals and other improvements. With commercial banks—the major buyers of municipal bonds—having a limited supply of funds because of the tight money situation, the aggregate offering of municipal issues declined from $6.4 billion in the first five months of 1967 to $5.1 billion in the like period of 1968 and to $5.4 billion this year.

New York City this year had to pay 6.85 per cent interest to borrow $100 million for three months. A year ago the rate would have been 1 1/2 percentage points lower.

Recently Seminole County, Fla., and the cities of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dallas, Tex., failed to receive any bids on proposed school bond issues.

Mets Sweep Phils, Trail By 4 1/2 Games

Astros, Cubs Win;
San Diego Falls to
10th Straight Loss

By MURRAY CHAM

While the New York Mets and the Houston Astros keep winning games, the San Diego Padres keep losing them and the Philadelphia Phillies keep losing Richie Allen.

The Astros defeated San Francisco 4-1 Tuesday night for their eighth straight victory and 21st in their last 24 home games. The Padres, on the other hand, dropped their 10th in a row, a 4-3 decision to Cincinnati.

The Mets, who used to be the worst expansion team in the majors, continued their reversal, gaining their second consecutive doubleheader sweep by knocking off the Phillies 2-1 and 5-0.

But while the Phillies pondered the incredible Mets, who have won 20 of their last 25 games, they also wondered where Allen went.

The controversial first baseman failed to show for the second time this season, and Manager Bob Skinner suspended him indefinitely without pay.

In other National League action, Atlanta downed Los Angeles 9-5, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 3-2 and Montreal topped St. Louis 4-1.

Allen has built a reputation for getting lost and either not getting to games on time or not turning to Page 5, Col. 1.

Unseeded Cliff Richey, of Dallas, is on the move during his match against 14th-ranked South African Bob Hewitt in the Wimbledon Open tennis championships at Wimbledon, England, Tuesday. Richey scored the first major upset of the tournament with a 6-4, 6-8, 9-7 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Foxes Win, Climb Within 5 Points of Idle Quincy

Ryan Called To Active Army Duty

BY JOHN L. PAUSTAIN

The Appleton Foxes, Tuesday night, used an opportunistic attack, the 10-strikeout pitching of Bart Johnson and the 1-pitch magic of Roger Benko to turn back Cedar Rapids, 6-4, in another pivotal Midwest League game at Goodland Field.

With the hard-earned win — their third straight of the Cardinal series and their 20th in 23 home starts — the runnerup Foxes inched closer to the front-running Quincy Cubs, who were rained out. Appleton trails Quincy by 5 percentage points in the ML's sizzling first-round race, which ends in four days.

The Foxes picked up a half-game on third place Quad Cities, which was held to a split by Burlington. The Bees and the Angels traded 6-0 wins, with Burlington prevailing in the opener.

2 Open Dates

Byes in the schedule force the Foxes to mark time tonight and Thursday before swinging into the climax of the race Friday and Saturday nights in Wisconsin Rapids.

Although the Foxes cruised to a 5-1 lead in the first three frames last night, they were to encounter an all-out battle from the Cards before cementing the win. Cedar Rapids halved the Foxes' lead with a pair in the fifth and came within one run — 5 to 4 — with another marker in the seventh. Appleton added one in its half of the seventh, but Cedar Rapids applied the pressure anew in the top of the ninth.

Gonzales, Pasarell Stage Marathon

Cliff Richey Scores Upset at Wimbledon

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., pulled off one of the major upsets of the rain-delayed start of the annual Wimbledon tennis tournament Tuesday but all the talk of the 12,000 excited spectators was about the marathon between Pancho Gonzales and Charles Pasarell.

Pasarell took the first two sets of the All-America duel, 24-22, 6-1 when play had to be halted because of darkness. The score of the first set equalled the Wimbledon record set in 1963 when Nicki Pilic of Yugoslavia defeated Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy.

Richey, unseeded, ousted Bob Hewitt, South Africa's Australian born Davis Cupper, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 9-7. The upset was on a par with the 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-4 setback handed Ray Moore, also of South Africa, by John Alexander, 18-year-old Australian.

Hewitt was seeded No. 14 and Moore No. 13. Their defeats highlighted a day of suspense and drama which brought Wimbledon to life after a first day blanketed out by rain.

Breath Catcher

The final set of the Richey-Hewitt duel was a real breath-catcher. Richey had two service breaks in that set. He led 3-2 but threw away his chance of a quick kill by dropping his own service — double-faulting on game point.

The struggle went on, and Hewitt with the score at 7-7, Hewitt served two successive double-faults and slumped to 15-40. He won the next point, but then failed with a half-volley. Richey took his chance this time, serving and volleying through the next game to victory.

The marathon set between Gonzales and Pasarell lasted two hours, and for the first 45 set was over.

Twins Triumph

Melton Slams Three Homers as White Sox Sweep; Orioles Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Post-Crescent News Service

The Orioles' sweet sixteen party was in full swing in Baltimore and Bill Melton had a ball in Seattle, but Ken Harrelson's homecoming-turned sour in Boston.

These were the highlights of Tuesday's action in the American League, which ended with the Orioles opening a 10-game bulge over Boston in the East while Minnesota vaulted back into first place by one-half game over Oakland in the West.

—Frank Robinson, Paul Blair and Boog Powell each hit his 16th home run in Baltimore's 6-3 11-inning triumph over Washington. Robinson hit a disputed shot with two on in the 11th to win it while Blair socked two solo homers and Powell one.

—Melton, third baseman for the Chicago White Sox, homered with the bases empty his first three times up in the second game as the Sox swept a twin-nighter from Seattle 6-4, 7-5.

—Harrelson, the high-flying "Hawk" who retired for several days after the Red Sox traded him to Cleveland in April, made his long-awaited return to Boston's Fenway Park but went hitless in six at-bats as the Indians split a day-night doubleheader, winning 6-3, then losing 6-1.

Elsewhere, Minnesota edged California 5-3, Kansas City nipped Oakland 6-5 and Detroit tripped the New York Yankees 2-1.

The Baltimore-Washington contest ended in a wild argument, with the Senators claiming Robinson's homer was foul. Third base umpire Hank Soar first raised both hands, the foul sign, then pointed to fair territory.

Soar, who had his hands full with the Yankees over the weekend, said he was blinded momentarily by light reflecting off the glass front of the football press box alongside the foul pole in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

—"I couldn't find the ball and didn't give any signal at first because the ball got into the lights," he said. "But then it struck at the bottom of the stands. I've never seen so much hollering and screaming, throwing bats and such. They (the Senators) were like a bunch of wild Indians."

Shortstop Eddie Brinkman, of the Senators said the ball was "foul, definitely foul, a yard or two past the pole. It was a choke call. None of them have a gut in their body. They're all homers."

But Powell, who was in the on-deck circle, said he was "standing looking right at it. I saw it good and it went around the right side of the pole—fair."

Blair and Powell homered in the first inning and Blair connected again in the third for a 3-0 lead. But the Senators' lead was short-lived as Jim Fingers' two-run homer in the fifth and Fred L. Jones' RBI single in the sixth.

Despite Melton's cannoning, the White Sox needed Ed Herrmann's tie-breaking homer Pasarell rushed through the second set, despite protests from Old Pancho that it was too dark to play. At the end of that set the match was called—and Gonzales dropped his racket and stormed off the court to boos from the crowd.

—Laver Wines, reigning champion and hot favorite for the first prize of $7,200, opened the tournament true to form and beat Pietrangeli, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Other seeds came through the first round safely, though some were extended. Arthur Ashe, reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., recovered from a bad first set to defeat Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 1-6, 11-9, 6-3, 7-5. Tony Roche of Australia, the No. 2 seed and last year's defeated finalist, trailed 2-5 to Jean Claude Barclay in the first set but fought back to win, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

In one of the day's best matches, John Newcombe of Australia downed Pilic 12-10, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

Two other leading American contenders, Clark Graebner and Dennis Ralston, had straight sets victories. Graebner, of New York City, downed an old Davis Cup foe, Ray Ruffels of Australia, 6-4, 8-6, 6-3. Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., downed Jaidip Mukerjee of India, 6-2, 8-6, 7-5.

South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, below his best form, labored in defeating Patrick Hombgen of Belgium, 7-5, 7-5, 9-7. Fred Stolle of Australia, three times Wimbledon runner-up but never champion, eliminated Paul Hutchins of Britain, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

—Selgas, Olmeda Beaten Two former champions were tumbled in the first round—both of them veterans who have come back to try their luck at an Open Wimbledon.

—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the 1953 winner and now 45 years old, went out fighting to Roger Taylor of Britain 4-6, 11-13, 2-6.

—Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles, 33-year-old Peruvian-born star who won Wimbledon in 1959, took Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., to five sets but went out 6-8, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 5-7.

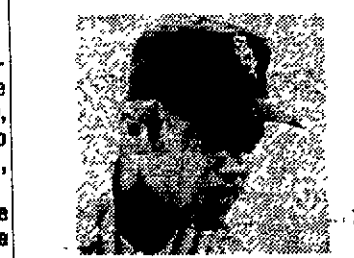

The fans watched the tennis in chilly, overcast weather, with rain always threatening. Flags were at half staff for Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, the women's champion here in 1952, 1953 and 1954, who died of cancer at Dallas, Tex., last Saturday.

Board Approves Kimberly's M-E Pullout in Year

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly board of education has approved Kimberly High School's withdrawal from the Mid-Eastern Conference after the 1968-70 school year.

The new Fox Valley Association, including Kimberly, five other Fox Cities schools and Oshkosh — plans to start operation in 1970-1 (one year earlier than originally scheduled).

—Yesterday's Stars BATTING—Bill Melton, White Sox, belted three solo homers, and a double in Chicago's 7-4 victory over Seattle in the second game of a twin-nighter.

Dana Ryan

used his crackling curve ball to whiff the first two batters — George Roque and Joe Snyder — the Cards filled the bases. Pinch batter, C. L. Bowly, walked, Bartee singled to left, and George Millan beat out a hit to deep short.

Manager Tom Saffell felt the time was ripe to call on his talented bullpen brigade. The choice of lefty Benko proved ideal as far as the 611 Goodland Field witnesses were concerned. On the first pitch Benko served up to pinch-batter Dave Chichon the ball came bouncing right back to the mound, and the 6-1 Hoosier (from Granger, Ind.) threw him out.

Johnson's seventh victory was preserved, and Bart tied Don Eddy for the club lead.

Though Cedar Rapids is out of first-round title contention, manager Roy Majtyka played it to the hilt — employing six pitchers in a bid to salvage the series finale. The loser was starter Mike Brandt, the Cards' ace, who suffered his first loss.

Dana Ryan, in his Foxes' swan song for 1969, teamed with Greg Howell to lead the attack. Each collected a pair of singles. Ryan has been called to active duty with the reserve army unit.

Fred Grooms' single drove in a Cedar Rapids run in the opening inning. The Foxes, however, bounced back with three in the second to assume a lead, which was to be permanent. A bases-

Joe Runk Sets Sights On Placekicking Job After Year in 'Minors'

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Joe Runk, a cherubic Indian with a talented toe, was content to ply his trade in the Continental League a year ago.

But Joe, who aspires to be a kicker, now feels he is ready for pro football's big show.

"He has real good form," Cone observed as Joe arched a 60-yard kickoff goalward, "and pretty good punch."

Recruiting Trip Fred, a Clemson assistant coach on a recruiting trip through the Midwest, speaks with considerable authority. He kicked more field goals, 53, than any other man in Packer history except Paul Hornung and leads the team's all time list of conversions with 200.

Runk, however, wasn't entirely happy with his performance. "I was doing lot better in Las Vegas," he said. "We had a little better temperatures there, and the grass wasn't so long."

"On my kickoffs I like to be exactly five yards back. But the field I was kicking on today wasn't lined and it's hard to tell where you are. After you can do that, it's mechanical."

Joe, a native of Kokomo, Ind., who later moved to Phoenix and now makes his home in Las Vegas, booted the longest field goal of the '68 Continental League season, a 50-yarder, and connected on 11 of 21 attempts overall to merit the Packers' interest.

Western Conference "Our team actually began the season playing in the Western Football Conference," he reported. "Riverside, Calif., Pomona and Palm Springs, California and the Los Angeles

Army Throws Rams' Fullback, Dyer, for Loss

FT. IRWIN, Calif. (AP) —

Reserve fullback Henry Dyer of the Los Angeles Rams was thrown for a loss by military discipline Tuesday.

The National Guard, it seems, took a dim view of matters when Dyer was assigned to stand guard—and took a sleeping bag along with him.

The 235-pound Dyer, from Grambling College, is at this desert training base with California's 40th Armored Brigade.

Offensive Stars Missing All-America Tilt Looms Defensive Battle

BY RON SPEER

"I think we'll get several touchdowns," said Pepper Rodgers of Kansas, coach of the West. "We've got some great players."

Penn State's Joe Paterno, coaching the East, also has confidence in his attack. He said his offensive line is so strong he may be tempted to stick to a running game much of the time.

No O. J.

However, both the East and the West are missing some top offensive players originally scheduled to play in the game. Most of the missing players, O. J. Simpson of Southern Cal, running back who won the Heisman Trophy, is missing from the West roster along with pass catchers Gene Washington of

Stanford and Bob Klein of Southern Cal.

Missing from the East's offense will be running backs Leroy Keyes of Purdue and Ron Johnson of Michigan, tight end Ted Kwalick of Penn State and split end Ron Sellers of Florida State.

Fifteen players listed on the original roster have been replaced. Twelve of them were first-round choices in the pro draft of the 1968 college season.

Remain Unsigned

Most of the missing players, O. J. Simpson of Southern Cal, running back who won the Heisman Trophy, is missing from the West roster along with pass catchers Gene Washington of Paul Gipson of Houston, counted on heavily for running duties for the West, was scheduled to report today. Rodgers said Gipson was coming in late because his wife gave birth this week.

Despite the satisfaction of the coaches with their squads, the absence of Simpson and other offensive standouts apparently has had a sharp effect on ticket sales.

Officials of the game conceded privately that the turnout Saturday night may be the smallest since the game was moved to Atlanta in 1966 from Buffalo, N.Y., because of declining attendance.

Clintonville's Legion Team Nips Appleton

FOX VALLEY LEAGUE

Shawnee	1	2	1	2

CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville scored a run in the bottom of the seventh inning, just after Appleton had tied the score, to earn a 2-1 Fox River Valley American Legion League baseball triumph Monday.

Pat Ziegler hurried for the winners and allowed only six hits. Clintonville scored a run in the fifth inning and continued to lead until Appleton tied it in the top half of the seventh frame.

Appleton is now 3-2 in Section 2 of the Southern Division. Clintonville is 2-2.

Kaukauna Test Resumes 5 Softball Tourney Games Set Thursday

KAUKAUNA — Five games, are scheduled as the Kaukauna Athletic Club Softball Tournament resumes action Thursday night.

Three of the contests will be played on the old diamond and two on the new diamond. At the old site, Tommy's Angels, Oshkosh, tests Benkowski Budweiser, Green Bay, at 6 p.m. in the opening tilt.

KAC Bows, 3-2

At the new site, Racine Merchants takes on Loch's Bar, Green Bay, at 7:15 p.m. Dickenson Heating, Little Suamico, clashes with Van-L-Limited,

Green Bay, in the remaining tilt at 8:30 p.m.

In the tournament's most recent competition last Saturday, Tommy's Angels nipped Kaukauna Athletic Club, 3-2.

Denmark Circle Tap edged Kaukauna Lee & Sandy's, 2-1.

Ed Raatz Inn tipped Raabe Paint, 1-0, in eight innings in a battle of two Milwaukee teams.

Bleier's Bar rapped Green Bay Ritter's Bobcats, 4-1.

Jack's Rose Hill got past Green Bay Schornert, 2-1, in 11 innings.

Mason Lanes outlasted Joyce & Tugger's, 17-14, and Jitter & John's squeaked by Oshkosh Oregon Clothing, 1-0.

Three more games will be played in the tourney Friday and four Saturday. The championship and consolation games are slated for Sunday night.

Award Will be Made in Memory of 'Little Mo'

DALLAS (AP) — The first annual Maureen Connolly Brinker Award will be presented to an outstanding junior girl player during the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association national championships at Philadelphia in early August.

"Little Mo" died Saturday in Dallas at the age of 34.

Dick's Wins 3, Takes Lead in Softball League

KIMBERLY — Dick's Laugh-a (3-2) won a trio of games last week to take over first place in the Kimberly Recreation Association's 16-inch softball league.
Paul Stuyvenberg was the winning pitcher in all games as Dick's beat Hank & Connie's, 12-1; Jerry's Lanes, 13-7; and Precast Concrete, 7-5. Dave Williamson hit a homer in each game and was 4-for-4 and 3-for-4 in two of them. Bob Harkes had a pair of 3-hit days for Dick's, while Arnie Wittman, Dick Frank, Al Hammen and Stuyvenberg had three hits in one game. Hank Peerenboom
and Frank also homered.
Louie Thein and Jim Van Der
Zort homered for Precast (3-5);
Joe VanKrey and Phil Van
Zankelt were 3-for-4 for Hank & Connie's; while D. Seegers was 3-for-5 for Jerry's and Jerry Stuyvenberg homered.
Dud's Inn (3-4) also scored a trio of wins, beating Hank & Connie's, 10-8, and Precast, 11-8, behind Bill Bolwerk and stopped
Van Daalwyk, 10-9, behind Buck
Zillges. Bob Dercks and Ron Dollevoet both had 2-homer games for the winners. Tim Versteegen had a 4-for-5 game and hit a homer in another.
Tom Schiedermayer and Virg Reynebeau were other hitting stars. Hank Jansen, of Hank &
Connie's, went 4-for-4 and Joe
Van Krey 3-for-3. Bob Van
Gompel, Ron Dollevoet and Len
Wyngaard homered for Van Daalwyk.
Van Daalwyk's (4-3) beat Jerry's, 14-1, and Precast, 11-6, behind Jim Fressetto. Van Gompel had a 3-for-3 game, and Ken Dollevoet homered for the winners. T. Van Nuland was 3-for-3 for Jerry's.
Willie DeKleyn (4-for-5) led Jerry's (2-5) to a 12-11 win over
Hank & Connie's (4-3). Bob Fressette and Joe Van Krey were 3-for-3 for the losers, with Fressette homering.

Return of Wills Gives Dodgers Lift

The thief has returned to the scene of the crime. But, more importantly, if paradoxically, to the Dodgers, the statue in the team shrine is stealing second again.

For Dodger believers, it was as if St. Francis were back feeding birds. Joan of Arc were back leading the troops. St. Christopher were carrying travelers across a raging stream.

The Dodgers were sniffing penant again. It was like 1959 all over when a next-to-last-place team suddenly was making noises like a real live contender, and the front office sent down to Spokane for a punch hitter who had spent so many years in the deep minors, he gawked at two-story buildings.

Today, whenever Dodger fans gather to discuss the good old days, they get teary-eyed when they talk of "Zack," or "Jackie," or "Sandy," or "Dazzy" or "Duke," "Newk," "Campy" or "Pee Wee."

And then someone says, "Remember 'The House'?" And then they have a real good cry.

When Maurice Morning Wills first led the Dodgers to a pennant in '59 after a lackluster minor league career, there were those who thought he was Mickey Mouse in cleats. They kept telling each other, the first time they saw a tiny girl with wings and a wand flying around his shoulders, they would protest to the league. But when he stole 104 bases in 1962, they thought he was even less mortal than that.

It's hard to say trading Maury Mills was the biggest mistake ever made. But it ranks somewhere between Russia selling Alaska and the Red Sox selling Babe Ruth.

Cloud of Dust

The pennant and the play-offs and the world championships rolled with Maury — '59, '62, '63, '65, '66. When you went to the ballpark and someone said, "Which one's Wills?" You said, "You see that cloud of dust over there?" Maury's legs were a strawberry patch. You could tell it was September because Maury was sliding headfirst. He slid headfirst because he didn't want to get blood on the bags. They tagged him so hard you could read, "Warren Giles, Official National League Baseball" backwards on his forehead.

If they played him deep, he bunted. If they played him in, he slapped the ball just over their reach. They used to say of Babe Ruth, "He hit home runs where nobody ever did before." Well, so did Maury Wills. Babe's went in the next county. Maury's went clear to the left field tarpaulin. A bunt single was the equivalent of a home run, anyway.

Cut Distance

It wasn't entirely that he was so fast. It was just that he knew how to cut the distance between bases from 90 feet to 75. Maury could run the first five yards faster than a kid who hears a noise in the cemetery. There wasn't a pitcher in the league could hold him on. If he got back safely by a yard on a pickoff attempt, he took 35 inches more on his second lead.

They used to criticize Maury for stealing when his team led 8-0. But Maury felt, like every good thief, that when the lights were out, that was the time to make your move. "Is Henry Aaron not supposed to try to hit a home run because his team is ahead?" Maury demanded logically.

Maury stole on his own. That finally was the trouble. He got thrown out for stealing home — by Walter O'Malley for stealing home from Japan in 1967.

Cutting Adrift

It was as melancholy as the Vatican cutting Santa Claus adrift, or giving an Old Master to the mailman. What they got for Maury couldn't lead the 1927 Yankees to a pennant.

Walter O'Malley went scouring through the attics and trashcans of baseball for his petulantly-discarded treasure this month. He has found it, dusted it off; restored it, put No. 30 back on it, and has it in its fitting showcase, the Louvre of Baseball, Dodger Stadium.

Not everyone is an art connoisseur. "What's he want him for?" grumbled the newer fans. They said that in 1959, too.

Shawano '9' Wins Over New London

NEW LONDON—Terry Buchholz limited New London to two hits in hurling Shawano to a 5-2 victory in Fox River Valley Legion League Monday.

Buchholz fanned 11 and walked four. He also was the hitting standout, with three singles in five appearances.

Loser Terry Wing hurled seven innings, allowing three runs, seven hits, and four walks, and he struck out seven. Steve Sanders gave up two runs, two hits and one walk, and he fanned four.

Shawano scored twice in the opening inning on a walk, Stu Druckery's run-producing double and Chuck Naber's single. A run was tallied in the third on a single, a fielder's choice, an infield out and an error.

New London tallied two runs in the seventh on a walk, Joel Kleinbrook's single and an infield error.

Lee Bauman Hurls Miller Electric To 5-1 BRL Win

Lee Bauman hurled a 4-hitter and struck out 12 batters in leading the Miller Electric team to a 5-1 victory over Jenkel Oil in the Northern Division of Appleton Babe Ruth League action Monday.

Bauman helped his own cause with a pair of safeties.

Miller Electric had seven hits off loser Brian Kasten. Kasten slammed a triple and Gary Hurley had two hits for the losers.

drilled a two-run shot for Seattle.

The Pilots got away the opener, handing the Sox two tie-breaking runs in the eighth on a hit batsman and errors by shortstop John Kennedy and pitcher Bob Locker.

Cap Peterson's three-run homer enabled Cleveland to win its day game from Boston. But Syd O'Brien's leadoff homer in the bottom of the first triggered a five-run Boston explosion in the nightcap. Tony Conigliaro socked a two-run triple and scored on a single by George Scott, who hit two homers in the first game.

There were no wild demonstrations for Harrelson such as his trade to Cleveland brought forth—just a good round of applause. But the slugger failed to get the ball out of the infield all day.

Snaps Tie

Harmon Killebrew's bunt single in the fifth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and Leo Cardenas brought home an insurance run in the sixth with a squeeze bunt as Minnesota beat California. Dave Boswell scattered seven hits and Tony Olive belted a two-run homer.

Jackie Hernandez, a former Twin now playing for Kansas City, helped put his ex-teammates back into first place with a two-run homer in the Royals' victory over Oakland. Mike Fiore also drove in two runs with a homer and single and Arrow scored its lone run the fourth on three walks and an error.

Miller now has a 6-2 record while Arrow dropped to a 1-4 mark.

In another pitchers' duel, First National Bank's Hank edged Tom Sommers, 7-4. Hank's 1-0. Hank pitched the bat of Jerry Johnson, who Sommers allowed eight hits.

Dave Mauthe singled in the third to drive in the only run

Sex Education Option Measure in Assembly

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Several Republican assemblymen have written a proposal they hope will draw a compromise line in the raging dispute about sex education in the schools.

Their proposal would require teachers of sex education courses to meet minimum standards of qualification as determined by the state superintendent of public instruction, and require that before any pupil may enroll in such a course the school must have the written consent of his parents. Failure to follow such rules would result in the forfeiture of state aid to the schools.

Present law does not require or prohibit sex education as such.

Not Required

The law now provides that physiology and hygiene shall be taught, but that no pupil shall be required to take such courses if his parents file with the teacher in charge an objection to his enrollment.

Controversy has flared bitterly in a number of Wisconsin localities lately as local boards of education have considered the advisability of sex education courses. There are organized backers of both points of view, those who believe that such education is prudent and necessary, and those who are determined that the schools should not authorize such programs. Legislators and state officials report that their mail flow from in-dignant representatives of both viewpoints is unusually heavy.

The legislature has not yet had a test vote on the various bills opposing or authorizing such instruction, but some educational authorities who keep in close touch with the legislative branch on school affairs believe that a prohibition bill is likely to be enacted.

The compromise measure imposing standards on teachers and requiring the written permission of parents was offered by Assemblyman Milton McDougal of Oconto Falls, William LaFave of Peshtigo, G. R. Bradley of Oshkosh, Russell Weisensel of Sun Prairie, Gregor Bock of Highland and Ervin Conrad of Shiocton.

Untangling Budget Has Priority

State to Delay Vote on Call For Constitutional Convention

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Wisconsin lawmakers will not get a chance to vote on the controversial Dirksen Amendment until the fall, despite a hearing schedule on the legislative distracting motion Friday.

Assemblyman Stanley York, R-River Falls, chairman of the Assembly Elections Committee, which has scheduled the hearing in the statehouse here, said Tuesday that internal legislative politics will prevent its consideration by the full legislature until the fall.

The Dirksen Amendment, named after its main author, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, calls for a national constitutional convention. The convention would be used to redraft the U.S. Constitution to allow one house of state legislatures to be apportioned by means other than the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" principle.

The call for the convention has been backed by 33 states. The support of one more state is needed for the passage. National backers of the plan consider Wisconsin to present the best chances for passage.

But York said in an interview Tuesday that the state budget bill, which has just reached the lower house, is expected to tie up the Assembly until mid-summer. Immediate upon passage of the budget, the Legislature plans a recess until fall, probably October.

York said that while the budget fight is going on, no committee sessions of the electoral unit will be held to allow a committee vote to be taken on the amendment.

Such action can be expected during the interim — probably late August or September, said York.

Pressures have been building in Wisconsin for action on the Dirksen Amendment, and at least some of them have come directly from Dirksen himself.

Two years ago the state Senate passed the Dirksen Amendment late in the session, but the Assembly took no action. Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, was then staunchly opposed to the plan.

Froehlich, who represents an urban district, and Lt. Gov. Jack B. Olson have been on the receiving end of some of Dirksen's contacts.

Last week the assembly passed, on almost a straight party line vote, Froehlich's plan for a constitutional convention to allow for the election of federal judges.

Froehlich now says that he does not know how he will vote on the measure, but insists that the vote on his resolution on the federal judiciary was not a test vote for the Dirksen Amendment.

Required Use Of Seatbelts Questioned

MADISON (AP) — The Senate's Judiciary Committee agreed Tuesday to ask the attorney general for a ruling on whether it would be constitutional to require motorists to use seat belts and harnesses.

Legislators, who have approved a traffic safety measure requiring motorists to wear helmets, have been asking for several weeks whether constitutional rights would be violated by requiring the use of belts and harnesses in vehicles which must be equipped with the gear.

Sen. Arthur Cirilli, R-Superior, a member of the Judiciary Committee, said the traffic safety bill carrying the mandatory seat belt provision could be "an invalid use of police power."

"It's my constitutional right to do with my life as I please," Cirilli said.

The bill would provide penalties of up to $200 and 30 days in jail for failure to wear harnesses and belts in cars in which they must be equipped.

The provision, sponsored by Sen. Ernest Keppler, R-Sheboygan, and Assemblyman Stanley York, R-River Falls, would not apply to children less than 6 years old, or to persons whose physical condition prevents wearing of belted restraints.

Day Late, Critics Say State Senate Tones Down Court Censure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Senate voted its disapproval of recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings Tuesday, with critics suggesting the action came a day late.

On an 18-11 vote, the senate called for a "restoration of the constitutional balance of powers" a day after Warren Burger was sworn in as chief justice of the high court.

Opponents of the resolution authorized by Sen. Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, claimed that the move was in reaction to decisions of the court headed by Burger's predecessor, Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The Warren court made its mark in the fields of civil rights and civil liberties, and in recent years handed down a string of controversial decisions broadening the rights of defendants.

Raps Decisions
Roseleip claimed that the Warren court had decreased the nation's abilities to oppose communism, had taken over legislative powers, and singled out decisions involving public school prayers for special condemnation.

"Some decisions that the Supreme Court has made recently have not been for the security of the United States, in my opinion," said Roseleip.

The message to Congress asking for a restoration of the balance of power in American government, he said, would affect the Supreme Court by "slowing them up a little."

"This resolution is nothing more than an out and out condemnation of the Supreme Court," said Minority Leader Fred Risser, D-Madison, charging that it constituted an attack on Warren after he no longer was chief justice.

"I think there is a pretty good balance of power right now. A vote for this resolution is a vote of no confidence in the U.S. Supreme Court," Risser said.

Two Republicans crossed party lines to vote with Democrats in opposition to Roseleip's resolution after the senate had amended the resolution to call for a restoration in the balance of power, rather than making the call a direct attack on recent court decisions.

That action came with strong Republican support after a recent secret caucus session agreed to make the change to

Kidney Fund Canisters Are Being Collected

KAUKAUNA — Business places in the community still having canisters for the Mary De Coster kidney fund are asked to bring the canisters to David Hartjes, trustee of the committee in charge of the fund campaign.

To date, nearly $10,000 has been raised to help the sixth grader who is scheduled to undergo a kidney transplant at Madison early in July.

Kidney Fund Money Is Stolen in Break-In

KAUKAUNA — An undetermined amount of money was reported stolen from a Mary De Coster kidney fund canister at The Phoenix, a Wisconsin Avenue pool hall, in a break-in sometime Sunday night.

Entry was gained by breaking a window in a front door, according to Gordon Jacobson, owner. Police found evidence the burglars may have cut themselves in the entry. Nothing else appeared to be disturbed.

make Roseleip's resolution acceptable to most of the members of the majority party.

Large Authors Senate Version

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — As national attention turned to Wisconsin and the assembly's consideration of the Dirksen Amendment, 15 Republican state senators led by Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek unveiled their version for public view Tuesday.

It mirrors the version being considered in the Assembly.

Two years ago senate consideration of the controversial plan resulted in national attention for local lawmakers as consideration of the call for a constitutional convention pivoted on Wisconsin and its state senate.

Tuesday the result was a fight in the senate over the propriety of referring the resolution authored by Lorge to the labor, insurance, taxation and banking committee which Lorge heads.

Curious Step

Critics of the move suggested that the lodging of the Dirksen Amendment resolution in Lorge's committee, which normally deals with tax, finance and business matters was a curious step.

The Dirksen Amendment calls for a national constitutional convention to rewrite portions of the U.S. Constitution.

Led by Senate Minority Leader Fred Risser, D-Madison, opponents of the referral to Lorge's committee suggested that the resolution should more logically be referred to the judiciary committee.

Lorge replied that his committee was "evenly balanced" between rural and urban interests, unlike the judiciary unit.

State Sen. James Pevitt, R-Greenfield, said a five-man committee cannot be described as "evenly balanced."

Members of Lorge's unit include Sens. Myron Lotto, R-Green Bay, Walter Chilsen, R-Wausau, Martin Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, and Joseph Lourigan, D-Kenosha.

Opposed Measure

Chilsen refused to co-author the resolution with Lorge. Two years ago he voted in favor of rejecting a similar move. Coupled with the two Democratic votes, Chilsen may be able to win a negative committee recommendation on Lorge's plan.

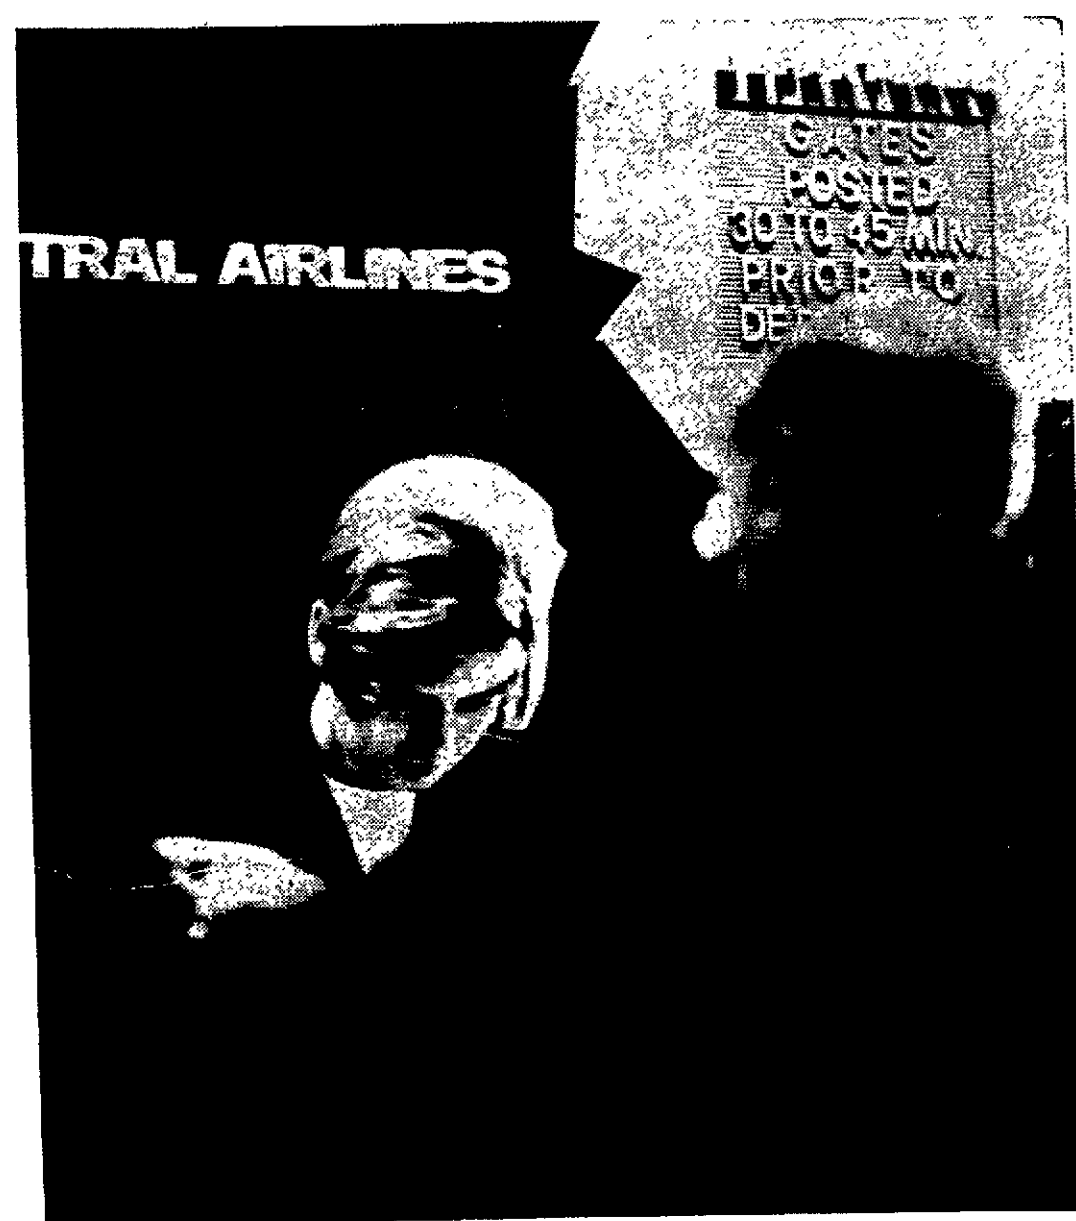

Co-authors with Lorge and Lotto are: Republican Sens. Alex Meunier, Sturgeon Bay; Reuben LaFave, Oconto; Clifford Krueger, Merrill; Raymond Heinzen, Marshfield; Arthur Cirilli, Superior; Chester Dempsey, Harland; Ernest Keppler, Sheboygan; Robert Knowles, New Richmond; Milo Knutson, LaCrosse; Holger Rasmussen, Spooner; Gordon Roseleip, Darlington; James Swan, Elkhorn; and Walter Terry, Baraboo.

The entire Democratic membership of the Senate refused to join in co-authorship, as did even Republicans from urbanized areas.

Change Taken in Tavern Burglary

A small amount of change is all that was believed missing following an early morning burglary at the Rendezvous Bar, 208 N. Richmond St.

An Appleton patrolman discovered the burglary about 2:50 a.m. today. He found glass broken out of a side door which was standing ajar.

Located 1 mile south of Marion on 110 to G, then 2 miles west on G to S, then 1 1/2 miles south to Circle J Road, then 1 mile west. Watch for Circle J Ranch signs.

Sunday, June 29
Starting at 1:00 P.M.

Reason for Selling: Arnie is increasing his Camping facilities and Wild Life Refuge and at this time is discontinuing the horses.

Riding Horses and Equipment
(Can Be Seen and Tried at 11:00 A.M. on Day of Sale)

13 well broke saddle horses; 4 Shetlands broke to work in rings; 1 Shetland colt; 1 Donkey broke to ride or drive; 1 pony cart; 1 new harness; 1 light double buggy harness, "like new"; 15 saddles for the riding horse; 5 Shetland pony saddles; bridles for all the horses; 1-4 wheel tandem horse trailer; 1 Shetland pony ring; 15 wooden stove barrels (from Spain); sheds that housed the horse stalls and pony ring to be sold and removed; miscellaneous tack and other small equipment too numerous to mention.

Some of these horses have been in the ranch for several years and are all hand picked for the job. They are well accustomed to children and strangers. They are well broke and gentle.

Sale clerked by Thorp, Maurice Peterson, Auction Clerk. Regular auction terms of 1/4 down and the balance in monthly payments, 3% interest for 6 months.

This Volkswagen dealer will stake his reputation on his Fords.

We have to. We can't afford to have it said you drove off with a lemon. So every Ford (or Plymouth or Chevy) we get in trade on a new VW gets a 16-point inspection. If it passes we guarantee the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. (If it doesn't pass, we won't guarantee it until we fix what needs fixing.)

Answers to Paint Problems

Intercoat Peeling

Top layer (or layers) of paint peels, leaving smooth painted surface underneath. No chalk or dirt between coats. Occurs most often under eaves, porch ceilings and other protected areas.

CAUSE:

Moisture is the primary cause of exterior paint peeling. Excessive moisture inside the house condenses on the interior face of the siding during the winter months, soaks the siding, and becomes trapped with no place to escape. So, the moisture freezes and in the Spring turns back to water which forces the paint film to lose adhesion and peel.

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

All areas that have blistered or peeled, should be thoroughly scraped, sanded and allowed to dry before repainting. Where bare wood or prime coat is exposed, spot prime with Sears House Paint Undercoat before applying either oil or latex topcoat.

Eliminate excessive moisture, the cause of the peeling, by:

(1) Waterproof basement walls to prevent transmission

of moisture to siding from surrounding wet or damp ground.

(2) Vent clothes dryer and gas space heaters to take moisture outside of dwelling.

(3) Cover crawl space ground area with roofing material, or heavy polyethylene.

(4) Inadequate attic or roof ventilation will not allow moisture-laden air to pass out quickly enough. Insure attic ventilation.

(5) Ventilate siding by drilling 3/8" holes up through lower edges. Sears now offers a special drilling jig assuring proper positioning and also small louvers to fit the holes. For serious moisture problems, it is necessary to install exhaust fans to prevent peeling. On tongue-and-groove and drop siding, install round louvers at top and bottom of wall between each stud. Be careful not to cover these when painting.

(6) When painting your house, be sure not to seal up area where the bevel siding overlaps, and air from the inside can escape.

General Peeling on Wood Siding

Paint peels down to primer or bare wood, and usually starts outside a kitchen, bath, or laundry room.

CAUSE:

Usually the result of painting over hard, glossy, tightly-sealed surface without enough "tooth" or roughness of surface to permit good bonding. (x)

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Remove all paint in peeled areas and roughen smooth surface with sandpaper. Wash surface with any detergent to remove invisible deposits that build up, and rinse thoroughly. Roughening smooth surface and cleaning dirty surface before painting is best preventive measure.

x-Areas around kitchen exhausts sometimes have deposit of oil or cooking fat that interfere with bond between coats.

Solvent Blisters or Heat Blisters

CAUSE:

Solvent blisters (occurring within 24 hours) are paper-thin and seldom larger than a dime. Caused when new paint skins over before all solvents can escape. Due to one or a combination of (a) new paint being exposed to direct sun rays before completely dry; (b) too-heavy paint film; (c) very hot, very dry weather (usually 90 degrees or more).

Heat blisters (occurring within a week), usually raise entire film from surface and may be any size. Caused when old paint film is made more pliable by application of new paint. Sun's heat expands entire film, raising blisters where old paint was loose before painting.

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Break blisters as soon as observed. Allow paint to dry thoroughly (about 3 days) and touch up affected spots. Avoid painting in direct sun. Do not apply too heavy a coat, especially in hot weather.

Peeling on Masonry

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Remove all loose paint with wire brush; repaint with Sears Masonry Paint.

Exterior Surface Preparation the Important Job of Getting Ready to Paint

Proper surface preparation is the most important step in achieving peak paint performance. This is true whether the object being painted is a house or a kitchen chair.

Here are some tips to assure you of good results when painting the exterior surface of a house.

1. Read the label directions carefully. The label will tell you how to prepare the surface, what undercoat to use, and how far to spread the paint to get hiding and durability.

2. Give special attention to the correction of any structural defects, such as leaky roofs, loose guttering and downspouts, rotted structural members, damaged foundation, etc.

3. Caulk cracks around windows, doors and butt ends. Tighten all loose nails, restore loose flashing, and correct any other visible faults that would be sources for moisture to get inside.

4. Many exterior paint problems stem from the fact that previous coats of paint are in bad condition. Examples are:

A. Poor quality paint losing adhesion.

B. Blistering or peeling paint caused by moisture.

C. Too many layers of paint building up and cracking.

D. Heavy chalking or dirty paint film causing loss of adhesion.

In such cases it is absolutely necessary to thoroughly scrape and wash away all loose paint, and then spot prime with the right Sears undercoat.

Peru's Major Landholdings Nationalized

Revolutionary Government of Velasco Wants to End Inequity

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Juan Velasco has announced the revolutionary government will nationalize all major landholdings in Peru to "end

once and for all the unfair social order that has kept peasants in poverty and inequity."

law, to be published today, is aimed at replacing the country's sprawling private estates with agrarian-industrial cooperatives.

It also will involve expropriation of foreign-held lands, including holdings of the U.S.-owned Cerro de Pasco mining firm and W. R. Grace & Co., which has sugar and paper interests in Peru.

Low Ebb
Relations between Lima and Washington have been at a low ebb since Velasco seized power last October and expropriated the International Petroleum Co. refinery. ICC is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

The United States has halted arms sales to Peru and threatened to cut off all aid. The new law also will affect Casagrande, one of the world's biggest sugar plantations, which stretches from the Pacific Ocean to the eastern region of the Peruvian Andes.

Velasco said agrarian reform "will mark the start of the true liberation of the national peasantry." The peasant, he added, no longer will be "the outcast and defenseless being that used to live in poverty from birth to death and impotently saw an equally desperate future coming for his children."

Resistance Intolerable
The president warned that resistance will not be tolerated and the reform "will be applied in all the nation. There will be no privileges or cases of exception recognized that would favor certain groups or interests."

"We say to the oligarchy that we are determined to apply all necessary energy to eliminate all sabotage against the new law or any other attempt to subvert public order." A few hours before Velasco's announcement, the government charged that the National Agrarian Society, an organization of big landlords, planned to "carry out an intense campaign by television to stop the implementation of the reform, to halt sales of agricultural products to create a shortage, to start strikes to stop production and marketing, to block roads with the aim of disturbing transportation of big landlords, planned to cane sugar workers to cooperate in sabotage."

The government communique claimed the effort would be "coordinated with a political party which offered its collaboration to stop the agrarian reform." It did not name the party.

Landlord's Plague
Farmers were warned not to take part in the campaign and told the law would "free the underprivileged farmers from the landlord's plague."

After the law was announced, the society attacked it, charging that society officials had not been consulted. The measure was worked out by the government in strict secrecy.

With Velasco in the government palace when he read the announcement to the nation were Juan Cardinal Landazuri and top military and civil officials.

The president did not explain details of the measure but said it would establish a new society of "farmer communities" resembling those of the ancient Inca empire. He said it would eliminate estates and stimulate expansion of small and medium sized properties.

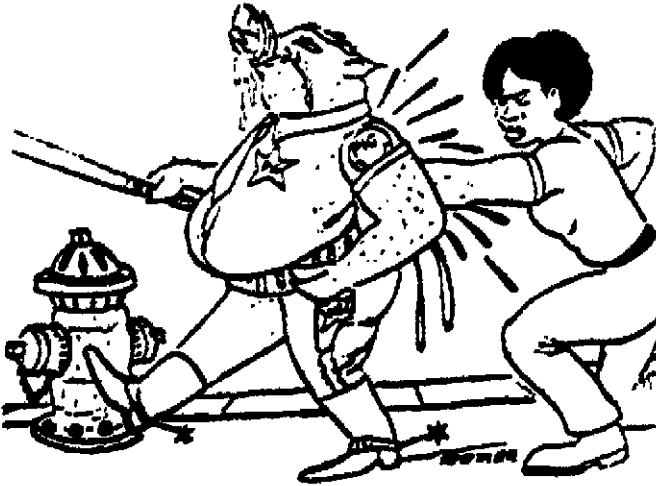

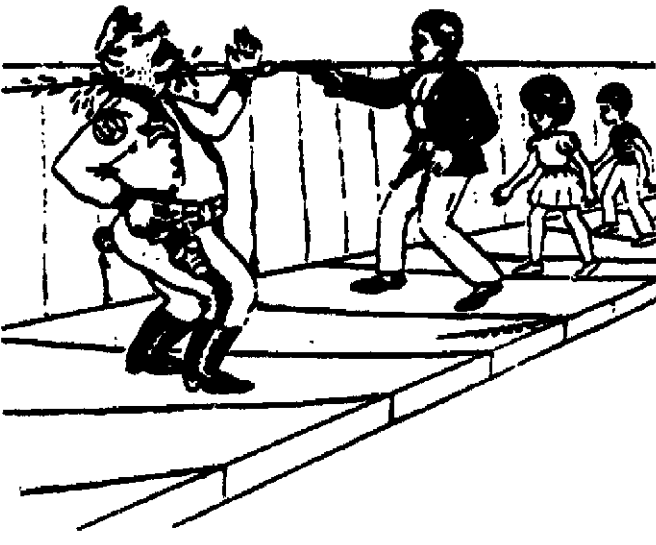

Velasco did not say how expropriated land would be paid for, but it was learned that at least some property would be purchased with cash. He indicated that other land would be paid for with bonds "to which the revolutionary government will provide all the required guarantees."

Lady Bird Returns for Visit to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson was the guest of her successor as first lady, Pat Nixon, at a White House tea Tuesday.

Mrs. Johnson came to Washington from Texas Sunday to help her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, move into a house in Arlington, Va.

Also present at the private tea in the Oval Room were the Nixon daughters, Julie and Tricia.

Miami Traffic Stopped Train Kept Down Toll in Air Crash

MIAMI (AP) — A slow-moving freight train running late blocked traffic on N.W. 36th Street Monday morning before the fiery crash of a cargo plane—a coincidence that may have prevented a far higher death toll.

The Dominican Air Lines plane spewed a block-long wall of fire down the street, killing 10 persons.

"Traffic on 36th Street usually is terrific at that hour," said John Shelbrick, a mechanic who works on the street. "But suddenly it was dead. I looked west and saw the train at the crossing."

Homeward Rush

Normally, the street would have been clogged with east-bound cars as thousands of workers from two huge Miami International Airport maintenance shops headed homeward.

The Pan American Airlines shift changes at 3:15 p.m. Eastern Airlines at 3:30 p.m.

The plane, with one engine failing and another afire, crashed at 3:48 p.m.

The Seaboard Coast Line's main north-south track crosses 36th Street four blocks from the crash scene.

Normally, the train makes the crossing at about 3:30 p.m., but the conductor, W. H. Weede, said some switching difficulties made it about 10 minutes late.

Final Turn

With engineer M. B. Marcus at the controls, the train passed the crossing at 3:40 p.m., just as the doomed DC4 was making its final turn in a futile effort to get back to the runway from which it had just taken off.

Federal investigators searched today for mechanics who worked on the plane before takeoff. Airport witnesses said it was serviced by two or three moonlighting mechanics from other cargo lines before it took off trailing smoke from one of its four engines.

Brad Dunbar, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said an investigating team was trying to trace the mechanics "and we hope learn what the trouble was before takeoff."

Surtax Extension Decision Delayed

Supporters Feared Bill Would Lose

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision against a House vote today on President Nixon's surtax extension bill has shattered administration hopes for an early, dramatic anti-inflation move.

House leaders called off the crucial vote after head counts showed the measure to continue the surtax past its June 30 expiration date was likely to be defeated.

No new date was set for bringing the bill to the House. Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma told reporters it will not be called up until after the July 4th congressional recess.

Emergency Legislation
Meanwhile, emergency legislation will be proposed to continue income tax withholding at the present rate—including the 10 per cent surcharge—until Congress completes work on the extension measure.

The Nixon bill would extend the surtax at 10 per cent for six months at a 5 per cent for a second six-month period, ending June 30, 1970. Other provisions repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit, provide for a special low income allowance taking two million poor families off the tax rolls, and give some tax relief to about 13 million taxpayers.

Jubilant Bloc
Jubilant members of the Democratic bloc which has been fighting the bill in its present form said the House Ways and Means Committee now will be under pressure to speed up work on elimination of some tax preferences and incorporate them in the surtax extension bill.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, one of the group, predicted the delay will not gain any votes for the measure as it is now written.

House Speaker John McCormack told newsmen the postponement was decided on at the request of Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has been suffering bouts of intestinal illness.

However, other leadership sources said a check of Democrats showed most uncommitted—and a 2-1 sentiment against surtax extension among those who had made up their minds.

Democratic Votes
To get the measure passed, 80 to 90 Democratic votes are needed to go with 120 to 130 GOP votes, two-thirds of the minority's membership.

The Ways and Means Committee is working on broader tax reforms with the goal of bringing in a comprehensive bill early in August.

The insurgents have contended, however, unless substantial reforms were included in the surtax extension bill—or the extension were limited to a few weeks—the chance for what they call loophole closing might be lost.

Committee members disclosed a last-minute effort was made and defeated to include a reduction of the 27½ per cent oil

Kennedy Displeased With Handling of Refugees War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has told the Nixon administration he is not satisfied with the handling of South Vietnam's million-plus war refugees.

Kennedy laid out his position as his special subcommittee opened hearing Tuesday.

"This subcommittee is still distressed by the continued lack of urgency in the concern of Washington and Saigon for the daily lives of the South Vietnamese people," Kennedy said.

"We in the subcommittee have developed a natural skepticism of endless rosy reports that emanate from the civilian as well as the military side of the war."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic Leader, disputed Defense Department testimony that improved resettlement efforts and changed military tactics had reduced the number of refugees.

Reduce Violence
"The only way to really reduce refugees is by reduction of violence—and that goes for the Viet Cong as well as ourselves," Kennedy said.

John A. Hanna, administrator

of the Agency for International Development, and Warren Nutter, assistant secretary of defense, said there were 1.2 million temporary refugees in Vietnam as of last month—116,000 fewer than at the year's start.

Under questioning by Kennedy, however, they said many civilians still are being displaced by combat and many return to their villages to find their homes destroyed.

Kennedy said he had inspected refugee camps in Vietnam and found "refugees" living on one side of a street while on the other side, living in the same conditions, were displaced civilians who had been compensated for the loss of their homes and were considered "resettled."

Still Refugees
"You can fiddle around with the figures all you want," said Kennedy, "but they are still refugees."

The United States and the government of South Vietnam have failed, Kennedy said, to win the allegiance of the Asian nation's people.

The millions of refugees and civilian casualties would have been a source of political strength if they had been properly cared for and treated, he said.

"Now there is serious question whether there is time or energy left to care for the victims of this war," said Kennedy.

Their Choice

"The day is fast approaching when the people of Vietnam, by ballot or action, will declare their choice for the future. Where the millions of refugees stand could have been decisive. But we have little or no assurance that they will stand for all that we offered 35,000 American lives to gain."

Hanna testified there had been great improvements in programs to care for refugees since 1967, that camps had been improved and hospitals had been built with AID financing.

"What we are trying to emphasize today is the situation is greatly improved since 1967 but it is not good enough," he said. He cited statistics to show immunizations against cholera, plague and smallpox in Vietnam had risen to 27.8 million last year as compared to 4.1 million in 1966.

Those Who Defied Soviet Invasion 'Enemies' of Czech Government

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak students who defied Soviet tanks in the streets of Prague last August have become the "enemy" of their government.

How does the leadership treat its enemy? It censors their publicity, cuts off their funds, bans demonstrations and eliminates their student organization to set up a more obedient, if unrepresentative, body. Enter the Preparatory Committee of a New Union of University Students in the Czech Republic.

The student resistance in August helped save, temporarily, the liberal leadership of Premier Oldrich Cernik and Communist Party boss Alexander Dubcek. Both had been arrested and taken to Moscow, but were returned to Prague.

Things Different

Things have changed in 10 months of Russian occupation. Cernik is still premier but Dubcek was downgraded in April to chairman of the Parliament, a largely ceremonial post. The new Communist Party chief, Gustav Husak, pursues a policy of ignoring the invasion and striving to keep the Kremlin happy.

In January and February, two Czech students, Jan Palach and Jan Zajic, burned themselves to death in downtown Prague to protest repression of Dubcek's liberal reforms.

The first showdown came in April as Husak became party chief paratory Committee," as it called itself, said the old union had isolated itself from the country's politics and had ceased to be representative of the required two-thirds students.

It was the first Czech student statement allowed published in the daily press in months.

Trencansky was reported to have played a master role in formation of the Preparatory Committee, which said it would cooperate with the party, state organs, trade unions and the Slovak students and become politically active in the National Front.

It admitted the new union does not expect a majority of Czech students to join at first, but predicted the membership eventually will increase.

Guerrilla Base
Strafed by
Israeli Planes

TIBERIAS, Israel (AP) — Two Israeli jet fighters bombed and strafed an Arab guerrilla stronghold inside Jordan today after guerrillas attacked an army patrol in the Beisan valley, the Israelis reported.

The planes launched a 25-minute assault on Adasiya, an uninhabited cluster of huts facing the Israeli settlement of Ashdot Yaakov near the southern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses said the planes encountered antiaircraft fire but returned to base undamaged. The patrol also was unharmed, they said.

Witnesses said several shells from Jordan crashed into a children's nursery at Ma'oz Haim, a few miles south of Ashdot several hours before the air strike.

The children were sleeping in underground shelters and were not injured.

The Israeli army announced its troops killed one of a group of guerrillas trying to infiltrate into Israel east of Geshor. Witnesses said several sacks filled with explosives were left by the guerrillas.

Other informed sources reported saboteurs tried to attack an Israeli army outpost east of the Sea of Galilee where the Syrian, Jordanian and Israeli borders meet. They said the guerrillas attacked with grenades and light arms after firing mortar salvos at the outpost, but were repulsed with no Israeli casualties.

Froehlich Will Chair Council For Two Years

Speaker Elected Head of Legislature's Powerful Study Arm

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Tuesday was elected chairman of the Legislative Council for the coming two years.

The council, the powerful study arm of the legislature, conducts investigations and drafts legislation through citizen-lawmaker committees when the legislature is not in session. It is comprised of the leadership of both parties in each house.

Elected unanimously with Froehlich were State Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, vice chairman; and Sen. Leland McFarland, D-Cudahy, secretary.

Pending studies for the coming biennium include inheritance tax reforms, public welfare, school districting, limitation on foods, legal age restrictions for youths, consumer credit, and automobile accidents and insurance rates.

Firm Proposed For Fire Study

COG Recommends Consultants for Rescue Program

The Fire and Rescue Service Committee of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) voted Monday night to recommend the retention of Gage-Babcock, Chicago, an engineering consultant firm, for the proposed study of the fire fighting and rescue facilities of the Fox Cities.

The study to be made is part of COG's program of inventory and analysis of fire and rescue facilities for the Oshkosh to Kaukauna area, and will present a range of alternatives for the council to consider. Increased efficiency of area firefighting and reduced insurance classifications are special study goals. The decision to recommend Gage-Babcock was made by chairman Roland Kuehl and the committee following interviews with two consultant firms.

Crash Damages New London Cars

NEW LONDON — About $600 damage resulted in a rear-end collision between two cars about 10:50 a.m. Tuesday on S. Pearl Street between South Water Street and Wolf River Avenue.

According to police a car driven by Velma M. Buss, 1512 Smith St., was waiting in the line of traffic for a signal to change when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by William J. Johnson, 58, route 2, which was traveling south on Pearl Street.

Neither driver was reportedly injured.

'College Avenue Story' Appeals to Florida City

Word of Appleton's success in transforming downtown College Avenue into a shopping showcase has spread to Florida.

A representative of the Fort Myers, Fla., special task force assigned to revitalize that city's downtown area wrote Mayor George Buckley this week.

Lawrence W. Smith, executive secretary of Fort Myers' "Turns On Program" (TOP), wrote that, like Appleton, the business and civic leaders were cooperating to get a renewal project underway.

"Since we are new in getting this project underway,

Sometime Next Month the Fox Cities are expected to become a part of an 11-county state administrative district, one of eight districts to be established in the state by executive order of Gov. Warren P. Knowles. Heavy lines show the boundaries of the eight districts. In each district, state offices will be established to administer state services to that area. State officials say the district framework will make state services more readily available to citizens. (AP Wire photo)

New London School Board Adopts Budget Sinking Fund

High Interest Prompts Board Action for Building Projects

NEW LONDON — Spiraling interest rates and the uncertainty in the loan field will influence school district tax rates noticeably according to the board of education.

The board listed the money market situation as a reason for approving a $3.47 per $1,000 tax rate for the 1969-70 school year. The board also approved a sinking fund for the 1969-70 school year. The fund is earmarked for building, remodeling and equipping facilities at the junior high school.

It is believed the fund will be in effect for about three years. Originally an $18.48 per $1,000 tax rate was projected for 1969-70. This did not include any money for a sinking fund.

The present rate was $17.73 per $1,000. Included in this year's rate was $1 for construction of the Park View Elementary School. This $1 was carried into the $18.48 operational budget because of debt retirement on the building, which is nearing completion.

Salary Increases
Supt. H. James Ramsdell stated the operational portion of the budget increase was mainly the result of salary increases and in operational costs because of the new school.

The operational and sinking fund rate will total $21.95, an increase of $4.22 per $1,000. The $21.95, when applied to a district equalized valuation of $57,532, will result in a levy of $1,265,022. This year the levy of $936,073 was raised by the $17.73 rate applied against $52,796,000 valuation.

Total budget for 1969-70 is proposed at $1,873,234, not including $199,983 to be raised by the sinking fund. This year the budget was $1,622,755, with an additional $52,796 being raised by the sinking fund.

Ramsdell pointed out that this is the first time the tax rate has exceeded that for the 1964-65 school year, which was $19.99, including $1.50 for a sinking fund.

Yearly Rates
Tax rates during this time dropped to a low of $15.595 in 1966-67. Other rates in the past five years were $16.937 in 1965-66; $15.75 1967-68, and $17.73 this year.

The board terms its action on the sinking fund as the best means for the district to combat the inflationary measures of the interest rates being charged for bonding. The current high rates to borrow money would far exceed the cost of the sinking fund.

Replacing the doors and windows at the Washington School as part of a long-range remodeling and addition to the school is estimated at $70,000.

In the 1930's when Washington School was built, the city paid for the construction in full without borrowing money. The same measure is being attempted this time.

The board has received preliminary drawings from the architect for the addition to the Washington School, which is in the long-range planning.

Valuation Hike
The 1969-70 school budget aid is based on a projected $42,000 guaranteed valuation for each student, compared with $39,000 this year.

Anticipated receipts from sources other than taxes are $808,195, up from $739,478 this year. State aids account for the greatest amount of both totals.

A break down and comparison of expenditures shows administration, $38,891, up from $35,436; instruction, $1,225,106, up from $1,089,923; health services, $375, down from $4,505;

Transportation, $106,625, up from $103,389; operation, $145,755, up from $119,578; maintenance, $33,629, up from $23,086; fixed charges, $63,974, up from $40,582; debt service, $212,780, up from $156,271; capital outlay, $38,118, down from $42,162; community services remain at $200, and contingent remains at $6,500. A net loss of $1,279 is anticipated for the food services, about $146 more than this year.

Cash, Checks Taken In Home Burglary
Christine Kruse, 531 E. Maple St., told police about 6:45 a.m. today that a purse containing about $23 in addition to a check book, licenses, and identification, was taken from her house during the night.

The purse was on a dining room shelf. Entry into the house apparently was gained through an unlocked door.

Clintonville Problem Options Sought on Properties for Parking

CLINTONVILLE — A request to obtain options on properties on the north side of E. 12th Street from Main Street to Garfield Avenue for parking spaces for 240 cars, is being made to the city's redevelopment authority. This decision was reached at a recent Main Street block committee meeting. Meeting with the committee were R. J. Platte, administrator of Clintonville Community Hospital; May- or Frank Sinkewicz, and Ald. Fred Hangartner, who represented the city council.

This would make it more convenient for those who shop in the northern fringe of the shopping area on Main Street

VTE-12 Board, Teachers Reach Tentative Accord

Final Announcement on Contract Negotiations to be Made After Ratification by Both Parties

Tentative agreement has been reached between the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board and the teachers in their contract negotiations, but no final announcements will be made of the terms until ratification by both parties.

The information was released Tuesday by Edward B. Krinsky, Madison, mediator for the Employment Relations Commission (WERC), who has been working with the two parties involved.

Up to Monday, when the parties met with Krinsky in a closed session, there were about 13 unresolved issues.

Krinsky declined to say how firm the agreements were. Neither William Sirek, director of VTE-12, nor Caryll Milliren, head of the teachers' welfare committee, could be reached for comment this morning.

The major unresolved issues had been:

—The structure of the salary schedule, which had been mutually agreed upon in all areas except base pay. The board had been offering $6,800. The teachers had wanted $7,300 base.

—Fringe benefits, including hospital and life insurance. The board had offered to pay 75 per cent. The teachers wanted 100 per cent coverage.

—Class size and work load. The association felt some provisions for this should be made in the master contract. The board felt that as administrators, the district staff should have some fundamental rights in establishing both.

—Work day. Both have agreed on a working day of eight consecutive hours. The teachers, however, wanted to know the time period but the board felt that a cutoff period was risky since people need to attend school in the evenings.

Mandatory Credits
—Age limit for mandatory credits. The board felt in the field of education there needed to be a constant updating of the knowledge in the areas of new machinery and methods.

Other issues in dispute up to Monday included contracts running longer than 38 weeks, department chairmen release time, convention times, press releases, dismissal policy, summer school pay and time allotment for lesson preparation.

Talks between the teachers and the board began in December and were declared at an impasse about a month ago. Since then Krinsky has met with the two parties twice.

At the initial meeting he informed the members they could try to resolve the issues through a mediator or go to

Future Recreation Plans More Parks Called Urgent City Need

Rapid urbanization has created an urgent need for park and recreation facilities in the city of Appleton and nearby outlying areas, the city plan commission was advised Monday.

Robert Grossman of the St. Louis-headquartered planning firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates made the observation while giving a preliminary outline of the proposed park-recreation master plan to be completed by August.

The plan will take a look at existing facilities and recommend others needed in the immediate future and those on a long-range basis to meet the central city's needs through 1990.

High points of Grossman's report were that:
Needs Outlined
—Three major community parks are needed, plus development of 60 acres of Langedyk property on the far northside, for park and recreation purposes.

—A additional neighborhood parks are required on the city's heavily populated northside.
—Bellaire Park provides good access to Appleton's limited waterfront and should be developed for maximum use.

—Expansion of Telulah Park on the southside should be undertaken, and Lutz Park maintained for public use and a future marina be operated by the city.

—Plamann Park should be expanded and Center Swamp developed as large regional parks, this responsibility falling on the county rather than the city.

School Playgrounds
—Public school playgrounds carried out

Grossman took note of the condition of the much-repaired Erb Park pool and said it should be rebuilt and designed as an all-weather facility. Putting so-called "bubble tops" over the pools is proving successful and the least expensive route.

Putting a dome over Meade Pool was also included in the recommendation to "provide general community benefit from these pool facilities throughout the year."

Noting that federal funds are available through the Open Space program to develop park and recreation areas, Grossman said he would assist the city in making grant applications. It also was recalled that in the early 1960's the St. Louis firm prepared an extensive plan for the development of Bellaire Park, but the work had not been

Kellet to Speak at Rotary Ceremony At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Rotary Club will have installation of officers Monday night following a dinner at the Riverside Golf clubhouse. This also will be ladies' night.

Speker will be William Kellett, Menasha, who is retired president of Kimberly-Clark and is chairman of the Governor's committee to study the state's educational system.

James Lindow, Clintonville, was the speaker at the regular Monday noon luncheon meeting this week. He spoke on his hobby of gathering ginseng. He showed leaves and roots of the plant which grows wild, but also is cultivated in private gardens.

New officers of the club will attend a Rotary Assembly and Officer Forum for District No. 22, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, at Pine Mountain, Iron Mountain, Mich. Those planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. George Zachow and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moldenhauer.

Ruben Voss, Adjutant of the New London American Legion Post, receives an award from the Wisconsin Law Enforcement Officers Association from New London Police Chief Jack Algiers. The American Legion was cited for its efforts on behalf of law enforcement and American principals.

Steiger Explains Campus Reversal

'Harmful Extension of Federal Power'

WASHINGTON — Rep. William A. Steiger said today he withdrew his support from a compromise bill against campus disorders last week because he believed it "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

A member of the House Education and Labor Committee, Steiger was one of four congressmen on the committee, Steiger was one of four congressmen on the committee who announced last week they had left a 19-16 majority in favor of the bill, turning the balance to a 20-15 opposition.

The provision Steiger previously had favored but now opposes would have withdrawn federal aid from colleges and universities if they failed to file with the U. S. Commissioner of Education a set of rules and procedures saying how campus authorities would deal with disorders.

In today's explanation of his reversal, Steiger said he "did not change my position on this bill lightly."

He said requiring institutions to file even "some sort" of code in order to receive funds "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

Steiger said, "The bill would not penalize those who would deny rights to others; it would deny the rights of large numbers of students who are not guilty of disrupting the campus or inhibiting the college's response to the code of conduct requirements of this legislation; and it may well serve as an aid rather than an obstacle to those who would destroy a university."

Revolutionary Tactics
"I believe that the revolutionary students would use any tactic to prevent a university

from complying with the bill."

In a statement issued June 9, Steiger explained why he then supported the bill. He described it as a compromise, against stricter proposals urging withdrawal of aid from any campus experiencing violence. Such a measure, he said, would have played into the hands of disrupters whose goal is to shut down the schools.

"There is no more effective way to shut down an institution than by withdrawing 30 to 40 per cent of its funds," Steiger said.

Instead, he then said he favored the compromise proposal, which he explained then would "simply require universities to file a set of regulations governing demonstrations with the Commissioner of Education," with withdrawal of funds the penalty or failing to file.

"It is expected that no institution will find it difficult to comply with this provision, and it will encourage them to take a careful look at their own procedures," Steiger said.

In today's statement, however, Steiger said, "fundamental responsibility for maintaining order on the campus lies with the academic community, not with the federal government."

He said he was unable to support the measure "as a Republican and one who adheres to a basic faith in the ability of individuals and organizations to work out solutions to their own problems free from governmental interference."

While he said the compromise bill was "an alternative far less severe" than proposals to withdraw all aid from a campus experiencing an disorder, Steiger said he believes, "there is a case where two wrongs do not make a right."

Overcrowded Hilbert School Prompts Additional Hiring

Board of Education to Use Present Space for 2 Years

HILBERT — Hiring of an additional kindergarten was approved by the board of education here Monday night when it was seen that an increase of 27 pupils would cause further overcrowding at the present school.

Kindergarten enrollment has reached 84 for the fall, and an additional class room has become a necessity, the board found.

The board toured the school in hopes that some space could be utilized for the added enrollment and temporarily decide on the present second grade room. Renting of outside facilities for the kindergarten class was also discussed.

Update Curriculum
According to Richard Yenchiesly, newly-appointed superintendent of schools, "we are going to be very tight for space here this fall, however, we will utilize what we have and keep it going. We will probably have to utilize this building for the next two years. However, it is of utmost importance that we get good education from our teachers and get an update on our curriculum."

Stellar Pitching Features Games At New London

NEW LONDON — Tony Bovee struck out 12 batters to lead the White Sox to their fourth win of the season, while Rick Kaepernick was one out away from a no hit game for the second place Dodgers.

Kaepernick yielded a two out double to Ken Carew in the sixth inning as the Dodgers blanked the Pirates, 17-0. Carew was put out at second base as he made too wide a turn around the bag for the last out of the contest.

Bovee made one bad pitch in the game and Dave Brenske dropped it just over the fence near the left field foul line for a grand slam home run to give the Phillies a temporary 4-2 lead. The White Sox paced by Dave Teschke's three run homer came back to post a 15-6 win to retain its unbeaten skid.

In the only other major league game, the Orioles edged the Red Sox 7-6 behind Bruce Davis' seven strike out pitching. In the minor division, National League, the Cubs downed the Foxes, 16-10; the Badgers nipped the Colts, 8-7, and the Cats beat the Lions, 13-5.

Dave Gorges homered for the Colts, while Jon Rieckmann and Greg Kalbus homered for the Cats.

Wheelchair Driver Needs No License

TAMPA, Fla (AP) — Ray Lewis has been given the clearance by Florida's top trooper to speed away in his motorized wheelchair at full tilt—six miles an hour—without licenses.

Several weeks ago a state trooper pulled Lewis, 24, to the side of the road and suggested he get a license plate and a driver's license to operate his battery-driven wheelchair.

But Tuesday, Col. H.N. Kirkman, Florida Highway Patrol director, said that whether the law on licenses applies to wheelchair drivers "depends on who interprets the law," and Lewis will not be required to get one.

Zion UCC Conducts Bible School at Dale
DALE — Vacation Bible school is being conducted at

The board reviewed the contracts of Eugene Lakso, elementary principal and teacher, and James Jacobson, high school principal, head football coach and teacher.

It was decided that two contracts be written for the men; one to cover teaching for the school year and the other to cover summer teaching in the Title I program. Salaries under the Title I program are funded by the federal government.

Allowances Approved
An extra curricular allowance schedule based on cost value rather than on an index schedule of pay rates was also approved.

Extra curricular allowances will be allowed to coaches in high school football, basketball and track, and to grade school basketball, spring track assistant, annual adviser, class play, forensic, solo-ensemble director and elementary art supervisor.

Girl's athletics, the school paper, bus chaperones, an adult ticket seller, timekeeper, athletic director and baseball were left open pending further study.

The bid of Brillion Dairy to supply milk for the school year was accepted. The board again will advertise for fuel bids for the coming year. Only one company submitted a bid on the original advertising.

Superintendent's Role
The role of the superintendent was discussed, and Yenchiesly felt that the board should express their philosophy and feelings about the duties of the office.

Yenchiesly told the board "a new broom sweeps clean," saying that he was an educational leader, not a housekeeper.

"I can't maintain the status quo you have here," he continued, "we have problems, our curriculum needs much improvement. I don't claim to be a Maverick, I just want to be a good leader for you, your school and community."

The board generally concurred with the superintendent's feeling, adding that they hired him as the superintendent of the school, and all problems should be able to be worked out together for the good of all concerned.

Resignations
In other business, the board appointed Ivan Novak as delegate to the CESA-10 School Agency; accepted the resignation of Mrs. June Scharenbrock.

Zion United Church of Christ from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily until Friday.

Teachers are, first and second grades, Mrs. Owen Gore; third and fourth grades, Mavis Porter; fifth grade, James Klitzke; sixth grade, Elaine Scheisser; and seventh and eighth grades, Mrs. Clyde Wallenfeng.

school secretary; and accepted the resignation of Mrs. Alice Perttunen, third and fourth grade teacher.

A report regarding vacancies in the high school and elementary levels was given by the superintendent; and the election of Armin Schwalenberg to the presidency of the board of education at the June 4 meeting was entered into the minutes.

AAL Story, Publications Win Honors

MILWAUKEE — Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) reaped top honors for excellence in journalism at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Industrial Manufacturers' Association here.

Capturing first place honors was an article entitled, "Total Ministry for the Total Man," written by David Brooker and James C. Hoyer. It was published in the AAL magazine, the "Correspondent," and dealt with the work of a Lutheran minister in a Detroit inner core area.

"Life Lines," the AAL company publication as well as the "Correspondent" itself, also won first place for excellence. Both were among six company magazines from throughout the state to receive first place plaques.

The competition is conducted by the state manufacturers' group in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism and the Wisconsin Industrial Editors' Association.

Amherst High FFA Members Make Tour Of Minnesota Firms

AMHERST — A three-day trip to Minneapolis was completed recently by 10 members of the high school Future Farmers of America.

They visited the Midland Co-operative company, the Minneapolis Grain Exchange, the Minneapolis-Moline plant, and a Minnesota Twins baseball game.

They returned by way of Eau Claire, where they toured the U.S. Rubber Plant.

Elliot Michael, high school agricultural instructor, accompanied the group.

Fleet Insurance Bids On Municipal Vehicles Sought at New London

NEW LONDON — Bids on fleet insurance will be opened at the 8 p.m. Aug. 5 city council meeting.

The insurance will be on all municipal licensed vehicles operated by the city street department, park department, utility company, police department and fire department.

Specifications for bidding are available from City Clerk Melva Rieckaby.

Annual Summer Event Open to Boys, Girls, Ages 7 to 18

CHILTON — The annual city swim championship, co-sponsored by the Rotary Club and recreation department will begin at 4 p.m. July 3.

All boys and girls, 7 through 18, are eligible. Age groups will be under 8 and under, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14 and 15 and over.

Ribbons furnished by the Rotary Club will be awarded in a total of 46 events, including free style, back crawl, breast stroke and butterfly.

The 1969 meet will be the sixth annual competition. Only one initial year record still stands — the 15 and over girls 100 yard free style event — with a time of 1:39.4. Seven records have still held since 1965 and 17 records were set last year.

Boys and girls can enter the meet by listing their name and the events they wish to participate in, at the recreation office in the pool building. There is no entry fee. All entries must be made as soon as possible.

Citizen Group to Propose Police, Fire Station Site

NEW LONDON — Site recommendations for a fire and police station will be submitted to the city council by the citizen's advisory committee.

Duane Brown, chairman of a special committee, said the group's recommendations would be included in a letter which will be sent to the council within a week.

Details of the recommendations are to be released at that time.

Further study on the industrial development fund of the city and needs for the suitable industrial property are to be made and reported on at the July meeting.

The committee stated present information indicated some action should be taken in the near future to obtain and develop a suitable area for industrial development.

It was pointed out that such development would expand the tax base, provided increased employment and in general boost the economy of the city.

Police Apprehend Pair Who Ran Away From Girls Home

Two teen-agers who ran away from a Green Bay home for girls Tuesday morning were taken into custody in Appleton.

A rural Seymour man told police about 9 a.m. that he drove two girls to Appleton from near Seymour, where they were hitchhiking.

Police apprehended the girls in downtown Appleton and turned them over to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services. The girls, one 14 and from Fond du Lac and the other 15 and from Appleton, were returned to the Green Bay home.

Busy Day Dinner

Those Delicious Frozen Assets ...

by Lillian Mackesy

Minutes count these days, whether you are a busy working wife or just as busy a homemaker with a bent for community activity. Believe it or not, today's supermarket and grocery store offer anywhere from 300 to 900 different frozen foods when only yesterday (well, in our mother's and grandmother's day) there were none at all.

Truly, it's hard to believe that there weren't these convenience foods that make family meals more varied, even tastier than usual and certainly time-saving in preparation. It used to be that homemakers were ashamed to admit to using shortcut foods, the packaged mixes, until one day it seemed that their advantages and quality made the guilt ridiculous! Statistics bear this out. Consumption of frozen foods stood at one pound per person in 1937 ... then went up to 10 pounds per person in 1961 (partly because more were available, of course), but the figures stand at almost 70 pounds per person for 1968.

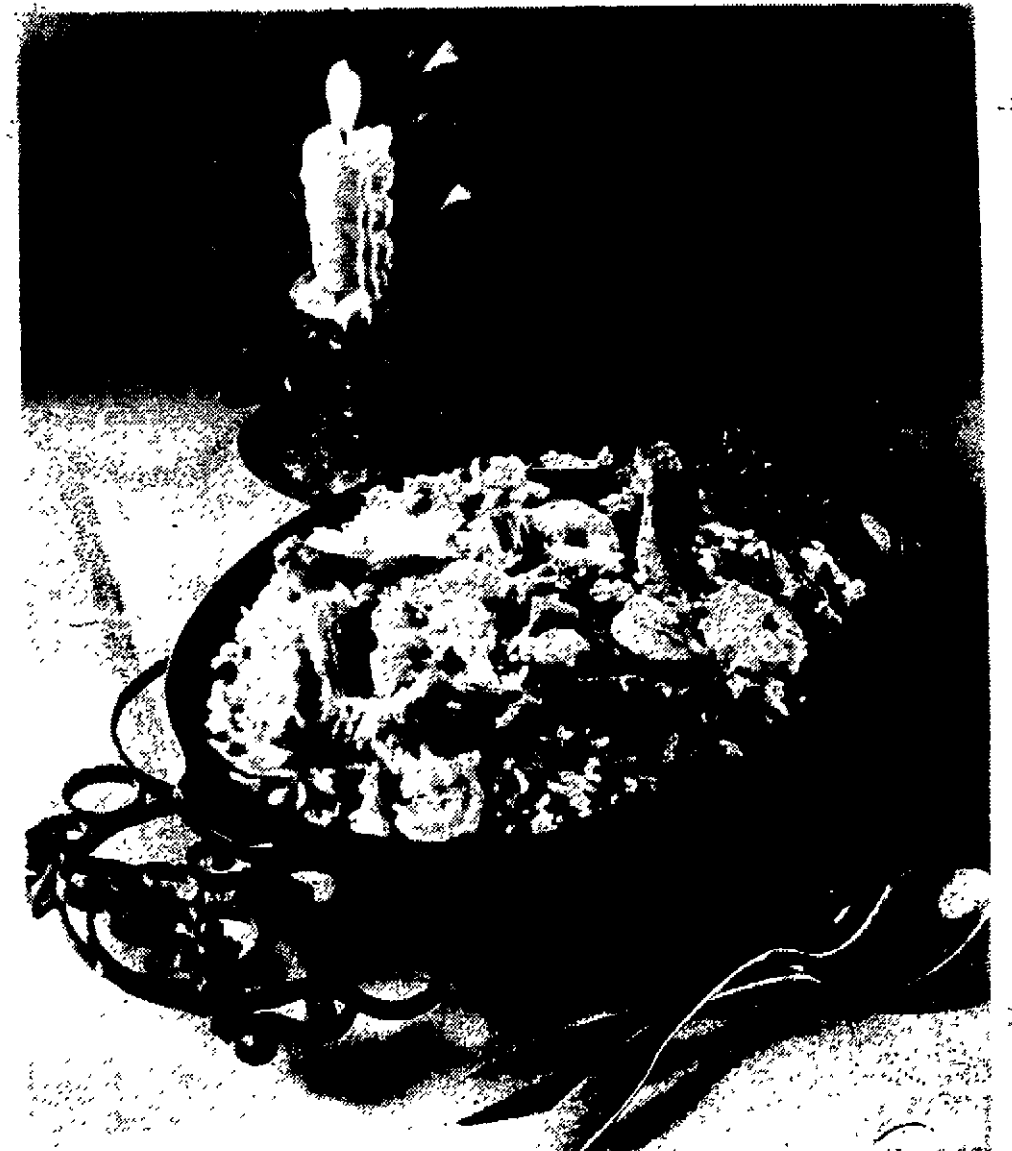

Frozen foods are here to stay ... and why ever not? Frozen food packers have welcomed the major role they play in bringing a change-about in food habits. The homemaker got so she liked the idea, particularly in the foreign, regional, special nationality dishes and even the restaurant specialties she could bring to her table.

For instance, Creole Jambalaya straight from New Orleans in origin (by way of the Spaniards in the late 1700s) long has been famous in the South. Today, it can become one of the excellent dishes in a Fox Valley homemaker's

BY ROSEMARY STARE

What to serve or what foods to prepare for unexpected company or spontaneous entertaining needn't make you nervous. Use your freezer and

First of a Series

have tidbits on hand for quick entertaining.

If you're going to do some cooking in advance, shopping

also must be planned. Before stocking up on ready-to-eat or convenience foods review these hints for freezer use.

Freezing doesn't improve any food. It won't destroy organisms that bring about food spoilage, but it will inhibit their growth.

Temperature The Key
Most frozen foods are best if used within a short period of time. Low temperature is the key to high quality food.

Frozen food must be stored at zero degrees or lower to prevent loss of nutritive value, flavor, color and texture.

Yeast breads and rolls freeze well, so you can have your favorites on hand for those unexpected guests.

Cool homemade bread or rolls to room temperature, then package in air-tight, moisture-proof wrapping and freeze to zero degrees. When ready to use, thaw in original wrapping or wrap in foil and heat 10 to 15 minutes. Maximum desired storage is six months.

Cake Baking Hints
Cakes freeze best if baked before freezing. Frostings may be applied before freezing if they are the uncooked confectioner's sugar-butter type. Boiled frostings are best applied after the cake has thawed.

Cookies freeze well in any form, although cookie dough is easier to package and takes up less freezer space than baked cookies. Dough may be stored in cartons or in rolls. Storing cookie dough in rolls permits easy preparation. Merely slice and bake.

A supply of frozen cream puff shells make handy quick desserts. At serving time, fill with ice cream or pudding.

Fruit Pies Best
Pies also can be frozen.

Mincemeat and fruit pies freeze best in the unbaked state. Cut holes in the upper crust just before baking. Then put in a 425-degree oven for 15 minutes and reduce temperature to 325 degrees until the juice boils up through the cuts in the top crust.

Chiffon pies in a baked crust freeze well. Freeze, then wrap and return to the freezer. Use within two or three weeks.

Marketing Memo

Prices Keep Edging Up; Watch for Food Specials

Despite increased meat supplies, retail prices have been edging upwards since the first of the year, according to Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

This is a reversal of the usual trend for declining prices with increasing supplies.

Economists feel the situation is probably due to an exceptionally high consumer demand for meat resulting from high levels of employment and consumer income.

Although total meat supplies for 1969 are expected to be greater than that of 1968, expanding consumer purchasing power makes it difficult to predict whether the supply can keep pace with demand.

Last year 183 pounds of meat was consumed per person. Meat consumption figures for 1969 are expected to equal, if not exceed, this record.

Due to higher meat prices, the more economical cuts of meat may be better buys for many shoppers. Watch for local features in your area which point to more attractive buys.

Fresh produce continues to increase in variety each week. Lettuce, radishes and green onions are expected to be reasonable as well as corn, cucumbers and cabbage. Carrots, cauliflower and celery may be a bit high.

Summer Fruits
Look for fresh summer fruits at more reasonable prices this week. Cantaloup and cherries are both attractively priced and of good quality, but watermelons are still high.

Strawberries from Michigan and southern Wisconsin now are available and at moderate prices.

Watch for more plentiful and reasonably priced supplies of grapes and nectarines. Plum supplies are somewhat smaller than last year, therefore, their prices will remain firm this summer.

Sports Holiday To be Sunday At Nichols

Third annual Sports Holiday will be Sunday at Nichols. Barbecue chicken dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Nichols Ballroom. In the event of rain, the dinner will be served inside. Proceeds will be used for the Nichols Fire Department.

Children Not Born Selfish, Demanding

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of four children who drain their parents for all they can get? Both the mother and father work. The children are 20, 17, 15 and 13. A lazier, more selfish and demanding collection of parasites would be hard to find.

Landers

Mother hasn't had a new outfit in three years. Her winter coat dates back to 1962. The 17-year-old dresses like Miss America. She had an Easter suit with real fur on the collar and cuffs. The 20-year-old boy conned his father into buying him a car (second hand but it still cost $800.) Father rides house by 6:30 p.m. They were told not to come back until 1 a.m. The reason I know is because they sat in our house and kept us up until then.

What do you think of these brats? We'd like to see your answer in print — Inky Ink-wirer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please warn your readers that if they have a telephone which originates from a mobile unit their conversations are broadcast over the radio. Anyone who tunes in around 152 megacycles can get an earful.

I just listened to a woman from Saugatuck make a darned fool of herself. Every word she said (and she said plenty) could have been heard by about one-third of Michigan. The first thing she said was, "Is this line private?" The guy she was talking to said, "Of course it is."

(What a rat!) So please warn these dumb bunnies, Ann. They need to know. — Grand Rapids Fan

DEAR GRAND: Thank you, I shall. Dear Dumb Bunnies, if you have a phone that originates from a mobile unit, write it, don't say it — unless of course you want to clue in the whole world.

And I've got a hot flash for you, Grand. It's a federal offense to intercept a telephone conversation and divulge the information to someone else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married six years ago my in-laws asked me to call them Mom and Pop but I just couldn't bring myself to do it. My father-in-law took sick three weeks ago. He died last week. I called him Pop during his last moments of consciousness. He smiled at me and squeezed my hand. I hated myself for not doing it years sooner.

I called my mother-in-law "Mom" the very next day. It was easier than I thought. I am ashamed of myself. — Missouri Mule

DEAR MISSOURI: Humility is a rare virtue. It took a lot of it to write that letter. Thank you.

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

What to Do About Child Abuse When You Encounter It

What should you do when you come across cruel or physically damaging punishment of children? The American Humane society suggests that, rather than reporting such incidents to the police, you inform local social or welfare agencies, such as the Children's Aid society. The abused child deserves first consideration. The abusing adult — parent or any other — needs psychiatric care or treatment rather than punishment. And the other members of a family may also need help that only a social agency can furnish.

An American Humane society survey disclosed 622 reported cases of child abuse in 1962. But a Brandeis University study showed 6,000 such reported incidents in 1967. More frequent reporting, rather than an actual increase in harmful treatment of children, seems to account for the difference in these findings.

Such harm is done children by otherwise seemingly "normal" adults. About half of the abused children are below 6 years of age. More than 50 per cent live with both parents. And mothers more severely punitive than fathers. Battered children are found in every economic class and neighborhood. Well-heeled families are merely better able to hide the evidence.

Abusing adults are usually either mentally disturbed or products of harsh discipline instilled in their own early years. Such children tend to look on their parents' normal misdeeds as all requests to Arnold Arnold, signs of innate evil. Families in Dept. B, c-o this newspaper.

Arnold Arnold's "Safety Rules

For Parents and Children" booklet, written and prepared by him for readers of this column, covers the whole field of child safety. Included also is a useful caution on how to use the color TV sets so as to safeguard children from possible radiation emission. Mr. Palmer's rules are brief, easy to follow, accurate and all-inclusive. A must for every parent, for child care workers, teachers and baby-sitters. Ask for "Safety Rules" and include 20 cents and a stamped, return envelope. Send children's misdeeds as all requests to Arnold Arnold, signs of innate evil. Families in Dept. B, c-o this newspaper.

HURRY IN! DON'T MISS OUT ON THESE TRULY FANTASTIC FABRIC BUYS!

BY LOUISE COOK
NEW YORK (AP) — Men's fashions for fall will be more colorful and creative than ever before.
If you don't believe it, just try the idea of bright red velvet pants and shirt topped by yellow suspenders. Or how about a nine-foot scarf around the neck? Or a shiny leather suit?
All of these and more were offered Monday by John Weitz, Bill Blass and Oleg Cassini at one of a series of showings sponsored by the American Designer Group.

Not for Business
Weitz admitted that his clothes weren't exactly meant for business. He called his stovepipe trousers—with suspenders to keep them up and straps under the instep of the shoe to hold them down—"idea stuff." He showed them in plaid wool for day, velvet for evening.

Weitz also showed a sashed, bathrobe-style jacket and matching trousers. He called the outfit "possible tomorrow's business suit." The coat was similar to many seen in women's collections.

Blass also borrowed from the ladies. Or maybe it was the other way around and he borrowed from the men in designing his women's clothes. At any rate, he featured those long, long striped scarves tossed around the neck that keep popping up on almost all the feminine fashions.

Children's
Blass also showed the mid-coat—another ladies' look—in navy blue with a nutria collar and cuffs.
Oleg Cassini persisted with the Western look, including leather suits and outfits with fringe. He was particularly proud of a black leather suit, belted and deeply vented in back.
The same trends that the men borrowed from women, children's wear designers took for their small fry outfits.

Joseph Love, who presented his collection in connection with the New York Couture Group's showings last week, dressed the tiny tots in pants suits, jump suits and lots of velvet—just like mommy. There was even a little gypsy in two-piece flowered print pants suit with matching bandana.

Making State Tax Policy in Secret

In spite of the risk of being denounced again on the floor of the state Senate, these columns would be negligent in avoiding condemnation in the strongest terms of one of the classic examples of legislating in secret caucus perpetrated by our Wisconsin state senators last week.

When the Senate at long last adopted and sent to the Assembly a budget and revenue bill, it contained one significant revenue proposal that had never been given a public hearing as ostensibly required by the rules, and at the very least usually honored by tradition in the Wisconsin state capitol.

It was a proposal for an increase in the corporation income tax levied by the State of Wisconsin, the first time a legislature has seriously proposed such a higher levy since the corporation tax was originally enacted more than half a century ago. We have no knowledge of the identity of the author. We know nothing of the arguments made pro and con. Like the rest of the 4,000,000 inhabitants of Wisconsin, we are completely in the dark about this basic change in state fiscal policy — because the Republican Senate majority chose to make this decision in a private caucus, behind locked doors, guarded by a member of the Senate sergeant's staff as a precaution against the chance that some citizen of Wisconsin might be so bold as to demand the right to listen to such important decisions being made by his elected representatives.

As our Madison representative has frequently observed, there has been an unspoken agreement among Wisconsin politicians about stabilization of Wisconsin corporation income taxes, in the interest of attracting business enterprise and expanding the economy and thus expanding payrolls, taxable dividends and the productivity of the present corporation income tax schedule. No one could claim that the two Democratic governors Wisconsin has had lately were overly solicitous about business. But even when they were deeply mired in budget financing troubles, they did not propose more state corporation taxation. Wisconsin organized labor has some militantly liberal components. But not even the CIO in its most brash days asked for a higher state corporation income tax.

Literally considered, the Senate amendment to the Knowles proposal for revenue gathering is trivial. It is one-tenth of one per cent. But the fact that Republicans in the Senate conceived that increase will very likely encourage some assemblymen, as they revise the budget-revenue bill again, to ask for a higher increase. Some Assembly Democrats in fact have already done exactly that in independently sponsored bills now pending. There is offered here, moreover, a precedent for a future legislature, which will surely face similar revenue problems. The dike has been broken, with consequences that cannot now be foretold.

But more important is the craven, secretive style employed by our representatives in contriving a fundamental revision of tax policy out of the sight and the hearing of the people who sent them to Madison.

Crisis in Our Relations With Japan

Our former Ambassador to Japan, Edwin Reischauer, has warned that our relations with Japan are "at a moment of terrible crisis" but that few people in the United States seem to be aware of it.

Mr. Reischauer pointed to the increased violence by university students in Japan, the disagreement over the American control of Okinawa, the conflicts over American nuclear submarines stopping at Japanese ports, and the possible expiration of the Japanese-American security treaty next year as issues and actions which are serious. He also thinks that our increased involvement in Vietnam has caused emotional upheavals among the Japanese and in a way this has grown out of the Japanese military defeat in 1945. The Japanese are Asians and they tend to be concerned over white domination of their continent despite the gradual withdrawals of former colonial powers. Mr. Reischauer says that more Japanese are beginning to accept the Communist charge of United States "white imperialism."

But the Japanese have not yet faced up to whether to abrogate the security treaty with the United States and change their Constitution so that they can have increased military forces. Mr. Reischauer warns that Japan might go "to full militarization and atomic weapons... (and) this would be a true disaster to the world." Currently there is still a considerable antagonism to anything military in Japan and in part this is responsible for the opposition to the American role in Vietnam and our use of Japanese bases. But if Japanese trade routes are threatened and the American nuclear umbrella is withdrawn, the attitudes could change.

Mr. Reischauer believes that we should lose no time in returning Okinawa to the Japanese and that our military problems which might result cannot be as serious as deteriorating relations with the Japanese if we refuse. The current Sato regime in Japan could remain in power or fall depending upon the Okinawan situation.

Japan is the only thoroughly healthy economic nation in Asia although Taiwan is progressing. Japanese influence among the underdeveloped nations on that continent should be considerable and is very important. We hope the Nixon administration is not underestimating the importance of our relations with the Japanese in the next few years.

Did Mr. Nixon Lose His Cool?

Over the weekend, White House aides released information that implies that President Nixon may have lost his cool at his recent news conference.

The President, when asked about former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's recommendations for de-Americanizing the war in Vietnam, pointed out accurately that the Nixon Administration had done more so far than had Mr. Clifford when in office since President Nixon has authorized the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops within the next few weeks. But then the President commented that he hoped his Administration could better the Clifford suggestion of 100,000 troop withdrawals by the end of the year.

The White House has now announced that there is really no more information on the possibilities for peace and that the President's statement was only reflecting his hopes and not any solid intentions. But unfortunately such statements raise the hopes of others, including both Americans and North Vietnamese. If it turns out that no more troops can be brought home this year, there is bound to be the charge that the President has gone back on his word although that would not be strictly true.

President Nixon has recognized the war weariness in this country, the growing threat of demonstrations against it, the antagonisms even within the military forces. But he may have over-reacted to Mr. Clifford's article in trying to demonstrate his intentions of getting us out.

There were some second thoughts at the White House before the further explanations were made.

Quoted from the Crescent for June 12, 1869.

"Mine Host" of the LeVake House is to get up the Commencement dinner, which will be served at the usual place — the basement of the Methodist Church.

This arrangement no doubt will prove a most happy one for all as we are confident that Mr. Blood (Henry L. Blood) will be equal to the occasion and spread a good dinner before his guests. Tickets can be engaged in advance.

Japanese Go to Latin America
TOKYO (AP)—The Japan Emigration Bureau reported that 639 Japanese citizens emigrated to Latin American countries in fiscal 1968.

The figure, the bureau said, was only one-thirteenth of that of 1969, a peak year for Japanese migration to Latin America.

The bureau said that since 1952, 60,000 Japanese have gone to live in Latin America. Brazil got the largest number — 49,000, and Paraguay the second largest number, 6,000.

A Word Edgewise
Roche Still Thinks ROTC a Waste Of Time, But Not for SDS Reasons

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

Some months ago, never dreaming that R.O.T.C. (Reserve Officer Training Corps) programs would become the focus of extremist attacks, I wrote a somewhat frivolous column suggesting that college military training programs were essentially a waste of time and money, if not counterproductive. My point was intended seriously, but I am now strongly reminded of an old Chaplin film on which Charlie was ambled down the street minding his own business when the red warning flag fell off a truck's projecting cargo. Charlie, like a good citizen, picked it up and chased the truck. Suddenly a Communist parade emerged from a side street right behind him, the cops descended, and Charlie went off to jail as a leader of the parading Reds. I have a new appreciation of Charlie's predicament on the subject of R.O.T.C. I have found myself in some pretty odd company.

I have not changed my views, but it is obvious that they need clarification. General S.L.A. Marshall, the military historian, has quite correctly weighed into me in his syndicated column for not dealing with the serious aspects of R.O.T.C. "Slam," for whom I have enormous respect, pointed out that the bulk of present-day commissioned officers have been drawn from college training programs, and argued that abolition of R.O.T.C. would be a national disaster. (He also challenged my credentials as a hand-grenade thrower, noting that in World War I he had induced the U.S. Army to substitute the baseball throw for the British overarm lob. I don't doubt the truth of his assertion, but in the spring of 1943 the word had not reached Camp Lee, Va.)

First of all, nothing said in the earlier column was intended to ridicule the competence of officers who have emerged from R.O.T.C. in recent years. The pre-World War II program was appalling, and I was unfair in using the immediate post-war period as if it were typical. Between 1946 and 1960 our whole military operation, not just R.O.T.C., resembled the Keystone Cops. Given the attitude of the American people, it was remarkable that any competent officers remained in the services. I regret to say that I contributed to this witless orgy of anti-militarism, at least until the Greek Civil War, the Berlin Blockade and the Czech Coup brought me to my historical senses.

Second, I made it clear earlier, and re-emphasize now, that the armed services must have the right to recruit on campus. A college or university should not double as a basic training center, but the right of students to participate in voluntary activities should not be denied, no matter how vicious the blackmail of Students for a Democratic Society (S.D.S.). R.O.T.C. can, this is, operate as an extracurricular activity. It should be disarmed since guns have no place on a campus, and summer camps will serve for weapons training.

At this point the critics begin to jump up and down and accuse me of destroying R.O.T.C., but the gist of their argument is an unproved assumption that R.O.T.C. training makes first-class officers, that is, that the military science courses, the drill, etc. have shaped the men who graduate.

BASICALLY SUPERFLUOUS

My contention is precisely the opposite. Without for one second denying the importance of R.O.T.C. as a mechanism for recruiting good officers, I suggest that R.O.T.C. training is basically superfluous. In other words, if the armed services eliminated the on-campus programs but continued to recruit talented men from the colleges, they would have about the same result — and a lot of time, energy, and money would be saved.

This is not based on speculation. Up in I Corps in Vietnam, I spent some time with both the Army and the Marines. I have never seen such a fine body of officers as we have there and admittedly most holding Army commissions are products of R.O.T.C., who have been exposed to four years of campus marching and courses in military science. But before we take this as proof of R.O.T.C.'s effectiveness, let's take a look at the Marines. Most Marine officers signed up for officer training in college, went to summer training camps, and had none of the campus rigmarole of R.O.T.C. I defy anyone to demonstrate that the Marines are in any way inferior — even though they never took a course in military science or drilled in the college gym.

If You've $20 And You're In Haiti ...

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — How far can you go on $20 here?

1. A colorful Haitian primitive painting, framed, by one of the country's many good artists.
2. An evening for two at one of the top nightspots, with continental and Creole cuisine, a native floor show, wines, and an endless supply of Rhum Barbancourt — the national tipple.
3. A day on the Isle de Caecque, 20 miles from Port-au-Prince where you'll be taken by speedboat to a lonely beach and given a beach house with bath, shower, twin beds facing the water.
4. A roundtrip ticket to Cap Haitien, the jumping off place for The Citadelle, the mountaintop fortress built by the mad King Henri Christophe at a cost of 20,000 lives.
5. One day for two people, with all meals, at a good hotel.
6. A day's excursion, with lunch, in a comfortable car, to the mountain area near Port-au-Prince. Especially charming: Kenscoff, up in the cool, clear hills, with its Friday flower market.
7. A hand-made, hand-embroidered linen dress with carefully embroidered flowers and delicate cut-work.
8. A trip for two by "cami onette" or colorful truck-bus, with a picnic lunch (including the best French champagne), to the ultra-modern Albert Schweitzer Hospital at Deschappelles. With the left-over change buy some of the exquisite "Venetian" glassware made by the inmates.

Wisconsin Report
It's Interesting How Lobbyists Do Their Thing in Legislature

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The watcher on the legislative sidelines sometimes gets the impression that some professional lobbyists are not as indignant about some of the hostile propositions directed at their interests and those of their clients as they appear to be.

Wyngaard

More often than is generally recognized, such situations present opportunities for the professional legislative counsel to impress his clients with the value of his services and the quality of his skills and the effectiveness of his tactics.

One suspects that it was precisely such a situation that the big guns of organized labor in Wisconsin welcomed last week when the "right to work" bill that would outlaw so-called union shop agreements turned up again.

RECEIVED LITTLE NOTICE

The bill has been before the legislature frequently over the years. It has lost adherents steadily. No experienced student of legislative affairs

When I discussed my caller seemed surprised and disappointed. Why, he demanded, I tried to explain my conviction that the measure did not have even a remote chance of passage and that it is the reporter's job to ration his time so as to attend to those legislative matters of more serious import.

The hotel rally was held, nevertheless. Perhaps up to 150 persons attended. A larger number crowded the big Assembly chamber for the perfunctory hearing on the following day. The measure had been presented by a couple of far right conservatives, doubtless in all sincerity. But even they good naturedly concede that they have little chance for success on legislation which bears their names and usually involves some extremely conservative objective.

It is not the intention of this report to disparage the men involved in this incident.

PUT ON GOOD SHOW

It was a good show altogether. A good number of the union bureaucracy had the opportunity to come to Madison for a day. The news media carried the story of the big hearing and the "victory" of the labor leadership as the hearing committee nailed the coffin after voting against the bill. The presumption is that the rank and file dues-payer in the hinterland is pleased that his agents are so attentive and so influential.

Such methods are par for many of the other lobbies, including those free lancers who collect good fees from business and other clients to represent them in the hurly burly of the legislature where the uninitiated would be lost.

Sometimes the onlooker finds himself wondering, without malice, whether some of these men are truly anxious to pass their bill or to repeal a law, as the case may be, on the first round, and thereupon throw away the opportunity for a repeat fee in the next legislature. There is a tale told about one cynical old timer who had a gullible client. After some legislative sessions had passed without visible progress of the bill he was sponsoring, the client became restless and demanded an explanation. Out went a telegraphed message with the consoling news: "We are making progress. I got the bill introduced today."

would have given it even a faint chance of enactment this year, and, indeed, that is why it got so little notice in the news dispatches when it was presented.

But it gave the leading men of the unions of Wisconsin an opportunity to make a show of strength by coming to the Capitol en masse, by attacking the measure in a packed hearing room with all of the earnestness and indignation they could command, and then to watch while the reporters wrote their notes including the fact that the hearing committee without hesitation voted unanimously to reject the proposition.

SURPRISED AT REFUSAL

On the previous day this reporter was called to the telephone by one of the labor union spokesmen and invited to a "strategy rally," as he put it, at one of the Madison's hotels organized by the leading organizations of the state.

Strictly Personal
Grade System Makes Education a Contest

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A teacher I know has sent me a recent book called "Making the Grade," which is a nice pun in itself — for young people today can't make the grade unless they make the grade. And the grade has become more important than anything else in the educational process.

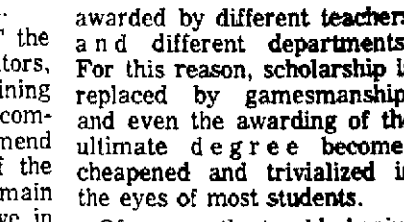

For many long and wearisome years, I have chanted the refrain that grades should be abandoned in the school system. Everything they accomplish is negative, and they have absolutely no meaning outside the narrow framework of the course or the school.

In "Making the Grade," the three authors — all educators, by the way — after examining possible alternatives and compromises, finally recommend the complete abolition of the grading system. Their main charges against it are five in number:

1. First, it "institutionalizes" the students, and moves them through the college anonymously, like beef stamped on the butt and processed in a meat-packing plant.
2. Secondly, it focuses coursework around the goal of "earning a grade" rather than learning the subject. The grade, which is just a symbol, becomes an object in itself, and distorts the learning process.
3. Thirdly, the relationship with the faculty is determined by the struggle for a "good grade"; there is little dialog and less searching for wisdom, but merely memorization and playing back to the teacher his own set of values, preconceptions, and criteria — which may differ vastly from teacher to teacher in the same general subject.
4. Fourthly, study habits vary, depending upon how much the student wants to get a "good grade," or how much of a "snap course" a certain subject is; it may be easier to get an "A" without working in one course than to get a "C" when working hard in another. This bears no relation to the intrinsic merit of the subject.

Fifthly, student morale is depressed by a growing awareness, throughout college, of the whimsical and arbitrary ways in which grades are awarded by different teachers and different departments. For this reason, scholarship is replaced by gamesmanship, and even the awarding of the ultimate degree becomes cheapened and trivialized in the eyes of most students.

Of course, the trouble begins in the early school years, when young pupils are invited to compete with one another for gold stars and high grades, instead of cooperating with one another and with the teacher to bring out the optimum resources of each pupil. As long as schooling is considered a "contest," education must suffer.

On the Playing Fields Of Eton ... Er, Oxford

LONDON (AP) — Six of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's seven-member "inner cabinet" are Oxford graduates. Cambridge, the other celebrated university in this old rivalry, is unrepresented.

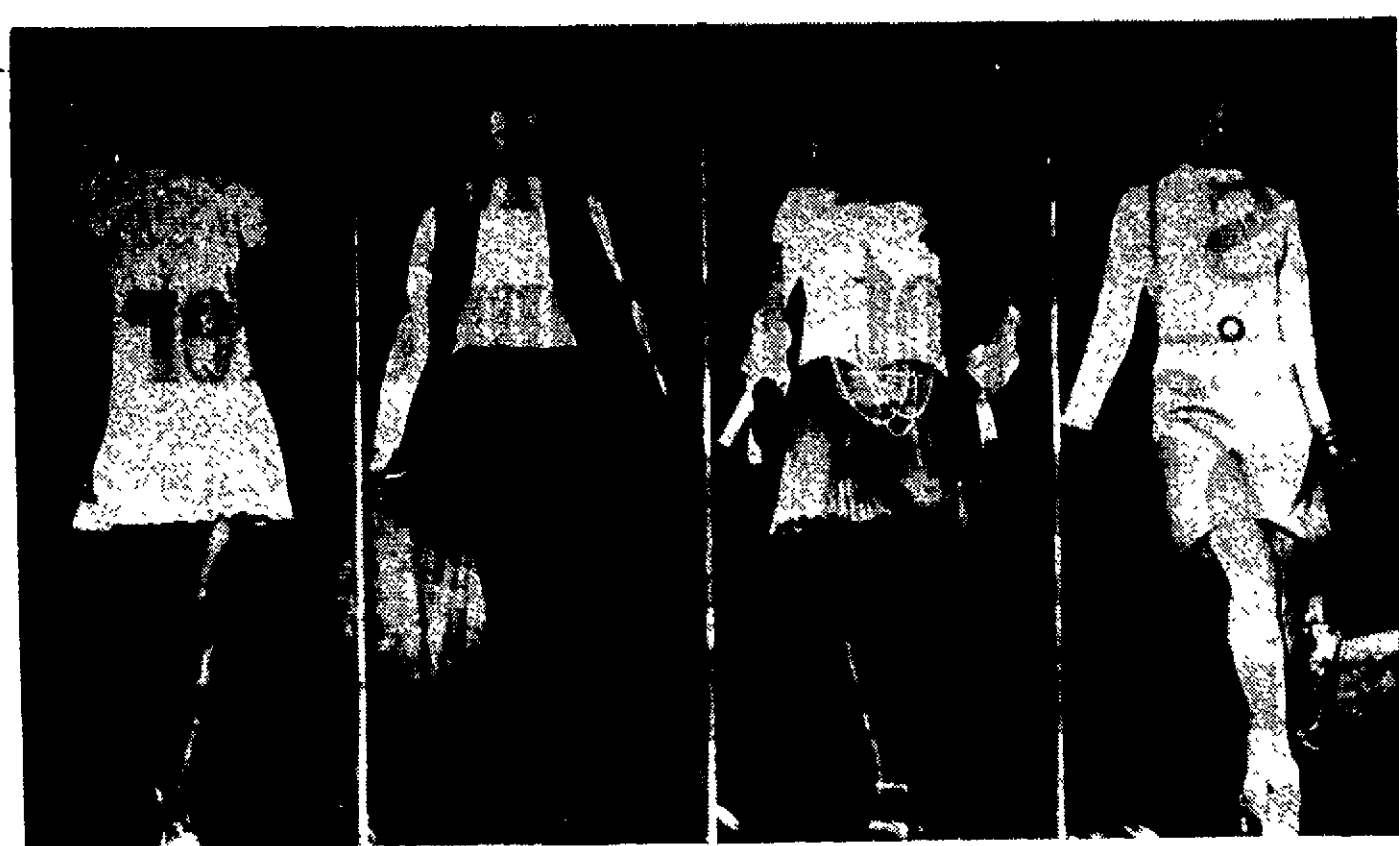

Besides Wilson the other Oxford alumni are Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins, Defense Secretary Denis Healey, Employment Minister Mrs. Barbara Castle, and Social Services Minister Richard Crossman.

The only outsider, House of Commons Floor Leader Fred Peart, attended Durham University.

Swim Pool Is Neighborhood Magnet

BY KIRMA BOMBECK
Yesterday we got our swimming pool. It was like being listed in the yellow pages under fun city. Kids we had never seen before (some of them spoke a foreign language) lined up with snorkels, rubber ducks, rafts and old inner tubes from semi trucks.
"This is ridiculous," I said to my husband. "I don't even have the thing inflated yet. Besides, it's only 48 inches in diameter and 14 inches deep."
"Does that kid know that?" he asked.
"Which one?" I asked peeking through the curtain.
"The one with grease all over his body and an oxygen tank and spear gun strapped to his back."
"You wouldn't want to help me blow it up would you?"
"No."
As I put my lips to the valve, a hush fell over the crowd. I blew into it and everything went black. I exhaled into it again and something in my head snapped. After eight expanses of air my tongue began to swell. Later, as I hovered near unconsciousness, I drew my last breath and secured the valve.
Blow Up Whale?
"Can you blow up my whale, lady?" asked a small child. I wanted to slap a vulcanized patch over his mouth. "You won't need it," I panted. "Just keep out of the 14-inch end and you'll be safe."
It was all I could do to keep the children out while I filled the pool with the garden hose and added a few slugs of laundry bleach.
Finally, the order was given. "The pool is open."
You wouldn't believe the steady stream of little people who knocked on the door but I'm going to tell you anyway. It was like working a gin mill during prohibition.

"Are you the life guard?"
Stevie is throwing water in my face.
"My Mama said I should watch television until my lunch digests so I won't get stomach cramps."
"The boys are jumping in with grass on their feet. Do you

WINE On the Table

For more than 100 years Zinfandel has been one of California's most popular red dinner wines. Yet nobody knows exactly what this mysterious grape is or where it comes from.
Possibly Zinfandel's origin isn't known because Hungarian Count Agoston Haraszthy, who brought many grapes from Europe, had such poor handwriting that it was wrongly deciphered. Most likely it's an accidental hybrid of other European grapes.
One thing we do know about Zinfandel wine is that it varies greatly depending on whether the grapes are grown employed by the Urban Telephone Corp., Clintonville. Her husband was graduated from the farm short course at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and is engaged in farming in Manawa.
After a wedding trip to the western states, the couple will reside at Manawa.

It doesn't matter what color you choose, this dress will be a year-around favorite. Knitted on size 5 needles of gorgeous synthetic yarn and finished with a double strand quick crochet. Little fake pleats make it easy to wear. This is the basic dress of your dreams and always ready to go. You'll wear it to death.
In a hurry? If you have a knitting machine, convert the pattern, knit it on your machine and you'll be wearing it before you know it. If you don't have a double-bed machine, or a ribber, you can make the "pleat" with your latch tool. Sizes 8-16 (34-42 inches) are all included in each pattern.
To order Hand Knit-459 Ribbed Skirt Dress, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Lois Holmes of California, Post-Crescent, Box 6002, Inglewood, Calif. 90302.
Please print your name, address, zip code and pattern numbers plainly. Send 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mail and special handling, or 25 cents each for air mail.
Dear Lois: I have been a fan of yours for a long time. I too, use a lot of 4-ply knitting worsted for knitting but need new crochet ideas for the edges. How can I get a book or pamphlet of crochet edges for yarn that croch? — Darina J.
DEAR DARINA: As far as I know, there has never been anything printed quite like that. In the meantime, perhaps this will help you. Since crochet has become popular again, there are new books as well as reprints of old favorite crochet edgings for use in edging pillowcases, guests towels, and so forth. Many of the simple ones will be beautiful for edges of dresses and suits of heavier yarns, appropriate stitch gauge or tension.

Sheinwold No Safe Exit for Opponent

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One of the essential features of the throw-in play is the favor that the opponent must do for you no matter what he returns. If you see that one of the defenders is in trouble for a safe exit, try to lose any trick that you are sure to lose sooner or later to that defender; and profit by his inability to get out safely.

the ten. East completed his high-low with the three of diamonds when West continued with the ace. West then obeyed instructions by leading a third diamond.

South was able to overruff East on the third round of diamonds, but the defenders had accomplished their purpose. South was deprived of a discard on dummy's queen of diamonds and had only nine sure tricks.

Declarer drew three rounds of trumps and then went after the clubs. When the jack of clubs failed to drop in three rounds, South's cause was pretty hopeless. He tried a finesse with dummy's ten of spades, but East took the queen of spades and cashed the setting trick with the jack of clubs. Down one.

South was in too much of a hurry when he went after the clubs immediately after drawing trumps. He should have profited by the fact that East was reduced to black cards and could be thrust into the lead without a safe return.

After drawing West's last trump, South should lead a spade to try a finesse with dummy's ten. South expects the finesse to lose, but knows that East will be unable to get out safely.

If East returns a spade, dummy gets two spade tricks. If East returns a club South is sure of four club tricks. Either way declarer is sure to make his contract.

Daily Question
Dealer, at your right, opens with one club. You are next, holding: S-8 6, H-8 5 3, D-A K 7 6 4 2, C-7 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one diamond. You expect to win four diamond tricks even against rather bad breaks. You can well afford an overcall if you are not vulnerable, and should probably take the risk even if vulnerable. If South opened with one spade or one heart, your hand would not be worth an overcall at the level of two.

Unscramble Names of Fruit To Win a Printing Press

BY CAPPY DICK

A Superior Flash Printing Plant, including an all-metal printing press, 200 pieces of movable type and supplies, will be awarded for each of the five nearest and most original correct solutions for today's contest puzzle. These will be national grand prizes. The winning entries will be among the preliminary prize winners from all the cities where this column is published.

Five preliminary prizes will be awarded to boys and girls of the Fox Valley area. These prizes will be sets of three wire puzzles which are great fun to take apart and put back together. Entries winning these local awards will be considered, along with such winners from the other cities, when the contest judges select the five national grand prize winners.

The printing press outfits are manufactured for boys and girls by the Superior Marking Equipment Company. Included is a case to hold the rubber type, metal type slugs, a pair of tweezers, a Modogram device for printing fancy initials, a supply of black ink, a red ink pad, a supply of paper, a set of picture dies and an idea book that tells what to print and how to do it.

kind of fruits growing there are shown on the signs, but the letters are mixed up. You can learn the names of the fruits by rearranging each group of letters.

Clip out the picture. Paste it on a piece of paper. Beneath it print the unscrambled names, numbering each correctly. Print your name, age, address, and zip number on the entry. Decorate it in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts.

Finally address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek Printing Press Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow. Prize winners' names will be announced here. Their awards will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

BY W. L. GORDON

WORDS OFTEN MISUSED: Do not say, "Contrasted to this." Say, "Contrasted WITH this."

OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED: Grimace. Pronounce gri-mase, with accent on second syllable, not the first.

OFTEN MISSPELLED: Seas (water). Sees (looks). Seize (take hold of). Cease (stop).

SYNONYMS: Dregs, sediment, refuse, offal, lees, dross, trash, rubbish.

Frozen Assets in Culinary Bailiwick

repertoire. Frozen ingredients — chicken, shrimp, onion, green pepper, okra and peas — all make for quick preparation and easy assembling for a creditable version of this classic dish.

When minutes are sparse, a wonderful dinner entree can be whipped up with frozen food products such as creamed chipped beef spooned over stuffed baked potatoes. Chopped spinach flavored with vinegar and onion adds a deft flavor touch to the menu. This makes a wonderful busy day dinner.

California Chicken is another excellent dish that uses a superb marinade dominated by orange juice concentrate and chopped onions. Served with rice and a crisp salad, a festive meal is prepared in minutes. Another menu is for a twosome and the dinner-in-a-loaf is a hearty surprise that features the golden cream-style corn packed and frozen in a flavor-tight cooking pouch that eliminates the need for double boiler cooking.

The Dinner-in-a-Loaf is a recipe you'll want to use often, and probably so will all the others. They're all among the frozen assets of today's streamlined and creative homemaker.

BUSY-DAY DINNER

The menu for a busy day need not harass the cook. Not when the dinner starts with chilled grapefruit section (from a can and chilled way ahead of time); Sherried Chipped Beef on Stuffed baked potatoes (all from frozen food case); Spinach with bacon; corn muffins, and a dessert on hand or frozen, such as Southern Pecan Pie. Add tea, coffee, milk or variation thereof, and the meal will please anyone, family or company.

SHERRIED CHIPPED BEEF ON BAKED POTATOES
2 pkgs. (12 ounces each) frozen creamed chipped beef
2 pkgs. (10 ounces each) frozen stuffed baked potatoes

3 tablespoons sherry

Heat chipped beef and baked potatoes according to package directions. Stir sherry into beef mixture just before serving. Serve spooned over baked potatoes. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

SPINACH WITH BACON

2 pkgs. (10 ounces each) frozen chopped spinach
4 strips bacon, cooked
2 tablespoons vinegar
Cook spinach according to package directions. Drain thoroughly. Add two strips bacon, crumbled, and vinegar to spinach; mix well. Transfer to serving dish. Garnish top with remaining bacon strips. Recipe makes six servings.

DINNER FOR TWO

This menu includes Vichyssoise (simply frozen potato soup served chilled with sprinkling of chives); Creamed Chicken and Ham on Noodles; Green Beans in Butter Sauce (right from package in frozen form and heated according to package directions); canned grapefruit sections, chilled, on lettuce; dinner rolls; chocolate layer cake or other dessert of choice, with coffee. The recipe is for the entree.

CREAMED CHICKEN AND HAM

1 pkg. (11½ ounces) frozen creamed chicken
1 cup diced cooked ham
4 tablespoons shredded Parmesan cheese
Cooked medium noodles
Heat chicken according to package directions. Add ham and continue to cook, stirring occasionally, until ham is heated. Stir in cheese. Serve spooned over freshly cooked, drained noodles.

California Chicken
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 cup water
1 cup frozen chopped onions
2 pkgs. (1 pound each) frozen chicken breasts, thighs or legs, thawed
1 cup cornflake crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed oregano
¼ teaspoon pepper
Uncooked rice

Mix together orange juice concentrate, water and chopped onions in a shallow bowl. Add chicken pieces and marinate at least 30 minutes.

Mix together cornflake crumbs, salt, oregano and pepper. Roll chicken pieces in crumb mixture until well coated. Place skin side up in single layer in shallow baking dish. Pour orange juice mixture around chicken pieces. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes, or until chicken is lightly browned and tender. Do not cover or turn chicken while cooking.

Meanwhile, cook rice according to package directions. To serve, place chicken on a bed of hot cooked rice and spoon pan drippings over chicken. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

CUMBERLAND SAUCE
6 ounces canned frozen

Corn Burger Loaf

orange juice concentrate, thawed
¼ cup currant jelly
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

SQUASH WITH ORANGE

1 pkg. (12 ounces) frozen cooked squash
1 tablespoon frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Salt
Pepper

Place squash in top of double boiler and heat over simmering water. Add orange juice concentrate, butter, salt and pepper; mix well. Recipe makes two to three servings.

CREOLE JAMBALAYA

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 pkg. (1 pound) frozen chicken breasts, thighs or legs, thawed
½ cup frozen chopped onion
½ cup frozen chopped green pepper

1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups uncooked rice
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (10½-ounces) condensed chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 package (12 ounces) frozen whole okra
1 package (1 pound) frozen shelled deveined shrimp
¼ pound cooked smoked ham, cubed (about 1 cup)
1 pkg. (10 ounces) frozen peas

Melt butter in a large skillet, brown chicken on all sides. Remove chicken.

Add onion, green pepper and garlic to pan drippings; cook over low heat until onion and green pepper are thawed and tender. Add rice, tomatoes, chicken broth, salt and pepper; mix well. Transfer mixture to a four-quart casserole or Dutch oven. Add browned chicken and okra. Cover and bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for one hour, stirring occasionally, or until liquid is almost absorbed and rice, chicken and okra almost tender.

Add shrimp, ham and peas.

stir gently, cover and bake another 15 minutes, or until shrimp are cooked. Taste and adjust seasonings, if necessary.

CORN BURGER LOAF

1 pkg. cream-style corn frozen in flavor-tight cooking pouch
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 pound ground chuck
Vegetable shortening
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
6 ounces tomato paste

stir gently, cover and bake another 15 minutes, or until shrimp are cooked. Taste and adjust seasonings, if necessary.

Place low under broiler; broil until cheese bubbles. Serve immediately.

No self-respecting chicken would be without it.

Recipes on back of package.

Low Blood Sugar Can Make Life Miserable

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

(Concluding a series of three articles)
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My niece is 4 years old, and my sister says she has low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) and has to have something to eat every two hours. She gets very fussy and throws herself on the floor crying if she isn't fed this often.

Dr. Thosteson

Is this condition very serious? Will she ever outgrow it? — A.M.B.

It's not a deadly disease, but it can make a person's life very uncomfortable. Just expecting the youngster to "outgrow it" is expecting too much.

Proper treatment — based on a searching study as to which type of hypoglycemia she has — is another matter. My new booklet on this topic lists 10 varieties of low blood sugar. Hence I can't very well make any guesses in this case, but I do most certainly urge careful study of this child.

Hypoglycemia may not be noticeable until adulthood, or it can create unexplained havoc in children's behavior. Note the following letter.

Dear Doctor: We've recently learned that our son, 9½, has hypoglycemia. In the past year we had taken him to the doctor at least five times for changes in personality which the doctor thought were "mother-made." Do I have reason to be disappointed in our doctor for not having found this earlier? — Mrs. M.K.

You can certainly regret that it wasn't found sooner, but it isn't always easy to spot. Why? Because the symptoms appear only at times when the blood sugar is low.

I think all doctors, including myself, are learning to suspect low blood sugar much more often than we used to, but I think it is just as important to put the public on guard too. Once the pattern of attacks is noted, an adequate sugar tolerance test will quickly guide the way to proper treatment. But until that first suspicion emerges, hypoglycemia can be a deceptively on-again-off-again puzzler.

Dear Doctor: You have touched on hypoglycemia. I hope you keep mentioning it. I have been to doctors with the symptoms all my life. I started in Holland, then 23 years in Canada (three provinces). I even had suicidal ideas, so great was the misery. What can one do to make the medical profession more aware of this condition? — H.F.

I think awareness has at last come like a cloudburst. But because of the nature of the ailment, we must make people generally aware. Symptoms don't always appear conveniently just at the time the doctor is examining a patient.

Dear Doctor: Is it okay to do without sugar entirely and to use artificial sweeteners when you have hypoglycemia? — Mrs. R.S.

Yes, and many people now do. But adequate protein in the diet is also a necessity. All I can do in this column is hit some of the high spots, but I hope that my new booklet will be as helpful as I think it will. For a copy, write to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask for the

BY SYLVIA PORTER

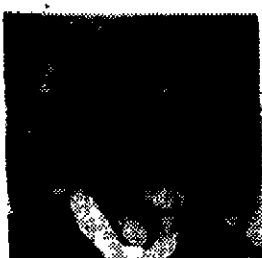

No responsible adviser will guarantee to double or triple your money for you in a couple of years. But in yesterday's column, I gave you enough examples of soaring values to prove that many categories of antiques are surging upward at this pace and more.

Are there any bargains still around for the amateur with only a few hundred dollars to invest? If so, where are they? I put these questions to experts at New York's Parke-Bernet galleries and, to my astonishment, heard them insist that bargains in antiques do exist.

Many small investors, in fact, are already getting into this field, says Parke-Bernet. Today, a full 60 per cent of the items sold by Parke-Bernet go for under $250 and a very significant 15 per cent go for under $50.

Here are the basic rules: If you are a beginner, concentrate on a specific category

which interests you — such as American silver or African carvings or English glass or French tapestries. Subscribe to and collect literature and catalogs in your field. Study and watch prices in your field by surveying the dealers and by attending auctions.

Buy at Auction — If you buy at auction — and you generally can save 25 per cent or more by buying at auction against retail — be sure to attend previews or showings of items before the auction. Examine each item which interests you — including inside drawers of furniture, its hardware, etc. — and ask a lot of questions. Remember, anything you buy is returnable only if it has been misrepresented. If you are completely uninformed, hire a dependable dealer or connoisseur for a fee to represent you at an auction.

No matter whether you buy at auction or at retail, keep in mind that value depends on these key aspects of an antique: Quality (how good an example is it?); authenticity (can the item's origin be properly verified?); condition; uniqueness (is it rare?); age (is the piece dated and can the date be verified?); era and area (is it from a period and a country considered valuable by connoisseurs?).

Buy the best examples you can afford.

Here are five categories in which experts at Parke-Bernet believe bargains still exist:

(1) Late American Federal (or "Empire") furniture — from the 1830-50 period. Says one Parke-Bernet spokesman, "In this category, $100 is expensive and values are very likely to rise if you're patient."

In pre-1830 early fine American Federal furniture too, lower-priced pieces still are available. Parke-Bernet.

(2) Pre-18th Century "William and Mary" or "Puritan" furniture from New England. This type includes uncomfortable but decorative "lowel back" chairs, cupboards, chests.

(3) Mid-Victorian furniture made in 1845-70, an often ugly, ornate category which goes in and out of fashion. It's now out of fashion and therefore inexpensive, but the statistical likelihood is that it will come back into fashion and values will rise.

(4) Early American flags — but only if they have some unique historic association.

(5) Other Americana, such as early hand-carved duck decoys, New England tin ware, utensils of the post-Civil War period; late 18th Century decorative objects such as candelabras, fixtures, art pottery and porcelain.

Of course, there are disadvantages to antiques as an investment. Among them: they are perishable, they may be costly to maintain properly, the retail markup may be 100 per cent or more, they are subject to price fluctuations based on fashion and they cannot necessarily be sold quickly at top prices. But the key advantages of investing in antiques are that — aside from the strong chance of substantial increases in value — you can also develop a happy hobby of collecting and you can decorate your home temporarily with the antiques you buy.

Dollars Keep on Shrinking As Inflation Erodes Wages

By JACK LEPLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most

Americans, earning more money today than ever, are dismayed at the inroads inflation has made on their buying power and the disruption it has caused in their plans for the future.

Housewives are perturbed by climbing food costs and husbands are holding off on decisions to buy new homes and cars.

The reason for their distress is plain—The value of the dollar you earned in 1958 has eroded to 79 cents.

"I probably spend twice as much on groceries now as I did four years ago."

Grocery Bill
That's what inflation means to Patricia Misuradze, wife of a Kirkland, Wash., school teacher and mother of three.

"Four and a half years ago I was paying 51 cents to get my husband's trousers cleaned. Now it's 79 cents."

Through the comments of people in a dozen major cities runs the complaint that their rising incomes haven't kept up with jumping prices. Even so, many say they are holding to their accustomed standard of living if it means dipping into savings and borrowing.

the equivalent of only $77.63 on the basis of 1957-58 prices.

Staying Even
The cost of living rose in April for the 27th consecutive month to 126.4 per cent of the 1957-58 average. This meant it cost $12.64 to buy goods and services that cost $10 ten years ago.

"Every time my husband gets a raise, prices go up," said Joan Daraich, whose husband Harvey teaches school in Atlanta, Ga. "So in effect we haven't had a raise. We're just staying even."

"We've been looking at houses. We were in better shape to buy a house two years ago than we are today despite pay raises. I guess we should have gone ahead. A house now will cost us several thousand dollars more than it would have then."

Mrs. Daraich is right. The Commerce Department reports that the median price of a new one-family house has climbed this way: 1955—$20,100; 1956—$21,500; 1957—$22,800; 1958—$24,800.

Interest Rates
And, in addition to the higher initial cost of the house, rising interest rates and taxes have swelled the cost of owning a home. In the last year mortgage interest rates have risen from 7 per cent to 8 1/2 per cent in most parts of the country, meaning that payments on a $15,000 30-year mortgage would rise to $135 from $120 a month.

Rising building costs and rising interest rates have put home ownership beyond the reach of more and more American families," says Tom B. Scott Jr., president of the United States Savings and Loan league.

"We're just not doing a lot of things we'd like to be doing," said Florence Mikkelsen, a Palo Alto, Calif., bank clerk with a daughter going to high school and another teaching school. "We make all our own clothes. We're getting along with a car we've had for 11 years."

Auto Sales
But a lot of people are going ahead and buying cars. Auto industry sources estimate sales this year at 8.8 million, a good year and equal to 1959.

Mrs. Thomas Chapa, a Corpus Christi, Tex., housewife, mourns that "everything has gone up but groceries are sky high. I'm doing something I once said I'd never do—that is shop in three or four different stores to get the best buys."

David Blakely, a type compositor in Denton, Tex., lamented that food has gone up but finds some solace in the fact that "the price of beer is steady."

People living on pensions and Social Security payments have been particularly hard hit.

Fixed Incomes
"We find the squeeze is on the older people who are on a fixed Social Security income," says Sidney J. Berkowitz, executive director of Jewish Family and Community Services in Chicago. "All solid service agencies face a shortage of funds. We don't have the wherewithal to meet the increased cost of doing business. Just meeting the bills is a problem."

While the Social Security payment to a retired worker and his wife has risen from $141.91 a month in 1955 to $188.07, the gain in purchasing power has been slim.

Rising taxes are another major drain. It's estimated that from 1955 to 1958 taxes grew three times faster than inflation and three times as fast as the increases in gross weekly earnings.

Property Taxes
John Reddy, a New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. executive in Schenectady, N.Y., said taxes on his home have soared from $1,100 to $1,900 a year in the last two years. He said prices and taxes have shot up so fast that he'd "rather see a freeze on inflation and forego salary increases."

Hawaii is the most expensive state in which to live because of soaring retail prices and taxes. A head of lettuce that sells for 20 cents in Los Angeles costs 38 cents there. A can of Hawaiian pineapple costs 11 cents more than on the mainland.

"We are fast becoming peacocks in paradise," said Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi.

Mrs. Grant McGee of Denver, Colo., said professional men like her attorney husband "now have to figure on working more years in order to prepare for their retirement. Proceeds from insurance policies taken out years ago don't go anywhere near as far as you'd hoped."

Insurance Total
With inflation whittling at the value of the dollar, the average insured family increased its life policy total from $11,000 in 1958 to $23,000 at the beginning of 1959.

Parents have found that the money put aside for their children's education is not going as far as expected. Here are some examples of increases in yearly college costs between the 1952-53 and 1958-59 school years: Harvard University, tuition and board $1,500 to $2,000; room and board $1,145 to $1,240. University of

Wednesday, June 25, 1959

The Post-Crescent 6 14

Wisconsin (state resident students), tuition and fees $236 to $300; room and board $639 to $648. Mills College, Oakland, Calif., tuition and fees 1,400 to $1,915; room and board $1,070 to $1,285.

Inflation has hit single persons as badly as families. Communal Living
Pat Danks, a publicist, of Aspen, Colo., commented: "Thank God I'm making what I am now or I couldn't stay here. You don't go to the movies that much. Or being single, you hope you get a date. If there's any better advertisement for communal living, this is it. Sometimes it's the only way you can afford to live."

And architect Gerald Shapiro, a 26-year-old bachelor of Beverly Hills, Calif., said, "Inflation is pushing men like me to go broke on $20,000 a year. I'm doing fine if I have a couple of hundred dollars left. I get about 15 per cent salary hikes every year but they are almost completely eaten up by higher prices. I guess I should marry a working girl."

The rate at which Americans put their money into savings accounts slipped by $4.8 billion in 1958, the Securities and Exchange Commission reported. There was a strong move into government and private securities in an effort to get a better return.

Bond Purchases
Purchases of corporate and foreign bonds rose last year to a record $4.3 billion from $3.6 billion in 1957. Net purchases of mutual funds climbed to $5.7 billion from $3.8 billion.

Cities felt the pinch of inflation when they tried to sell bond issues to finance schools, hospitals and other improvements. With commercial banks—the major buyers of municipal bonds—having a limited supply of funds because of the tight money situation, the aggregate offering of municipal issues declined from $6.4 billion in the first five months of 1957 to $5.1 billion in the like period of 1958 and to $5.4 billion this year.

New York City this year had to pay 6.85 per cent interest to borrow $100 million for three months. A year ago the rate would have been 1 1/2 percentage points lower.

Recently Seminole County, Fla., and the cities of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dallas, Tex., failed to receive any bids on proposed school bond issues.

Mets Sweep Phils, Trail By 4 1/2 Games

Astros, Cubs Win;
San Diego Falls to
10th Straight Loss

By MURRAY CHASE

While the New York Mets and the Houston Astros keep winning games, the San Diego Padres keep losing them and the Philadelphia Phillies keep losing Richie Allen.

The Astros defeated San Francisco 4-1 Tuesday night for their eighth straight victory and 21st in their last 24 home games. The Padres, on the other hand, dropped their 10th in a row, a 4-3 decision to Cincinnati.

The Mets, who used to be the worst expansion team in the majors, continued their reversal, gaining their second consecutive doubleheader sweep by knocking off the Phillies 2-1 and 5-0.

But while the Phillies pondered the incredible Mets, who have won 20 of their last 25 games, they also wondered where Allen went.

The controversial first baseman failed to show for the second time this season, and Manager Bob Skinner suspended him indefinitely without pay.

In other National League action, Atlanta downed Los Angeles 9-5, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 3-2 and Montreal topped St. Louis 4-1.

Cliff Richey Scores Upset at Wimbledon

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., pulled off one of the major upsets of the rain-delayed start of the annual Wimbledon tennis tournament Tuesday but all the talk of the 12,000 excited spectators was about the marathon between Pancho Gonzales and Charles Pasarell.

Pasarell took the first two sets of the All-America duel, 2-22, 6-1 when play had to be halted because of darkness. The score of the first set equaled the Wimbledon record set in 1963 when Nicki Pilic of Yugoslavia defeated Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy.

Richey, unseeded, ousted Bob Hewitt, South Africa's Australian born Davis Cupper, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 9-7. The upset was on a par with the 6-3, 6-2, 9-11, 6-4 setback handed Ray Moore, also of South Africa, by John Alexander, 18-year-old Australian.

Hewitt was seeded No. 14 and Moore No. 15. Their defeats highlighted a day of suspense and drama which brought Wimbledon to life after a first day blanketed out by rain.

Twins Triumph

Melton Slams Three Homers as White Sox Sweep; Orioles Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The Orioles' sweet sixteen party was in full swing in Baltimore and Bill Melton had a ball in Seattle, but Ken Harrelson's homecoming-turned sour in Boston.

These were the highlights of Tuesday's action in the American League, which ended with the Orioles opening a 10-game bulge over Boston in the East by winning 10-4.

Minnesota vaulted back into first place by one-half game over Oakland in the West.

Frank Robinson, Paul Blair and Boog Powell each hit his 16th home run in Baltimore's 6-3 11-inning triumph over Washington.

Robinson hit a disputed shot with two on in the 11th to win it while Blair socked two solo homers and Powell one.

Melton, third baseman for the Chicago White Sox, homered with the bases empty his first three times up in the second game as the Sox swept a twin-nighter from Seattle 6-4, 7-5.

Harrelson, the high-flying "Hawk" who retired for several days after the Red Sox traded him to Cleveland in April, made his long-awaited return to Boston's Fenway Park but went hitless in six at-bats as the Indians split a day-night doubleheader, winning 6-3, then losing 6-1.

Elsewhere, Minnesota edged California 5-3, Kansas City nipped Oakland 6-5 and Detroit tripped the New York Yankees 2-1.

The Baltimore-Washington contest ended in a wild argument, with the Senators claiming Robinson's homer was foul. Third base umpire Hank Soar first raised both hands, the foul sign, then pointed to fair territory.

Soar, who had his hands full with the Yankees over the weekend, said he was blinded momentarily by light reflecting off the glass front of the football press box alongside the foul pole in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Richie AWOL Again Skinner Suspends Allen Indefinitely

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — When your 5-year-old son does something bad, you spank him or send him to bed without dinner. Or if he's older, you can cut off his allowance or take the car away from him.

But what do you do with a 26-year-old major league ballplayer who can hit a baseball out of sight and makes $75,000 a year?

That's the problem the Philadelphia Phillies once again face in their never-ending struggle with the disappearing Richie Allen.

The Phillies have tried to talk to him, to understand his problems; they've tried benching him; they've tried to trade him; they've fined him numerous times, the last time $1,000, for missing 1 1/2 games in St. Louis.

Now, after AWOL, Allen pulled his disappearing act before a two-night doubleheader loss to the New York Mets Tuesday. Manager Bob Skinner suspended him indefinitely without pay.

Skinner had to change his line-up, erasing Allen's name, only minutes before the start of the first game when Allen failed to show.

"I have no idea where the man is now," Skinner said. "He first time he'd gotten letters like asked permission yesterday (Monday) to come up to New York and go to the heavyweight title fight and I haven't heard from him since."

"I understand he called during the first game—Dick Farrell to explain it himself."

How long can the sinking Phillies do without their No. 1 slugger who leads the team with a .318 average, 19 homers and 45 runs batted in?

"That's up to Mr. Allen," said Skinner, an ex-Marine. "It depends on what he tells me when I see him again. But I'm firm in this direction (the suspension) and he's going to have to make a lot of adjustments (before it's lifted)."

Too Big

"The game is too big for this type of thing. When a player misses a game, that's one of the biggest felonies that can happen."

Allen, who has asked to be traded several times because he dislikes playing in Philadelphia, where he is booed constantly, was believed on his way back to his home in Philadelphia. He was unavailable for comment.

For every game he misses, it will cost him a day's pay—$463.

"I did everything I could do to rejuvenate the guy," Skinner said. "I think I've handled it perfectly. I wouldn't do anything differently."

"I started off by sending him two positive letters during the winter. He told me it was the first time he'd gotten letters like that. He said he appreciated it. When problems came up, we talked them over."

"I don't think the problem has anything to do with handling. It's just Richie Allen. He'll have to explain it himself."

Couldn't Find It

"I couldn't find the ball and didn't give any signal at first because the ball got into the lights," he said. "But then it struck at the bottom of the stands. I've never seen so much hollering and screaming, throwing bats and such. They (the Senators) were like a bunch of wild Indians."

Shortstop Eddie Brinkman, of the Senators said the ball was "foul, definitely foul, a yard or two past the pole. It was a choke call. None of them have a gut in their body. They're all homers."

But Powell, who was in the on-deck circle, said he was "standing looking right at it. I saw it good and it went around the right side of the pole—fair."

Blair and Powell homered in the first inning and Blair connected again in the third for a 3-0 lead. But the Senators' lead back on Jim Fingers' two-run homer in the fifth and tied it in Mike Epstein's RBI single in the sixth.

Despite Melton's cannoning, the White Sox needed Ed Herrmann's tie-breaking homer to win 6-3.

Ryan Called To Active Army Duty

BY JOHN L. PAUSTAIN

The Appleton Foxes, Tuesday night, used an opportunistic attack, the 10-strikeout pitching of Bart Johnson and the 1-pitch magic of Roger Benko to turn back Cedar Rapids, 6-4, in another pivotal Midwest League game at Goodland Field.

With the hard-earned win — their third straight of the Cardinal series and their 20th in 23 home starts — the runnerup Foxes inched closer to the front-running Quincy Cubs, who were rained out. Appleton trails Quincy by 5 percentage points in the ML's sizzling first-round race, which ends in four days.

The Foxes picked up a half-game on third place Quad Cities, which was held to a split by Burlington. The Bees and the Angels traded 6-0 wins, with Burlington prevailing in the opener.

2 Open Dates

Byes in the schedule force the Foxes to mark time tonight and Thursday before swinging into the climax of the race Friday and Saturday nights in Wisconsin Rapids.

Although the Foxes cruised to a 5-1 lead in the first three frames last night, they were to encounter an all-out battle from the Cards before cementing the win. Cedar Rapids halved the Foxes' lead with a pair in the fifth and came within one run — 5 to 4 — with another marker in the seventh. Appleton added one in its half of the seventh, but Cedar Rapids applied the pressure anew in the top of the ninth.

In Continental League Joe Runk Sets Sights On Placekicking Job After Year in 'Minors'

BY LEE REMMEL

GREEN BAY — Joe Runk, a cherubic Indian with a talented toe, was content to ply his trade in the Continental League a year ago.

But Joe, who aspires to become the Packers' No. 1 placekicker, now feels he is ready for pro football's big show.

"He has real good form," Cone observed as Joe arched a 60-yard kickoff goalward, "and pretty good punch."

Recruiting Trip

Fred, a Clemson assistant coach on a recruiting trip through the midwest, speaks with considerable authority. He kicked more field goals, 53, than any other man in Packer history except Paul Hornung and leads the team's all time list of conversions with 200.

Runk, however, wasn't entirely happy with his performance. "I was doing lot better in Las Vegas," he said. "We had a little better temperatures there, and the grass wasn't so long."

"On my kickoffs I like to be exactly five yards back. But the field I was kicking on today wasn't lined and it's hard to tell where you are. After you can do that, it's mechanical."

Joe, a native of Kokomo, Ind., who later moved to Phoenix and now makes his home in Las Vegas, booted the longest field goal of the '68 Continental League season, a 50-yarder, and connected on 11 of 21 attempts overall to merit the Packers' interest.

Western Conference

"Our team actually began the season playing in the Western Football Conference," he reported. "Riverside, Calif., Pomona and Palm Springs, California and the Los Angeles

Army Throws Rams' Fullback, Dyer, for Loss

FT. IRWIN, Calif. (AP) — Reserve fullback Henry Dyer of the Los Angeles Rams was thrown for a loss by military discipline Tuesday.

The National Guard, it seems, took a dim view of matters when Dyer was assigned to stand guard—and took a sleeping bag along with him.

The 235-pound Dyer, from Grambling College, is at this desert training base with California's 40th Armored Brigade.

Offensive Stars Missing All-America Tilt Looms Defensive Battle

BY RON SPEER

"I think we'll get several touchdowns," said Pepper Rodgers of Kansas, coach of the West. "We've got some great players."

Penn State's Joe Paterno, coaching the East, also has confidence in his attack. He said his offensive line is so strong he may be tempted to stick to a running game much of the time.

No O. J.

However, both the East and the West are missing some top offensive players originally scheduled to play in the game. O. J. Simpson of Southern Cal, running back who won the Heisman Trophy, is missing from the West roster along with pass catchers Gene Washington of

Stanford and Bob Klein of Southern Cal.

Missing from the East's offense will be running backs Leroy Keyes of Purdue and Ron Johnson of Michigan, tight end Ted Kwalick of Penn State and split end Ron Sellers of Florida State.

Fifteen players listed on the original roster have been replaced. Twelve of them were first-round choices in the pro draft of the 1968 college season.

Remain Unsigned

Most of the missing players have not yet come to terms with the pro teams and are unwilling to risk injury in the All-America game until they have signed.

Paterno said he didn't think

CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville scored a run in the bottom of the seventh inning, just after Appleton had tied the score, to earn a 2-1 Fox River Valley American Legion League baseball triumph Monday.

Pat Ziegler hurled for the winners and allowed only six hits. Clintonville scored a run in the fifth inning and continued to lead until Appleton tied it in the top half of the seventh frame.

Appleton is now 3-2 in Section 2 of the Southern Division. Clintonville is 2-2.

Kaukauna Test Resumes 5 Softball Tourney Games Set Thursday

KAUKAUNA — Five games are scheduled as the Kaukauna Athletic Club Softball Tournament resumes action Thursday night.

Three of the contests will be played on the old diamond and two on the new diamond. At the old site, Tommy's Angels, Oshkosh, tests Benkowski Budweiser, Green Bay, at 6 p.m. in the opening tilt.

KAC Bows, 3-2

At the new site, Racine Merchants takes on Loch's Bar, Green Bay, at 7:15 p.m. Dickenson Heating, Little Suamico, clashes with Van-L-Limited,

Green Bay, in the remaining tilt at 8:30 p.m.

In the tournament's most recent competition last Saturday, Tommy's Angels nipped Kaukauna Athletic Club, 3-2. Denmark Circle Tap edged Kaukauna Lee & Sandy's, 2-1. Ed Raatz Inn tipped Raabe Paint, 1-0, in eight innings in a battle of two Milwaukee teams; Bleier's Bar rapped Green Bay Ritter's Bobcats, 4-1; Jack's Rose Hill got past Green Bay Schornert, 2-1, in 11 innings; Mason Lanes outlasted Joyce & Tugger's, 17-14; and Jitter & John's squeaked by Oshkosh Oregon Clothing, 1-0.

Three more games will be played in the tourney Friday and four Saturday. The championship and consolation games are slated for Sunday night.

Award Will be Made in Memory Of 'Little Mo'

DALLAS (AP) — The first annual Maureen Connolly Brinker Award will be presented to an outstanding junior girl player during the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association national championships at Philadelphia in early August.

"Little Mo" died Saturday in Dallas at the age of 34.

Officials of the game conceded privately that the turnout Saturday night may be the smallest since the game was moved to Atlanta in 1966 from Buffalo, N.Y., because of declining attendance.

Despite the satisfaction of the coaches with their squads, the absence of Simpson and other offensive standouts apparently has had a sharp effect on ticket sales.

Paul Gipson of Houston, counted on heavily for running duties for the West, was scheduled to report today. Rodgers said Gipson was coming in late because his wife gave birth this week.

Dick's Wins 3, Takes Lead in Softball League

KIMBERLY — Dick's Loughs (5-2) won a trio of games last week to take over first place in the Kimberly Recreation Association's 16-inch softball league. Paul Stuyvenberg was the winning pitcher in all games as Dick's beat Hank & Connie's, 12-1; Jerry's Lanes, 13-7; and Precast Concrete, 7-5. Dave Williamson hit a homer in each game and was 4-for-4 and 3-for-2 in two of them. Bob Harkes had a pair of 3-hit days for Dick's, while Arnie Wittman, Dick Frank, Al Hammen and Stuyvenberg had three hits in one game. Hank Peerenboom and Frank also homered.

Louie Thien and Jim Van Der Fort homered for Precast (3-5); Joe VanKrey and Phil Van Jankfelt were 3-for-4 and 3-for-1 for Hank & Connie's; while D. Seegers was 3-for-5 for Jerry's and Jerry Stuyvenberg homered. Dud's Inn (3-4) also scored a trio of wins, beating Hank & Connie's, 10-8, and Precast, 11-8, behind Bill Bolwerk and stopped Van Daalwyk, 10-9, behind Buck Zillges. Bob Dercks and Ron Dollevoet both had 2-homer games for the winners. Tim Verstegen had a 4-for-5 game and hit a homer in another. Tom Schiedermayer and Virg Reynebeau were other hitting stars. Hank Jansen, of Hank & Connie's, went 4-for-4 and Joe Van Krey 3-for-3. Bob Van Gompel, Ron Dollevoet and Len Wyngaard homered for Van Daalwyk.

Van Daalwyk's (4-3) beat Jerry's, 14-1, and Precast, 11-8, behind Jim Fressetto. Van Gompel had a 3-for-3 game, and Ken Dollevoet homered for the winners. T. Van Nuland was 3-for-3 for Jerry's.

Willie DeKleyn (4-for-5) led Jerry's (2-5) to a 12-11 win over Hank & Connie's (4-3). Bob Frassetto and Joe Van Krey were 3-for-3 for the losers, with Frassetto homering.

Return of Wills Gives Dodgers Lift

The thief has returned to the scene of the crime. But, more importantly, if paradoxically, to the Dodgers, the statue in the team shrine is stealing second again.

For Dodger believers, it was as if St. Francis were back feeding birds. Joan of Arc were back leading the troops. St. Christopher were carrying travelers across a raging stream.

The Dodgers were sniffing pennant again. It was like 1959 all over when a next-to-last-place team suddenly was making noises like a real live contender, and the front office sent down to Spokane for a punch hitter who had spent so many years in the deep minors, he gawked at two-story buildings.

Today, whenever Dodger fans gather to discuss the good old days, they get teary-eyed when they talk of "Zack," or "Jackie," or "Sandy," or "Dazzy" or "Duke," "Newk," "Campy" or "Pee Wee."

And then someone says, "Remember 'The House'?" And then they have a real good cry.

When Maurice Morning Wills first led the Dodgers to a pennant in '59 after a lackluster minor league career, there were those who thought he was Mickey Mouse in cleats. They kept telling each other, the first time they saw a tiny girl with wings and a wand flying around his shoulders, they would protest to the league. But when he stole 104 bases in 1962, they thought he was even less mortal than that.

It's hard to say trading Maury Mills was the biggest mistake ever made. But it ranks somewhere between Russia selling Alaska and the Red Sox selling Babe Ruth.

Cloud of Dust

The pennant and the playoffs and the world championships rolled with Maury — '59, '62, '63, '65, '66. When you went to the ballpark and someone said, "Which one's Wills?" You said, "You see that cloud of dust over there?" Maury's legs were a strawberry patch. You could tell it was September because Maury was sliding headfirst. He slid headfirst because he didn't want to get blood on the bags. They tagged him so hard you could read, "Warren Giles, Official National League Baseball" backwards on his forehead.

If they played him deep, he bunted. If they played him in, he slapped the ball just over their reach. They used to say of Babe Ruth, "He hit home runs where nobody ever did before." Well, so did Maury Wills. Babe's went in the next county. Maury's went clear to the left field tarpaulin. A bunt single was the equivalent of a home run, anyway.

Cut Distance

It wasn't entirely that he was so fast. It was just that he knew how to cut the distance between bases from 90 feet to 75. Maury could run the first five yards faster than a kid who hears a noise in the cemetery. There wasn't a pitcher in the league could hold him on. If he got back safely by a yard on a pickoff attempt, he took 35 inches more on his second lead.

They used to criticize Maury for stealing when his team led 8-0. But Maury felt, like every good thief, that when the lights were out, that was the time to make your move. "Is Henry Aaron not supposed to try to hit a home run because his team is ahead?" Maury demanded logically.

Maury stole on his own. That finally was the trouble. He got thrown out for stealing home — by Walter O'Malley for stealing home from Japan in 1967.

Cutting Adrift

It was as melancholy as the Vatican cutting Santa Claus adrift, or giving an Old Master to the mailman. What they got for Maury couldn't lead the 1927 Yankees to a pennant.

Walter O'Malley went scouring through the attics and trashcans of baseball for his petulantly-discarded treasure this month. He has found it, dusted it off; restored it, put No. 30 back on it, and has it in its fitting showcase, the Louvre of Baseball, Dodger Stadium.

Not everyone is an art connoisseur. "What's he want him for?" grumbled the newer fans. They said that in 1959, too.

Shawano '9' Wins Over New London

NEW LONDON—Terry Buchholz limited New London to two hits in hurling Shawano to a 5-2 victory in Fox River Valley Legion League Monday.

Buchholz fanned 11 and walked four. He also was the hitting standout, with three singles in five appearances.

Loser Terry Wing hurled seven innings, allowing three runs, seven hits, and four walks, and he struck out seven. Steve Sanders gave up two runs, two hits and one walk, and he fanned four.

Shawano scored twice in the opening inning on a walk, Stu Druckery's run-producing double and Chuck Naber's single. A run was tallied in the third on a single, a fielder's choice, an infield out and an error.

New London tallied two runs in the seventh on a walk, Joel Kleinbrook's single and an infield error.

Lee Bauman Hurls Miller Electric To 5-1 BRL Win

Lee Bauman hurled a 4-hitter and struck out 12 batters in leading the Miller Electric team to a 5-1 victory over Jenkel Oil in the Northern Division of Appleton Babe Ruth League action Monday.

Bauman helped his own cause with a pair of safeties.

Santo Was Gunning For Bucs' Bunning

'Uncalled-for Remark'

By JOE MOOSHLI
CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo went gunning for Jim Bunning Tuesday night.

The proud captain of the Chicago Cubs slugged a three-run homer off Bunning in the third inning to lead the Cubs to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Before the game Santo asked who was pitching for the Pirates and when he learned it was Bunning, Santo said "That clinches it, now we gotta win."

"We have to beat Jim Bunning," After the game Santo was asked to explain and he said "Last week when we were going bad we had lost our third straight to the Pirates. Going up the runway, I heard Bunning say 'first place Cubs, my tail.'"

Uncalled-for Remark
"Sure, we were going bad and everyone was hoping for us to fall on our faces but his remark was uncalled-for. That's why I said we especially have to beat Bunning."

The Cub victory continued the tie-for-tat rivalry between the two clubs. The Cubs now have beaten the Pirates 11 straight at Wrigley Field while the Pirates have won the last nine meetings between the two clubs in Pittsburgh.

Santo, meanwhile, is wielding the hottest bat in the Cub lineup. His home run marked the 11th time this season he has provided the game-winning hit.

Santo went into the month of May with a .205 average. He is now batting .300 with 13 home runs and 60 runs batted in. Santo also has a 10-game hitting streak going.

Again Santo was explaining. "I'm not trying to kill the ball. I feel good up there and I'm just trying to hit through it or up the middle. I'm meeting the pitch."

Then the pizza peddler smiled and looked over to Ernie Banks saying "Let's not kid ourselves. Old No. 14 is batting behind me and swinging a pretty good bat. Because of that, I'm getting a lot more good pitches to hit. It helps."

Conger Wins Feature Race In Oshkosh

Kleinschmidt 2nd;
Drivers Uninjured In 2 Roll-Overs

OSHKOSH — Dave Conger, who established a new track record in the trials, captured the 25-lap feature race to headline stock car action at Leo's Speedway Tuesday night.

Conger, of Oshkosh, had to overtake another Oshkosh driver, Bob Kleinschmidt, in the last three laps of the race to win. Kleinschmidt finished second.

A spectacular roll-over occurred in the feature race, when Oshkosh's Gordy Rupert failed to negotiate the third corner on the 20th lap and demolished his car. Rupert suffered minor scratches.

Richard Zenter, Oshkosh, also rolled over on the ninth lap of the first heat but escaped unscathed.

Trailing Conger and Kleinschmidt were Appleton's Lyle Schultz, Appleton's Jerry Smith, and Berlin's Willie Shoppenhorst.

Turns In 15.82
It was Shoppenhorst's old record of 15.82 seconds that Conger broke in the trials. Conger sped the quarter-mile in 15.82 seconds.

The 15-lap semi-feature saw Kimberly's Ed Stanley come home first. Jerry Reichenberger, Oshkosh, garnered second place, and Randy Whitney, Pickett, took third. Fourth went to Appleton's Al Trudell.

Winners of the 10-lap heat events included Reichenberger, Whitney, Trudell, and Kleinschmidt. Al Ewald, Berlin, and Dave Thompson, Fremont, followed Reichenberger to the finish, while Stanley and Reichenberger were 2-3 behind Whitney.

Mike Pahlow, Oshkosh, was runner-up to Trudell, and Fond du Lac's Ken Steffen was third. Appleton drivers Schultz and Smith were the closest pursuers of Kleinschmidt.

Nimbleton's Flags at Half Staff for 'Mo'

DALLAS, Tex., (AP) — Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly Brinker, 34, a former queen of the women's tennis world, was buried Tuesday. She died Saturday from cancer.

Flags flew at half staff Tuesday at Wimbledon, the tournament Mrs. Brinker won in 1953 as a 17-year-old super-star.

Services were held at Sparkman-Hillcrest Chapel with interment in Hillcrest Memorial park.

Mrs. Brinker, a native of San Diego, Calif., ruled the women's tennis world in the early 1950s and might have become the greatest woman player in history if a riding accident hadn't ended her career.

"Little Mo" is survived by her husband, Dallas businessman Norman E. Brinker; daughters Cynthia Ann and Brenda Lee; son Martin Connolly; and mother, Mrs. Jessamine Connolly, all of Dallas.

Brinker requested that all memorials be sent to the American Cancer Society.

the afternoon. He was pretty happy with me — I did some good kicking for him out there."

Runk is one of three place kicking candidates among the rookie hopefuls, the others being sixth round choice Ken Vinyard of Texas Tech., and free agent Dave Cutler of Canada's Simon Fraser University.

They, of course, are competing for the assignment now held by Mike Mercer, the last and most successful in a long line of contenders for the niche left vacant by the retirement of Don Chandler last July.

Mercer Arrived

The Packers lost two games for want of a field goal specialist, sufficient to deprive them of the NFL's Central Division championship, before Mercer arrived upon the scene in Mid-November.

Packer Patter — Runk was not the only freshman to impress Cone. He also had praised for Terry Fredenberg, the stringbean flanker from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. "He caught my eye," Fred volunteered after practice. "They look different with pads on, of course, but he caught my eye."

Fredenberg also impressed other sideline observers and once elicited a collective gasp from them with a one-handed grab of a look-in pass. . . . Cone, who is combining a Green Bay vacation with his official duties, hasn't lost his droll sense of humor. "I thought I was doing some recruiting," he said when asked the purpose of his visit. ### Nimbleton's Flags at Half Staff for 'Mo'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly Brinker, 34, a former queen of the women's tennis world, was buried Tuesday. She died Saturday of cancer.

Flags flew at half staff Tuesday at Wimbledon, the tournament Mrs. Brinker won in 1953 as a 17-year-old super-star.

Services were held at Sparkman-Hillcrest Chapel with interment in Hillcrest Memorial park.

Mrs. Brinker, a native of San Diego, Calif., ruled the women's tennis world in the early 1950s and might have become the greatest woman player in history if a riding accident hadn't ended her career.

"Little Mo" is survived by her husband, Dallas businessman Norman E. Brinker; daughters Cynthia Ann and Brenda Lee; and brother, Martin Connolly and mother, Mrs. Jessamine Connolly, all of Dallas.

Brinker requested that all memorials be sent to the American Cancer Society.

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo went gunning for Jim Bunning Tuesday and shot him down. The proud captain of the Chicago Cubs slugged a three-run homer off Bunning in the third inning to lead the Cubs to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Before the game Santo asked who was pitching for the Pirates and when he learned it was Bunning, Santo said "That clinches it, now we gotta win. We have to beat Jim Bunning."

After the game Santo was asked to explain and he said "Last week when we were going bad we had lost our third straight to the Pirates. Going up the runway, I heard Bunning say 'first place Cubs, my tail'."

Uncalled for Remark

"Sure, we were going bad and everyone was hoping for us to fall on our faces but his remark was uncalled for. That's why I said we especially have to beat Bunning."

The Cub victory continued the tie-for-tat rivalry between the two clubs. The Cubs now have beaten the Pirates 11 straight in Wrigley Field while the Pirates have won the last nine meetings between the two clubs in Pittsburgh.

Santo, meanwhile, is wielding the hottest bat in the Cub lineup. His homer marked the 11th time this season he has provided the game-winning hit.

Santo went into the month of May with a .205 average. He is now batting .300 with 13 home runs and 60 runs batted in. Santo also has a 10-game hitting streak going.

Again Santo was explaining. "I'm not trying to kill the ball. I feel good up there and I'm just trying to hit through it or up the middle. I'm meeting the pitch."

Then the pizza peddler smiled and looked over to Ernie Banks saying "Let's not kid ourselves. Old No. 14 is batting behind me and swinging a pretty good bat. Because of that, I'm getting a lot more good pitches to hit. It helps."

loaded walk to Stu Singleton produced the first run. Johnson hit into a fielder's choice, plating the lead tally. Roger Reid's single drove in the third.

In the third, a walk to George Hunter, a single by Howell and a pair of Cedar Rapids errors on the same play hiked Appleton's lead to 5-1 in the third.

The Cards got two back in the fifth on a pinch double by Louis Cosenza and a sacrifice fly by Jerry Bartee. A double steal in the seventh cut the Foxes lead to one run.

A walk to Reid, a single by Ryan and a fielder's choice brought the Foxes an insurance run in the seventh.

last three laps of the race to win. Kleinschmidt finished second.

A spectacular roll - over occurred in the feature race, when Oshkosh's Gordy Rupert failed to negotiate the third corner on the 20th lap and demolished his car. Rupert suffered minor scratches.

Richard Zenter, Oshkosh, also rolled over on the ninth lap of the first heat but escaped unscathed.

Parents Have Choice Sex Education Option Measure in Assembly

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Several Republican assemblymen have written a proposal they hope will draw a compromise line in the raging dispute about sex education in the schools. Their proposal would require teachers of sex education courses to meet minimum standards of qualification as determined by the state superintendent of public instruction, and require that before any pupil may enroll in such a course the school must have the written consent of his parents. Failure to follow such rules would result in the forfeiture of state aid to the schools. Present law does not require or prohibit sex education as such.

Not Required

The law now provides that physiology and hygiene shall be taught, but that no pupil shall be required to take such courses if his parents file with the teacher in charge an objection to his enrollment.

Controversy has flared bitterly in a number of Wisconsin localities lately as local boards of education have considered the advisability of sex education courses. There are organized backers of both points of view, those who believe that such education is prudent and necessary, and those who are determined that the schools should not authorize such programs. Legislators and state officials report that their mail flow from indignant representatives of both viewpoints is unusually heavy.

The legislature has not yet had a test vote on the various bills opposing or authorizing such instruction, but some educational authorities who keep in close touch with the legislative branch on school affairs believe that a prohibition bill is likely to be enacted.

The compromise measure imposing standards on teachers and requiring the written permission of parents was offered by Assemblyman Milton McDougal of Oconto Falls, William LaFave of Peshtigo, G.R. Bradley of Oshkosh, Russell Weisenfeld of Sun Prairie, Gregor Bock of Highland and Ervin Conrad of Shiocton.

The Fox Cities Daily Market Guide for New and Used Cars

Wednesday, June 25, 1968 The Post-Crescent B 11

This Volkswagen dealer will stake his reputation on his Fords.

We have to. We can't afford to have it said you drove off with a lemon. So every Ford (or Plymouth or Chevy) we get in trade on a new VW gets a 16-point inspection. If it passes we guarantee the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. (If it doesn't pass, we won't guarantee it until we fix what needs fixing.)

Answers to Paint Problems

Sears

Solvent Blisters or Heat Blisters

CAUSE:

Solvent blisters (occurring within 24 hours) are paper-thin and seldom larger than a dime. Caused when new paint skins over before all solvents can escape. Due to one or a combination of (a) new paint being exposed to direct sun rays before completely dry; (b) too-heavy paint film; (c) very hot, very dry weather (usually 90 degrees or more).

Heat blisters (occurring within a week), usually raise entire film from surface and may be any size. Caused when old paint film is made more pliable by application of new paint. Sun's heat expands entire film, raising blisters where old paint was loose before painting.

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Break blisters as soon as observed. Allow paint to dry thoroughly (about 3 days) and touch up affected spots. Avoid painting in direct sun. Do not apply too heavy a coat, especially in hot weather.

Peeling on Masonry

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Remove all loose paint with wire brush; repaint with Sears Masonry Paint.

Intercoat Peeling

CAUSE:

Moisture is the primary cause of exterior paint peeling. Excessive moisture inside the house condenses on the interior face of the siding during the winter months, soaks the siding, and becomes trapped with no place to escape. So, the moisture freezes and in the Spring turns back to water which forces the paint film to lose adhesion and peel.

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

All areas that have blistered or peeled, should be thoroughly scraped, sanded and allowed to dry before repainting. Where bare wood or prime coat is exposed, spot prime with Sears House Paint Undercoat before applying either oil or latex topcoat.

Eliminate excessive moisture, the cause of the peeling by:

- (1) Waterproof basement walls to prevent transmission

of moisture to siding from surrounding wet or damp ground.

- (2) Vent clothes dryer and gas space heaters to take moisture outside of dwelling.

- (3) Cover crawl space ground area with roofing material, or heavy polyethylene.

- (4) Inadequate attic or roof ventilation will not allow moisture-laden air to pass out quickly enough. Insure attic ventilation.

- (5) Ventilate siding by drilling  $\frac{3}{8}$ " holes up through lower edges. Sears now offers a special drilling jig assuring proper positioning and also small louvers to fit the holes. For serious moisture problems, it is necessary to install exhaust fans to prevent peeling. On tongue-and-groove and drop siding, install round louvers at top and bottom of wall between each stud. Be careful not to cover these when painting.

- (6) When painting your house, be sure not to seal up area where the bevel siding overlaps, and air from the inside can escape.

General Peeling on Wood Siding

Paint peels down to primer or bare wood, and usually starts outside a kitchen, bath, or laundry room.

CAUSE:

CORRECTION AND PREVENTION:

Remove all paint in peeled areas and roughen smooth

surface with sandpaper. Wash surface with any detergent to remove invisible deposits that build up, and rinse thoroughly. Roughening smooth surface and cleaning dirty surface before painting is best preventative measure.

Exterior Surface Preparation the Important Job of Getting Ready to Paint

Proper surface preparation is the most important step in achieving peak paint performance. This is true whether the object being painted is a house or a kitchen chair.

Here are some tips to assure you of good results when painting the exterior surface of a house.

1. Read the label directions carefully. The label will tell you how to prepare the surface, what undercoat to use, and how far to spread the paint to get hiding and durability.

2. Give special attention to the correction of any structural defects, such as leaky roofs, loose guttering and downspouts, rotted structural members, damaged foundation, etc.

3. Caulk cracks around windows, doors and butt ends. Tighten all loose nails, restore loose flashing, and correct any other visible faults that would be sources for moisture to get inside.

4. Many exterior paint problems stem from the fact that previous coats of paint are in bad condition. Examples are:

- A. Poor quality paint losing adhesion.

- B. Blistering or peeling paint caused by moisture.

- C. Too many layers of paint building up and cracking.

- D. Heavy chalking or dirty paint film causing loss of adhesion.

Peru's Major Landholdings Nationalized

Revolutionary Government of Velasco Wants to End Inequity

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Juan Velasco has announced the revolutionary government will nationalize all major landholdings in Peru to "end law, to be published today, is aimed at replacing the country's sprawling private estates with agrarian-industrial cooperatives.

It also will involve expropriation of foreign-held lands, including holdings of the U.S.-owned Cerro de Pasco mining firm and W. R. Grace & Co., which has sugar and paper interests in Peru.

Low Ebb

Relations between Lima and Washington have been at a low ebb since Velasco seized power last October and expropriated the International Petroleum Co. refinery. ICC is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. The United States has halted arms sales to Peru and threatened to cut off all aid.

The new law also will affect Casagrande, one of the world's biggest sugar plantations, which stretches from the Pacific Ocean to the eastern region of the Peruvian Andes.

Velasco said agrarian reform "will mark the start of the true liberation of the national peasantry." The peasant, he added, no longer will be "the outcast and defenseless being that used to live in poverty from birth to death and impotently saw an equally desperate future coming for his children."

Resistance Intolerable

The president warned that resistance will not be tolerated and the reform "will be applied in all the nation. There will be no privileges or cases of exception recognized that would favor certain groups or interests."

"We say to the oligarchy that we are determined to apply all necessary energy to eliminate all sabotage against the new law or any other attempt to subvert public order."

A few hours before Velasco's announcement, the government charged that the National Agrarian Society, an organization of big landlords, planned to "carry out an intense campaign by television to stop the implementation of the reform, to halt sales of agricultural products to create a shortage, to start strikes to stop production and marketing, to block roads with the aim of disturbing transportation of big landlords, planned to cane sugar workers to cooperate in sabotage."

The government communique claimed the effort would be "coordinated with a political party which offered its collaboration to stop the agrarian reform." It did not name the party.

Landlord's Plague

Farmers were warned not to take part in the campaign and told the law would "free the underemployed farmers from the landlord's plague."

After the law was announced, the society attacked it, charging that society officials had not been consulted. The measure was worked out by the government in strict secrecy.

With Velasco in the government palace when he read the announcement to the nation were Juan Cardinal Landazuri and top military and civil officials.

The president did not explain details of the measure but said it would establish a new society of "farmer communities" resembling those of the ancient Inca empire. He said it would eliminate estates and stimulate expansion of small and medium sized properties.

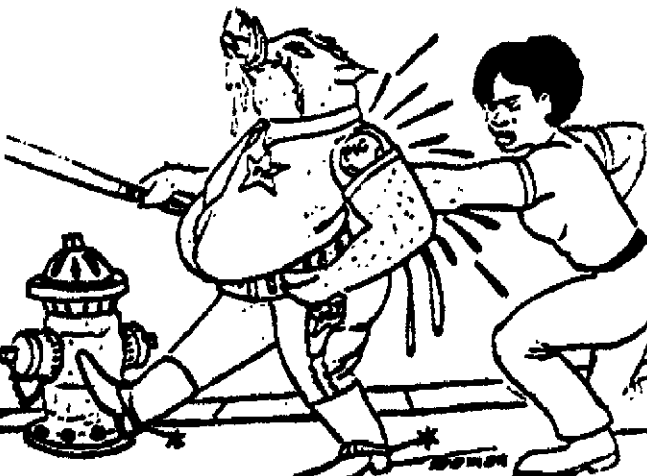

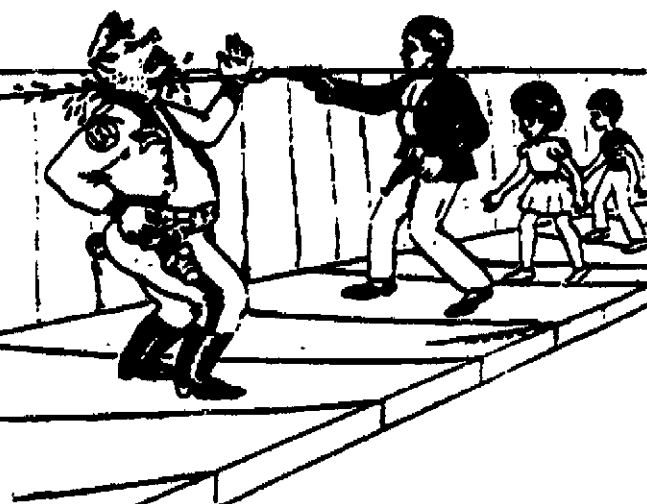

Velasco did not say how expropriated land would be paid for, but it was learned that at least some property would be purchased with cash. He indicated that other land would be paid for with bonds "to which the revolutionary government will provide all the required guarantees."

Lady Bird Returns for Visit to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson was the guest of her successor as first lady, Pat Nixon, at a White House tea Tuesday.

Mrs. Johnson came to Washington from Texas Sunday to help her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, move into a house in nearby Arlington, Va.

Also present at the private tea in the Oval Room were the Nixon daughters, Julie and Tricia.

Miami Traffic Stopped Train Kept Down Toll in Air Crash

MIAMI (AP) — A slow-moving freight train running late blocked traffic on N.W. 36th Street Monday morning before the fiery crash of a cargo plane—a coincidence that may have prevented a far higher death toll.

The Dominican Air Lines plane spewed a block-long wall of fire down the street, killing 10 persons.

"Traffic on 36th Street usually is terrific at that hour," said John Shelbrick, a mechanic who works on the street. "But suddenly it was dead. I looked west and saw the train at the crossing."

Homeward Rush

Normally, the street would have been clogged with east-bound cars as thousands of workers from two huge Miami International Airport maintenance shops headed homeward.

The Pan American Airlines shift changes at 3:15 p.m., Eastern Airlines at 3:30 p.m.

The plane, with one engine failing and another afire, crashed at 3:48 p.m.

The Seaboard Coast Line's main north-south track crosses 36th Street four blocks from the crash scene.

Normally, the train makes the crossing at about 3:30 p.m., but the conductor, W. H. Weede, said some switching difficulties made it about 10 minutes late.

Final Turn

With engineer M. B. Marcus at the controls, the train passed the crossing at 3:40 p.m., just as the doomed DC4 was making its final turn in a futile effort to get back to the runway from which it had just taken off.

Federal investigators searched today for mechanics who worked on the plane before takeoff. Airport witnesses said it was serviced by two or three moonlighting mechanics from other cargo lines before it took off trailing smoke from one of its four engines.

Brad Dunbar, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said an investigating team was trying to trace the mechanics "and, we hope, learn what the trouble was before takeoff."

Dominican Air Lines had $12 million worth of insurance, written at Lloyds of London, to cover liability from accidents. Police estimated property damage to buildings and cars as the cargo plane cut a flaming four-block swath down 36th Street at least $1 million.

Surtax Extension Decision Delayed

Supporters Feared Bill Would Lose

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision against a House vote today on President Nixon's surtax extension bill has shattered administration hopes for an early, dramatic anti-inflation move.

House leaders called off the crucial vote after head counts showed the measure to continue the surtax past its June 30 expiration date was likely to be defeated.

No new date was set for bringing the bill to the House. Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma told reporters it will not be called up until after the July 4th congressional recess.

Emergency Legislation

Meanwhile, emergency legislation will be proposed to continue income tax withholding at the present rate—including the 10 per cent surcharge—until Congress completes work on the extension measure.

The Nixon bill would extend the surtax at 10 per cent for six months at a 5 per cent for a second six-month period, ending June 30, 1970. Other provisions repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit, provide for a special low income allowance taking two million poor families off the tax rolls, and give some tax relief to about 13 million taxpayers.

Jubilant Bloc

Jubilant members of the Democratic bloc which has been fighting the bill in its present form said the House Ways and Means Committee now will be under pressure to speed up work on elimination of some tax preferences and incorporate them in the surtax extension bill.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, one of the group, predicted the delay will not gain any votes for the measure as it is now written.

House Speaker John McCormack told newsmen the postponement was decided on at the request of Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has been suffering bouts of intestinal illness.

However, other leadership sources said a check of Democratic votes showed most uncommitted—and a 2-1 sentiment against surtax extension among those who had made up their minds.

Democratic Votes

To get the measure passed, 80 to 90 Democratic votes are needed to go with 120 to 130 GOP votes, two-thirds of the majority's membership.

The Ways and Means Committee is working on broader tax reforms with the goal of bringing in a comprehensive bill early in August.

The insurgents have contended, however, unless substantial reforms were included in the surtax extension bill—or the extension were limited to a few weeks—the chance for what they call loophole closing might be lost.

Committee members disclosed a last-minute effort was made and defeated to include a reduction of the 27½ per cent oil

Skeptical at Reports

Kennedy Displeased With Handling of Refugees War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has told the Nixon administration he is not satisfied with the handling of South Vietnam's million-plus war refugees.

Kennedy laid out his position as his special subcommittee opened hearing Tuesday.

"This subcommittee is still distressed by the continued lack of urgency in the concern of Washington and Saigon for the daily lives of the South Vietnamese people," Kennedy said.

"We in the subcommittee have developed a natural skepticism of endless rosy reports that emanate from the civilian as well as the military side of the war."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic Leader, disputed Defense Department testimony that improved resettlement efforts and changed military tactics had reduced the number of refugees.

Reduce Violence

"The only way to really reduce refugees is by reduction of violence—and that goes for the Viet Cong as well as ourselves," Kennedy said.

John A. Hanna, administrator

of the Agency for International Development, and Warren Nutter, assistant secretary of defense, said there were 1.2 million temporary refugees in Vietnam as of last month—116,000 fewer than at the year's start.

Under questioning by Kennedy, however, they said many civilians still are being displaced by combat and many return to their villages to find their homes destroyed.

Kennedy said he had inspected refugee camps in Vietnam and found "refugees" living on one side of a street while on the other side, living in the same conditions, were displaced civilians who had been compensated for the loss of their homes and were considered "resettled."

Still Refugees

"You can fiddle around with the figures all you want," said Kennedy, "but they are still refugees."

The United States and the government of South Vietnam have failed, Kennedy said, to win the allegiance of the Asian nation's people.

The millions of refugees and civilian casualties would have been a source of political strength if they had been properly cared for and treated, he said.

"Now there is serious question whether there is time or energy left to care for the victims of this war," said Kennedy.

Their Choice

"The day is fast approaching when the people of Vietnam, by ballot or action, will declare their choice for the future. Where the millions of refugees stand could have been decisive. But we have little or no assurance that they will stand for all that we offered 35,000 American lives to gain."

Hanna testified there had been great improvements in programs to care for refugees since 1967, that camps had been improved and hospitals had been built with AID financing.

"What we are trying to emphasize today is the situation is greatly improved since 1967 but it is not good enough," he said.

He cited statistics to show immunizations against cholera, plague and smallpox in Vietnam had risen to 27.8 million last year as compared to 4.1 million in 1966.

Those Who Defied Soviet Invasion 'Enemies' of Czech Government

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak students who defied Soviet tanks in the streets of Prague last August have become the "enemy" of their government.

How does the leadership treat its enemy? It censors their publicity, cuts off their funds, bans demonstrations and eliminates their student organization to set up a more obedient, if unrepresentative, body. Enter the "Preparatory Committee of a New Union of University Students in the Czech Republic."

The student resistance in August helped save, temporarily, the liberal leadership of Premier Oldrich Cernik and Communist Party boss Alexander Dubcek. Both had been arrested and taken to Moscow, but were returned to Prague.

Things Different

Things have changed in 10 months of Russian occupation. Cernik is still premier but Dubcek was downgraded in April to chairman of the Parliament, a largely ceremonial post.

The new Communist Party chief, Gustav Husak, pursues a policy of ignoring the invasion and striving to keep the Kremlin happy.

In January and February, two Czech students, Jan Palach and Jan Zajic, burned themselves to death in downtown Prague to protest repression of Dubcek's liberal reforms.

The first showdown came just after Husak became party chief

The Czech student congress voted 71 to 70 with 27 abstentions to join the party-run National Front, the only official channel for political activity. This was short of the required two-thirds majority and the proposal failed.

Union Chairman

Josef Trencansky, a pro-government backer of the National Front proposal, became the new chairman of the union. But he resigned a month later after failing to bring the influential Prague students into the front.

Karel Kovanda, a staunch opponent of party control, became acting chairman.

On May 6 the Czech government canceled publication rights for the union's magazine Studentske Listy.

Then last week, with many college students on vacation, the government announced the union would be disbanded because it was still outside the National Front while carrying on political activity "injurious to Czechoslovak foreign policy interests."

The union issued a statement calling the order "an abuse of the law in the interests of the bureaucratic political center that for the time being has taken power in Czechoslovakia."

New Group

This week, a pro-government student group surfaced with a 600-word statement printed in many newspapers. The "Preparatory Committee," as it called itself, said the old union had isolated itself from the country's politics and had ceased to be representative of the required two-thirds students.

It was the first Czech student statement allowed published in the daily press in months.

Trencansky was reported to have played a master role in formation of the Preparatory Committee, which said it would cooperate with the party, state organs, trade unions and the Slovak students and become politically active in the National Front.

It admitted the new union does not expect a majority of Czech students to join at first, but predicted the membership eventually will increase.

Guerrilla Base Strafed by Israeli Planes

TIBERIAS, Israel (AP) — Two Israeli jet fighters bombed and strafed an Arab guerrilla stronghold inside Jordan today after guerrillas attacked an army patrol in the Beisan valley, the Israelis reported.

The planes launched a 25-minute assault on Adasiya, an uninhabited cluster of huts facing the Israeli settlement of Ashdot Yaakov near the southern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Witnesses said the planes encountered antiaircraft fire but returned to base undamaged. The patrol also was unharmed, they said.

Witnesses said several shells from Jordan crashed into a children's nursery at Ma'oz Haim, a few miles south of Ashdot several hours before the air strike.

The children were sleeping in underground shelters and were not injured.

The Israeli army announced its troops killed one of a group of guerrillas trying to infiltrate into Israel east of Geshor. Witnesses said several sacks filled with explosives were left by the guerrillas.

Other informed sources reported saboteurs tried to attack an Israeli army outpost east of the Sea of Galilee where the Syrian, Jordanian and Israeli borders meet. They said the guerrillas attacked with grenades and light arms after firing mortar salvos at the outpost, but were repulsed with no Israeli casualties.

Freehlich Will Chair Council For Two Years

Speaker Elected Head of Legislature's Powerful Study Arm

MADISON — Assembly Speaker Harold Freehlich, R-Appleton, Tuesday was elected chairman of the Legislative Council for the coming two years.

The council, the powerful study arm of the legislature, conducts investigations and drafts legislation through citizen-lawmaker committees when the legislature is not in session. It is comprised of the leadership of both parties in each house.

Elected unanimously with Freehlich were State Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, vice chairman; and Sen. Leland McParland, D-Cudahy, secretary.

Pending studies for the coming biennium include inheritance tax reforms, public welfare, school districting, imitation foods, legal age restrictions for youths, consumer credit, and automobile accidents and insurance rates.

Firm Proposed For Fire Study

COG Recommends Consultants for Rescue Program

The Fire and Rescue Service Committee of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) voted Monday night to recommend the retention of Gage-Babcock, Chicago, an engineering consultant firm, for the proposed study of the fire fighting and rescue facilities of the Fox Cities.

The study to be made is part of COG's program of inventory and analysis of fire and rescue facilities for the Oshkosh to Kaukauna area, and will present a range of alternatives for the council to consider. Increased efficiency of area firefighting and reduced insurance classifications are special study goals.

Crash Damages New London Cars

NEW LONDON — About $600 damage resulted in a rear-end collision between two cars about 10:50 a.m. Tuesday on S. Pearl Street between South Water Street and Wolf River Avenue.

According to police a car driven by Velma M. Buss, 1512 Smith St., was waiting in the line of traffic for a signal to change when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by William J. Johnson, 58, route 2, which was traveling south on Pearl Street.

Neither driver was reportedly injured.

'College Avenue Story' Appeals to Florida City

Word of Appleton's success in transforming downtown College Avenue into a shopping showcase has spread to Florida.

A representative of the Fort Myers, Fla., special task force assigned to revitalize that city's downtown area wrote Mayor George Buckley this week.

Lawrence W. Smith, executive secretary of Fort Myers' "Turns On Program" (TOP), wrote that, like Appleton, the business and civic leaders were cooperating to get a renewal project underway.

"Since we are new in getting this project underway,

Sometime Next Month the Fox Cities are expected to become a part of an 11-county state administrative district, one of eight districts to be established in the state by executive order of Gov. Warren P. Knowles. Heavy lines show the boundaries of the eight districts. In each district, state offices will be established to administer state services to that area. State officials say the district framework will make state services more readily available to citizens. (AP Wire-photo)

New London School Board Adopts Budget Sinking Fund

High Interest Prompts Board Action for Building Projects

NEW LONDON — Spiralling interest rates and the uncertainty in the loan field will influence school district tax rates noticeably according to the board of education.

The board listed the money market situation as a reason for approving a $3.47 per $1,000 equalized evaluation sinking fund for the 1969-70 school budget. The fund is earmarked for building, remodeling and equipping facilities at the junior high school.

It is believed the fund will be in effect for about three years. Originally an $18.48 per $1,000 tax rate was projected for 1969-70. This did not include any money for a sinking fund.

The present rate was $17.73 per $1,000. Included in this year's rate was $1 for construction of the Park View Elementary School. This $1 was carried into the $18.48 operational budget because of debt retirement on the building, which is nearing completion.

Salary Increases
Supt. H. James Ramsdell stated the operational portion of the budget increase was mainly the result of salary increases and in operational costs because of the new school.

Replacing the doors and windows at the Washington School as part of a long-range remodeling and addition to the school is estimated at $70,000.

In the 1969-70 when Washington School was built, the city paid for the construction in full without borrowing money. The same measure is being attempted this time.

The board has received preliminary drawings from the architect for the addition to the Washington School, which is in the long-range planning.

Valuation Hike
The 1969-70 school budget aid is based on a projected $42,000 guaranteed valuation for each student, compared with $39,000 this year.

Anticipated receipts from sources other than taxes are $308,195, up from $739,478 this year.

The operational and sinking fund rate will total $21.95, an increase of $4.22 per $1,000. The $21.95, when applied to a district equalized valuation of $57,632, will result in a levy of $1,265,022. This year the levy of $936,073 was raised by the $17.73 rate applied against $52,796,000 valuation.

Total budget for 1969-70 is proposed at $1,873,234, not including $199,983 to be raised in the sinking fund. This year the budget was $1,622,755, with an additional $52,796 being raised by the sinking fund.

Ramsdell pointed out that this is the first time the tax rate has exceeded that for the 1964-65 school year, which was $19.99, including $1.50 for a sinking fund.

Yearly Rates
Tax rates during this time dropped to a low of $15.59 in 1966-67. Other rates in the past five years were $16.937 in 1965-66; $15.75 1967-68, and $17.73 this year.

The board terms its action on the sinking fund as the best means for the district to combat the inflationary measures of the interest rates being charged for bonding. The current high rates to borrow money would far exceed the cost of the sinking fund.

A break down and comparison of expenditures shows administration, $38,891, up from $35,436; instruction, $1,225,108, up from $1,089,923; health services, $375, down from $4,505; Transportation, $106,625, up from $103,389; operation, $145,755, up from $119,578; maintenance, $33,629, up from $23,086; fixed charges, $63,974, up from $40,592; debt service, $212,780, up from $156,271; capital outlay, $38,116, down from $42,162; community services remain at $200, and contingent remains at $6,500. A net loss of $1,279 is anticipated for the food services, about $146 more than this year.

Cash, Checks Taken In Home Burglary
Christine Kruse, 531 E. Maple St., told police about 6:45 a.m. today that a purse containing about $23 in addition to a check book, licenses, and identification, was taken from her house during the night.

The purse was on a dining room shelf. Entry into the house apparently was gained through an unlocked door.

Clintonville Problem Options Sought on Properties for Parking

CLINTONVILLE—A request to obtain options on properties on the north side of E. 12th Street from Main Street to Garfield Avenue for parking spaces for 240 cars, is being made to the city's redevelopment authority.

This decision was reached at a recent Main Street block committee meeting. Meeting with the committee were R. J. Piatte, administrator of Clintonville Community Hospital; Mayor Frank Sinkewicz, and Ald. Fred Hangartner, who represented the city council.

This would make it more convenient for those who shop in the northern fringe of the shopping area on Main Street and those who need parking in the area of the hospital, the block committee feels.

Various meetings on the issue have been conducted. James Lockwood, block chairman for the area in question, has met with both the merchants and the block committee have discussed the issue with the mayor and the directors of the Association of Commerce.

The Association of Commerce, in turn, appointed a committee which contacted Basil Avery, director of public works, and the city planning officials who, in turn, met with the block committee again to resolve the issue.

VTE-12 Board, Teachers Reach Tentative Accord

Final Announcement on Contract Negotiations to be Made After Ratification by Both Parties

Tentative agreement has been reached between the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board and the teachers in their contract negotiations, but no final announcements will be made of the terms until ratification by both parties.

The information was released Tuesday by Edward B. Krinsky, Madison, mediator for the Employment Relations Commission (WERC), who has been working with the two parties involved.

Up to Monday, when the parties met with Krinsky in a closed session, there were about 13 unresolved issues.

Krinsky declined to say how firm the agreements were. Neither William Sirek, director of VTE-12, nor Caryl Millien, head of the teachers' welfare committee, could be reached for comment this morning.

The major unresolved issues had been:

—The structure of the salary schedule, which had been mutually agreed upon in all areas except base pay. The board had been offering $6,800. The teachers had wanted $7,300 base.

—Fringe benefits, including hospital and life insurance. The board had offered to pay 75 per cent. The teachers wanted 100 per cent coverage.

—Class size and work load. The association felt some provisions for this should be made in the master contract. The board felt that as administrators, the district staff should have some fundamental rights in establishing both.

—Work day. Both have agreed on a working day of eight consecutive hours. The teachers, however, wanted to know the time period but the board felt that a cutoff period was risky since people need to attend school in the evenings.

Mandatory Credits
—Age limit for mandatory credits. The board felt in the field of education there needed to be a constant updating of the knowledge in the areas of new machinery and methods.

Other issues in dispute up to Monday included contracts running longer than 38 weeks, department chairmen release time, convention times, press releases, dismissal policy, summer school pay and time allotment for lesson preparation.

Talks between the teachers and the board began in December and were declared at an impasse about a month ago. Since then Krinsky has met with the two parties twice.

At the initial meeting he informed the members they could try to resolve the issues through a mediator or go to

Wilbur Winch Dies at Chilton

Former County Treasurer Active In Veterans Affairs

CHILTON — Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at Trinity Presbyterian Church for Wilbur R. Winch, 78, 417A State St., who was a former Calumet County treasurer and Justice of the Peace.

He died Monday evening at his home.

He retired in 1956 after serving the county as treasurer for 15 years. He was named Justice of the Peace in 1957 and served for four years.

Charlestown Native
Winch, a Town of Charlestown native, moved to Neenah-Menasha with his parents in 1902.

In 1910 he enlisted in the Wisconsin National Guard and served six months on the border after being called into federal service in June 1916.

In 1917 he assisted formation of Co. "E" 4th Inf., Wisconsin National Guard and was commissioned a 1st Lieutenant. After training as part of the 32nd Division the unit went to France in February 1918. The division returned in May 1919.

Charter Member
He was a charter member and past commander of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars here and a charter member of Calumet County Barracks No. 3153, Veterans of World War I.

He also was a member and past-master of the Free and Accepted Masons and was a Royal Arch Mason since 1926.

Pfeffer Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Kellet to Speak at Rotary Ceremony At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Rotary Club will have installation of officers Monday night following a dinner at the Riverside Golf clubhouse. This also will be ladies' night.

Speker will be William Kellett, Menasha, who is retired president of Kimberly-Clark and is chairman of the Governor's committee to study the state's educational system.

James Lindow, Clintonville, was the speaker at the regular Monday noon luncheon meeting this week. He spoke on his hobby of gathering ginseng. He showed leaves and roots of the plant which grows wild, but also is cultivated in private gardens.

New officers of the club will attend a Rotary Assembly and Officer Forum for District No. 22, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, at Pine Mountain, Iron Mountain, Mich. Those planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. George Zachow and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moldenhauer.

Future Recreation Plans

More Parks Called Urgent City Need

Rapid urbanization has created an urgent need for park and recreation facilities in the city of Appleton and nearby outlying areas, the city plan commission was advised Monday.

Robert Grossman of the St. Louis-headquartered planning firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates made the observation while giving a preliminary outline of the proposed park and recreation master plan to be completed by August.

The plan will take a look at existing facilities and recommend others needed in the immediate future and those on a long-range basis to meet the central city's needs through 1990.

High points of Grossman's report were that:

Needs Outlined
—Three major community parks are needed, plus development of 60 acres of Langedyke property on the far north side for park and recreation purposes.

—Additional neighborhood parks are required on the city's heavily populated north side.

—Bellaire Park provides good access to Appleton's limited waterfront and should be developed for maximum use.

—Expansion of Telulah Park on the south side should be undertaken, and Lutz Park maintained for public use and a future marina be operated by the city.

—Plamann Park should be expanded and Center Swamp developed as large regional parks, this responsibility falling on the county rather than the city.

School Playgrounds
—Public school playgrounds carried out.

Represent excellent recreation facilities and should be getting maximum usage.

—A new year-around swimming pool should be constructed at Linwood Park on the west side of the city, and the Erb and Meade Park pools be renovated into all-weather facilities.

It was the recommendation that all swimming pools be under the jurisdiction of the recreation department and also used by public schools.

Linwood Park has been mentioned in recent years as the possible site of a new pool. Recently, the park-recreation commission had the city council put the facility in the five-year capital improvement program at a cost of about $500,000 with a tentative 1970 construction date.

Grossman took note of the condition of the much-repaired Erb Park pool and said it should be rebuilt and designed as an all-weather facility. Putting so-called "bubble tops" over the pools is proving successful and the least expensive route.

Putting a dome over Meade Pool was also included in the recommendation to "provide general community benefit from these pool facilities throughout the year."

Steiger Explains Campus Reversal

'Harmful Extension of Federal Power'

WASHINGTON — Rep. William A. Steiger said today he withdrew his support from a compromise bill against campus disorders last week because he believed it "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

A member of the House Education and Labor Committee, Steiger was one of four congressmen on the committee, Steiger was one of four Congressmen on the committee who announced last week they had left a 19-16 majority in favor of the bill, turning the balance to a 20-15 opposition.

The provision Steiger previously had favored but now opposes would have withdrawn federal aid from colleges and universities if they failed to file with the U. S. Commissioner of Education a set of rules and procedures saying how campus authorities would deal with disorders.

In today's explanation of his reversal, Steiger said he "did not change my position on this bill lightly."

He said requiring institutions to file even "some sort" of code in order to receive funds "could constitute a potentially harmful extension of federal power."

Steiger said, "The bill would deny rights to others; it would deny the rights of large numbers of students who are not guilty of disrupting the campus or inhibiting the college's response to the code of conduct requirements of this legislation; and it may well serve as an aid rather than an obstacle to those who would destroy a university."

Revolutionary Tactics
"I believe that the revolutionary students would use any tactic to prevent a university

from complying with the bill."

In a statement issued June 9, Steiger explained why he then supported the bill. He described it as a compromise, against stricter proposals urging withdrawal of aid from any campus experiencing violence. Such a measure, he said, would have played into the hands of disrupters whose goal is to shut down the schools.

"There is no more effective way to shut down an institution than by withdrawing 30 to 40 per cent of its funds," Steiger said.

Instead, he then said he favored the compromise proposal, which he explained then would "simply require universities to file a set of regulations governing demonstrations with the Commissioner of Education," with withdrawal of funds the penalty or failing to file.

"It is expected that no institution will find it difficult to comply with this provision, and it will encourage them to take a careful look at their own procedures," Steiger said.

In today's statement, however, Steiger said, "fundamental responsibility for maintaining order on the campus lies with the academic community, not with the federal government."

He said he was unable to support the measure "as a Republican and one who adheres to a basic faith in the ability of individuals and organizations to work out solutions to their own problems free from governmental interference."

While he said the compromise bill was "an alternative far less severe" than proposals to withdraw all aid from a campus experiencing an disorder, Steiger said he believes, "there is a case where two wrongs do not make a right."

Overcrowded Hilbert School Prompts Additional Hiring

Board of Education to Use Present Space for 2 Years

HILBERT — Hiring of an additional kindergarten was approved by the board of education here Monday night when it was seen that an increase of 27 pupils would cause further overcrowding at the present school. Kindergarten enrollment has reached 84 for the fall, and an additional class room has become a necessity, the board found.

The board toured the school in hopes that some space could be utilized for the added enrollment and temporarily decide on the present second grade room. Renting of outside facilities for the kindergarten class was also discussed.

Update Curriculum

According to Richard Yenchiesky, newly-appointed superintendent of schools, "we are going to be very tight for space here this fall, however, we will utilize what we have and keep it going. We will probably have to utilize this building for the next two years. However, it is of utmost importance that we get good education from our teachers and get an update on our curriculum."

Stellar Pitching Features Games At New London

NEW LONDON — Tony Bovee struck out 12 batters to lead the White Sox to their fourth win of the season, while Rick Kaepernick was one out away from a no hit game for the second place Dodgers.

Kaepernick yielded a two out double to Ken Carew in the sixth inning as the Dodgers blanked the Pirates, 17-0. Carew was put out at second base as he made too wide a turn around the bag for the last out of the contest.

Bovee made one bad pitch in the game and Dave Brenske dropped it just over the fence near the left field foul line for a grand slam home run to give the Phillies a temporary 4-2 lead. The White Sox paced by lead Dave Teschke's three run homer came back to post a 15-6 win to retain its unbeaten streak.

In the only other major league game, the Orioles edged the Red Sox 7-6 behind Bruce Davis' seven strike out pitching. In the minor division, National League, the Cubs downed the Foxes, 16-10; the Badgers nipped the Colts, 8-7, and the Cats beat the Lions, 13-5.

Dave Gorges homered for the Zion United Church of Christ Colts, while Jon Rieckmann and Greg Kalbus homered for the Cats.

Wheelchair Driver Needs No License

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Lewis has been given the clearance by Florida's top trooper to speed away in his motorized wheelchair at full tilt—six miles an hour—without licenses.

Several weeks ago a state trooper pulled Lewis, 24, to the side of the road and suggested he get a license plate and a driver's license to operate his battery-driven wheelchair.

But Tuesday, Col. H.N. Kirkman, Florida Highway Patrol director, said that whether the law on licenses applies to wheelchair drivers "depends on who interprets the law," and Lewis will not be required to get one.

Swim Meet Set at Chilton

Annual Summer Event Open to Boys, Girls, Ages 7 to 18

CHILTON — The annual city swim championship, co-sponsored by the Rotary Club and recreation department will begin at 4 p.m. July 3.

All boys and girls, 7 through 18, are eligible. Age groups will be under 8 and under, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14 and 15 and over.

Ribbons furnished by the Rotary Club will be awarded in a total of 46 events, including free style, back crawl, breast stroke and butterfly.

The 1969 meet will be the sixth annual competition. Only one initial year record still stands — the 15 and over girls' 100 yard free style event — with a time of 1:39.4. Seven records have still held since 1965 and 17 records were set last year.

Boys and girls can enter the meet by listing their name and the events they wish to participate in, at the recreation office in the pool building. There is no entry fee. All entries must be made as soon as possible.

Citizen Group to Propose Police, Fire Station Site

NEW LONDON — Site recommendations for a fire and police station will be submitted to the city council by the citizen's advisory committee.

Duane Brown, chairman of a special committee, said the group's recommendations would be included in a letter which will be sent to the council within a week.

Details of the recommendations are to be released at that time.

Further study on the industrial development fund of the city and needs for the suitable industrial property are to be made and reported on at the July meeting.

The committee stated present information indicated some action should be taken in the near future to obtain and develop a suitable area for industrial development.

It was pointed out that such development would expand the tax base, provided increased employment and in general boost the economy of the city.

Police Apprehend Pair Who Ran Away From Girls Home

Two teen-agers who ran away from a Green Bay home for girls Tuesday morning were taken into custody in Appleton.

A rural Seymour man told police about 9 a.m. that he drove two girls to Appleton from near Seymour, where they were hitchhiking.

Police apprehended the girls in downtown Appleton and turned them over to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services. The girls, one 14 and from Fond du Lac and the other 15 and from Appleton, were returned to the Green Bay home.

Appleton Wants Its Name Off Oshkosh Air Listing

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A petition has been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) in Washington by the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce seeking to have Appleton removed from the Oshkosh air market designation.

Presently, the Oshkosh air market, and North Central Airlines route certificate, is listed by the CAB as "Oshkosh - Appleton." If the chamber petition is approved, the designation would simply be "Oshkosh."

John Rosebush, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber, said the purpose of the petition was to make it "more convenient for the public using air travel to distinguish between the services available between the Oshkosh and Outagamie County airports."

Both the City of Appleton and Outagamie County have joined the chamber as petitioners. The hyphenated listing is the result of a CAB ruling in 1964 which designated Winnebago County as the regional airport for the area and permitted North Central to serve Appleton from Oshkosh.

Causes Confusion
One of the major problems cited by the chamber is that many air travelers trying to reach Appleton are misdirected to Oshkosh because of the joint designation.

The chamber contends, in the petition, that "facts and circumstances existing at the time the board designated the hyphenated points no longer exist." At that time, the chamber reported, "there was a struggle between the two communities (Oshkosh and Appleton) to gain scheduled air carrier service then provided by only North Central. This resulted in a controversy involving community pride and there developed jealousies and animosities that one may expect in such a situation."

However, the chamber said, with the development of the New Outagamie County Airport and Air Wisconsin, the need for North Central service, along with the jealousies and animosities, have "dissipated."

New Situation
It is stressed in the petition that no effort was being made to reopen the 1964 case but that this was an entirely new situation. There is no attempt, the chamber said, to obtain North Central service at Outagamie County, to change North Central service at Oshkosh or to have the Outagamie County Airport designated as a regional facility. However, the chamber argues the basis for the hyphenated designation no longer serves any useful purpose.

"It is contrary to the public convenience in that it results in the misdirection to Oshkosh of persons and cargo intended for Appleton to the inconvenience, annoyance and expense of such passengers and to the shippers

Overpass at Meade Street To be Closed

Meade Street, at U.S. 41, will be closed for an undetermined period of time starting Monday for repair to the overpass over U.S. 41.

The overpass was damaged last week when it was struck by a northbound truck on U.S. 41. Damage has been estimated at up to $20,000.

Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson said efforts would be made to keep the northbound lanes of U.S. 41 open during the repair work, but they may have to be closed during the week of July 7.

If they are closed, Brownson said, northbound traffic will be detoured on County Trunk OO (old 41) between State 47 and County Trunk E (Ballard Avenue).

Pheifer Brothers Construction Co., Neenah, which did the original overpass work, also will do the repair work.

COG Study Proposed Redistricting Wards May be Considered

The Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) may be asked to make another study — this time on the makeup of Appleton's 20 wards with an eye toward redistricting.

Having the planning agency, of which Appleton is a member, conduct the study was recommended Tuesday night by the city council's welfare-ordinance committee.

Appleton now has 20 wards and 21 county supervisory districts. The committee indicated some wards would have to be changed as a result of population increases and concentrations.

and consignees of such cargo," according to information in the petition.

The chamber contends the hyphenated designation is of "no particular benefit to anyone with the possible exception of North Central Airlines and the intercity limousine and taxi services who derive some benefit from the confusion the designation causes involving misdirected passengers and cargo."

Included in the petition are exhibits giving information on the Outagamie County Airport, Air Wisconsin, and letters from area businesses indicating the air travel problems involved because of the joint Oshkosh - Appleton designation.

Now, to Live Up Your Tour...

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Miss Shirley Seiler, director of the Animal Protective Association shelter, was telling visiting Brownies Tuesday she never knows what will happen next in her work, then a nervous motorist arrived.

The motorist said a snake had crawled into the underpinnings of his car and he didn't know how to get it out.

Miss Seiler found the reptile near the base of the car radiator and lifted out the three-foot prairie king snake. "Perfectly harmless," Miss Seiler explained.

The relieved motorist drove away and the Brownies clustered around Miss Seiler to have a turn at touching the snake.

Councilmen Favor Sewer Service Charge

Appleton drew a step closer Tuesday night to putting a citywide sewer service charge into effect.

The city council's welfare-ordinance committee recommended the appointment of a three-man task force to establish guidelines for the program.

Last week the council received a preliminary report from the department of public works which indicated the city was ripe for imposing the charge.

It would mean all water users, including tax exempt properties, would have to pay the special charge.

Not in Budget
However, on the other side of the ledger, the operation of the city sewage disposal plant would no longer be included in the annual city budget or property tax rate.

The charge would be figured on a percentage of water used by every household or business.

The committee, headed by Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), agreed to "take it slow and get all the answers" before coming up with the final draft of a sewer service charge ordinance.

City Atty. David Geenen, Assistant Public Works Director Donald Bengs and Water Department Office Manager Louis Schulze were selected to establish guidelines and provide the city with detailed information on proposed rates and services.

No Objection
Schulze, also assisted secretary of the Water Commission, said he did not think the commission would object to administering the sewer service charge billings, which would appear on water bills.

"It has worked out well in other cities," Schulze said.

It was disclosed the city engineering department conducted an extensive study over the past two years which resulted in the recommendation to adopt a sewer service charge here as in some other Fox Valley cities.

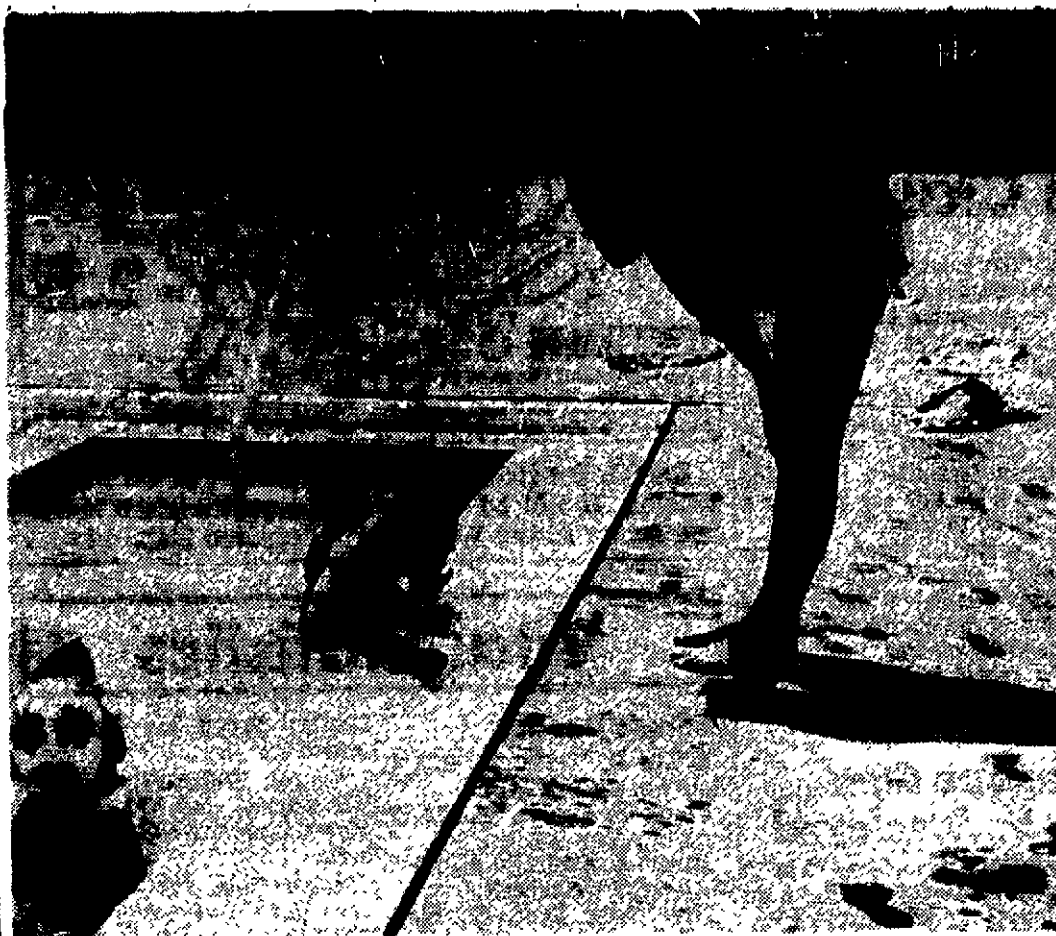

"I'm wholeheartedly for the service charge," commented Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th), who recalled sometime ago he submitted a resolution calling for establishment of a separate utility to be run by a commission.

Public Hearings
"Let's get the ordinance drafted and hold some public hearings," Thompson said. "The sooner the city gets started, the better."

Boy Injured in Fall From Bike

Kevin Hooyman, 7, 1423 Silvercrest Drive, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by the fire department rescue squad about 12:10 p.m. Tuesday after he fell from his bicycle which he was riding down a steep hill in Bel Air park.

Appleton police said the boy suffered arm and head injuries. At 4 a.m. today, the rescue squad took Herman Rehlander, 75, from his home at 818 W. Oklahoma St. to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Airport Officials Look to State for Runway Monies

OSHKOSH — Because of the unavailability of federal aids for the construction of the $360,000 north-south runway extension at the Winnebago County Airport, the state bureau of airport development, Madison, suggested a plan whereby the county could share a portion of the project.

Joseph Abernathy, director, bureau of airport development, today at a meeting of the county board's aviation committee indicated that $80,000 in state monies could be available for the 1,300 foot extension project in which the county and state could split the cost on a 50-50 basis.

Fritz Wolf of the division of aeronautics, Madison, who also attended this morning's session, urged the county to purchase remaining land needed for the runway extension, update the airport master plan and proceed with its time table for construction.

Wolf indicated to the committee that the land and engineering fees still would be eligible for federal aid.

He emphasized that after the money is granted for the project the FAA (Federal Aviation Agency), would approve the extension and reimburse both the state and the county on a portion of the $80,000.

Michael T. Brock, airport manager, said that he was informed "a little over a month ago that there would be no federal funds at present for the extension of the runway from 6,700 feet to 8,000." He also indicated that it would cost approximately $15,800 to update and do future planning on the port in the master plan.

The tightness of federal aid monies was told by Wolf when he said that the state had asked for federal aid on 13 port projects and had only received three.

Brock noted that the county already has purchased two of the five parcels needed for the development of the runway extension. All parties here today theorized that the county could go ahead with plans on the extension could be under construction late in 1970.

Supv. James Coughlin, Winne-conne, a member of the aviation committee, noted that $150,000 has been earmarked by the county for the north-south extension. Board Chairman Joseph Drexler, also a member of the committee, said the money does not appear as a budget item but the board has indicated that the money would be made available when needed for the project.

Also included as part of the project is the moving of the ILS (instrument landing system) from the east-west runway to the north-south runway, the cost of which would be borne by the federal government.

Butter Tastes Better, Taste Panel Decides

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 10-man taste panel says it has found that adding butterfat to skim milk improves flavor more than when vegetable oils are used, the Agriculture Department has reported.

Many so-called "filled milk" products include vegetable oils, which have been substituted for the natural milk fat.

NM Workers Earn $154 Per Week

NEENAH — Average weekly earnings of Twin Cities manufacturing employees during May were $154.78, down $9.94 from the April average of $164.72, according to statistics by the Wisconsin Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

The weekly earnings fell despite an increase in the average hourly wage from $3.46 in April to $3.48 in May due to a decrease in the average weekly hours from 45.0 in April to 44.4 in May.

The average weekly wage of Twin Cities workers was the second highest in the state, substantially above the average for all Wisconsin workers of $139.22. However all Wisconsin manufacturing employees averaged only 41.3 hours a week, compared with 44.4 for Twin Cities workers.

Average weekly earnings in May, 1966 were $145.30 and average hourly earnings in May 1966 were $3.22, for Twin Cities workers.

Second Feeder Lines Started In Power Link

MENASHA — Work will begin this week, according to the Menasha Water & Light Utility, to put up the second feeder line linking the steam generator plant and the interconnection substation near the city garage.

The line will follow a route along Second Street east from Tayco to Konekmac Street, north along Konekmac to Third Street, east to the extension of Melissa Street and then north to the substation near the city garage.

The lines connecting Menasha and Kaukauna electric utilities will follow the Milwaukee Road Railway right-of-way from the Melissa Street substation part of the way to Kaukauna, then follow private and highway easements.

The first of the two feeder lines from the generator plant to the substation largely has been installed, following a separate route along Third Street and Plank Road.

According to James Taylor, Menasha utility manager, a new pole line on Second Street will be put up for the feeder, and some existing wires will be transferred to the new poles to "clean up" the appearance of the overhead lines.

What Judgment Will History Pass on General Eisenhower?

Here is what Reiman Morin, two-time Pulitzer prize winner, says in the first full length, complete biography of the man:

"Eisenhower goes into history as one of the most popular of Presidents, in whom Americans recognized an earnest, kindly, sincere man of unquestionable integrity."

"As a politician he was almost unique in that he was wholly without the 'juggular instinct,' the urge to destroy an enemy; he was more prone to turn the other cheek."

"He also was one of the most selfless Presidents, less concerned with his popularity and the expedient actions that might enhance it than what he considered the well being of the United States and her allies."

"When Eisenhower came to office, bitterness and rancor divided the nation; when he left, an era of good feeling had replaced the sense of divisiveness. The credits far outweighed the debits in his presidency."

Morin's judgment is based on long professional and personal acquaintance with the general, and on a year's study and research; which included long conversations with him and with many of his associates and, best of all, access to his private letter files.

The result is a big book (8 1/2 by 11 inches, 284 pages, more than 85 pictures in black and white and color, and a 140,000 word text.)
